Plot to Murder Castro Reported by His Aides

Tibet Revolt Virtually at End, Reds Say

Peiping Angered Over Comment By Dalai Lama

Tokyo —(AP)— The Chinese communist command in Tibet claimed today it had wiped out the bulk of the Tibetan rebellion and killed, wounded or taken prisoner nearly 2,000 rebels.

The army said that the only remaining opposition was from "a few remnant bandits who have fled to remote mountainous areas."

"With the active support of the Tibetan people in those localities," the announcement said, "the troops are continuing to hunt out and mop up the scattered remnants. They will be wiped out in the near future."

Many Villages Captured

The army report, broadcast by the communist New China News agency, said that in more than 10 days of fighting the red troops had captured a vast number of villages, including "all the key points in the border area of the Loka area and in the northern ranges of the Himalaya mountains."

The Loka area is the main rebel base southeast of Lhasa. It is Tibet's border area with India and Bhutan.

The Chinese communists meanwhile flung an angry barrage of criticism at the Indian government for releasing the Dalai Lama's statement that he left Tibet voluntarily.

The charges were the most serious yet in a rapidly mounting campaign to silence Indian criticism of communist Chinese actions in Tibet.

Charge "Pressure"

The official Peiping People's Daily said, "the very act of issuing such a statement, containing wild talk about so-called 'independence for Tibet,' and the unbridled attacks on China, show that certain influential figures in India wrongly take the view that China is weak and timid and now is the time to freely exert 'pressure' on China."

The newspaper termed this a miscalculation and declared: "There can be no greater tragedy for a statement than miscalculation of a situation."

The angry outburst came after 48 hours of anti-Indian speeches on the floor of the rubber stamp people's congress in Peiping.

The communist criticism made clear that the red hierarchy felt Prime Minister Nehru's government had tried to discredit the Peiping regime.

Massachusetts State Trooper Leonard Von Flatern leaves prison block at Concord, Mass., with his face registering the grim battle he and fellow troopers had in quelling a riot at the Concord reformatory.

5 Convicts Subdued After Holding 15 Hostages 4 Hours

Massachusetts State Police Storm Prison at Concord

BY TOM HORGAN

Concord, Mass., —(AP)— Five inmates of the Concord reformatory held 15 hostages for four hours last night until a wave of state troopers ended their bid for freedom with tear gas and acetylene torches.

One of the quintet, identified as kidnaper Charles "Bull" Martin, 36, held a smuggled gun to the head of a hostage while demanding, "We want out."

Correction Commissioner George McGrath said ringleader Martin mistakenly "thought he could make it out of there through the front door with the revolver and hostages."

"This was an escape attempt, pure and simple," said Edward S. Grennan, superintendent of the reformatory, which once housed only youthful offenders but now is used for long-term adult prisoners.

Grennan said the leaders of the revolt called him twice by telephone from their temporary stronghold demanding to get out.

Panama Cache Dug Up In Beach Area

Panama National Guard Continues To Hunt for Arias

Panama —(AP)— The national guard today said it had dug up an arms cache landed on a beach 75 miles west of Panama City by Roberto Arias, fugitive husband of British Ballerina Margot Fonteyn.

Arias was still at large with most of the 10-man band the government claims landed with him at Santa Clara Sunday. The government accused Arias of trying to launch a revolution against President Ernest de la Guardia and expelled his wife from the country.

National guard patrols searched the costal strip near Santa Clara, where the Arias family, long a power in Panamanian politics, has a big estate. Roberto's father is a former president of Panama who split a year ago with the De la Guardia administration.

Letters Found

Officials said search of a beach cottage near Santa Clara turned up letters left by Arias, including one from American movie star John Wayne. Authorities said Wayne was a friend and business partner of Arias.

Asked what his principal business connection with Arias was, the actor replied: "A shrimp company. It's not just he and I—there are other people in it. But he's a big stockholder.

More Officers Assigned To Guard Cuban Premier During Visit in New York

New York —(AP)— New York police, the FBI and other agencies were alerted today to what was termed a plot by hired killers to assassinate Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Castro has been in New York since Tuesday and is due to go to Boston Saturday. Hundreds of officers have been guarding him, and more were quickly assigned to the task.

Police said Castro aides notified them of the alleged plot early today and said it involved two groups totaling seven men, none of them Cubans.

One of these groups was described as comprised of five brothers, between 28 and 35 years old, originally from Philadelphia but now Chicago residents. The other was said to consist of two men, also brothers.

Police Record

The five brothers in the former group, it was said, all have police records in Philadelphia for minor offenses such as disorderly conduct and assault.

It was reported that they might be riding in a 1957 black Chevrolet with a white top and bearing Florida license plates.

The second party of two brothers was said to be traveling in a dirty gray Cadillac with Michigan plates. One of them reportedly is called "Doc."

An alert sent to all police commands in the city stated in essence that the two groups had been paid to assassinate the Cuban revolutionary leader. It also was said that the two sets of brothers have no direct association but that the plot probably stemmed from the same source.

Whereabouts Unknown

A police official said it was not known where any of the alleged assassins are supposed to be put the report was that they would seize the first opportunity to try to kill Castro.

Port of New York authority officers were notified to watch for one or both cars approaching the city by way of the port authority's bridges and tunnels.

Deputy Chief Inspector Edward W. Byrnes, commanding Manhattan detectives, disclosed that the police, the state department and Cuban officials themselves have received numerous phone calls that attempts would be made on Castro's life.

Have Pictures

"We are in possession of a number of pictures of people who have gone under cover since Castro took over. We are definitely on the alert to prevent any attempt being made to take the life of Castro."

Byrnes said that among the photographs in police possession were those of a "number of brothers who came from different cities throughout the United States and from Cuba," and that several had criminal records.

He gave no further information to newsmen regarding them.

In alerting all commands, police took the unusual step of transmitting the information by messenger rather than sending it over the police teletype network, which links all precincts.

This was an effort to keep the matter confidential.

Castro's schedule this morning called for a visit with Mayor Robert F. Wagner. Afterward he was to attend a luncheon at the Overseas Press club.

Governor Outlines Development Plan

New Department Would Include Planning, Promotional Fields

Madison —(AP)— Gov. Gaylord Nelson presented a reorganization proposal to the legislature today and said it would put Wisconsin's planning, development and promotion activities under a new agency.

The plan, would set up a new Resource Development department.

Nelson told the lawmakers, assembled for a joint session, that the new agency would be a "clearing house" for planning and coordination.

Action Group

"It is important to recognize that the new department would do a job that is not now assigned by law to, nor adequately handled by, any present unit of state government," he said.

The department, he continued, would provide an instrument through which benefits of research and other activities would be translated into action programs. He said at least 13 state agencies now are concerned with important aspects of resource development yet none have any responsibilities in this field.

The department also would revitalize the Wisconsin idea, he said, by actively enlisting the help of the University of Wisconsin on a broad front for state development. He said private funds available to the

President Makes New Appeal for Balanced Budget

Washington —(AP)— President Eisenhower today issued a new appeal for support of a balanced budget, asserting it is vital to continued confidence in the dollar at home and essential to the maintenance of America's world leadership.

In a brief talk to the board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers, Eisenhower thanked the business group for its support of government cost-cutting and urged it to continue building public support for a sound federal financial policy.

He told the NAM that Sec. of the Treasury Anderson advised him, after Anderson's return from the international monetary meeting in New Delhi last fall, that other governments were concerned about the future soundness of the dollar.

"The secretary told me he was questioned by 21 different governments as to our ability to pay our bills and keep the dollar as sound as it needs to be if we are to be secure in keeping our alliances and making sure that the communists make no more inroads into the free world," the president said.

Menashan Dies In Car Crash

Wreck Found by Farm Wife Near Scandinavia

Waupaca — Robert Gambsky, 38, of 932 Second street, Menasha, was killed this morning when his car went out of control and crashed into a field about 1½ miles from his cottage on Peterson creek near Scandinavia.

The wreck was discovered about 7:30 a.m. today by Mrs. Chester Simonson, route 1, Scandinavia, on the family farm.

Dr. Kenneth Haman, Waupaca, deputy county coroner, said Gambsky died of a skull fracture about two hours before he was found slumped on the car floor with severe head and face injuries. It was the eighth traffic fatality in Waupaca county this year.

The county traffic patrol said Gambsky apparently lost control of the car while travel-

Ask Added Curbs On Union Leaders

Senate Writes in Clause To Safeguard Members

Washington —(AP)— Their 47-46 victory in adding a major provision to the Kennedy labor bill strengthened today the drive of senators seeking further restrictions on the power of union leaders.

By the one-vote margin, the senate wrote into the bill a requirement that union constitutions and by-laws must contain a series of provisions designed to assure the rights of individual members. It sets up criminal penalties for any union leader violating those rights.

The senate takes up today an amendment by Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) designed to assure that such labor groups as teamster union conferences are covered by provisions of the bill.

McClellan Sponsor

The amendment adopted yesterday was sponsored by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), who called it a bill of rights for labor. Among other things it would guarantee union members freedom of speech and equal voting rights, and require membership approval of any dues increase.

McClellan, chairman of the senate rackets committee, said he probably would call up next one of his amendments to add further Taft-Hartley law changes to the bill.

Chief among these are pro-

Dulles Named As Consultant

President Goes to Hospital to See Him Sworn in Washington —(AP)— President Eisenhower designated John Foster Dulles as a special consultant on foreign policy today, and attended a swearing-in ceremony in Dulles' hospital room.

The cancer-stricken former secretary of state was up and dressed—blue suit, blue shirt and blue necktie—for the occasion.

Eisenhower read a special statement. In turn, Dulles read a little statement of his own praising his successor in the state department, Christian A. Herter, and expressing gratitude to Eisenhower for the new appointment.

Eisenhower said:

"Your willingness to continue to contribute your abundant talent and unique experience to the service of the United States and the free world is but one more example of your magnificent spirit and devotion to the nation's welfare.

Activities Limited

"It is highly gratifying not only to myself and the secretary of state—but indeed to the people of the nation—to know that we both shall continue to have the benefit of your advice and counsel.

How active Dulles will be is problematical. His doctors would not permit more than a few associates and family members to attend the swearing-in ceremony at Walter Reed hospital.

But Eisenhower keeps in touch with Dulles regularly by telephone. The designation of the former cabinet member to a consultative post should be at least a morale booster.

Technically, Dulles becomes a member of the White Houses staff.

James C. Hagerty, the president's press secretary, said Dulles will have cabinet rank and will be paid $20,000 a year.

Loses His Command

Officer Who Bumped GIs Also Fined $340

Tokyo —(AP)— The bumping of seven GIs from a military plane so he could take his family on vacation to Hawaii cost Lt. Col. Charles Platt, Jr., his command and a $340 fine today.

Platt

The U. S. Air Force said that Platt, who had pleaded he was the victim of an administrative mixup in the March 26 incident, accepted the punishment meted out by his commanding officer without demanding a trial by court-martial.

The 49-year-old Brooklyn, N. Y., officer was commander of the big passenger terminal at Tachikawa Air Force base west of Tokyo. He was reprimanded and assigned to new duties, but the aid force did not announce his new job.

Platt was away on a 3-day golfing holiday and could not be reached for comment. His wife told a reporter by telephone:

"Nothing is a shock to me any more. We've been thrown to the wolves. We've been pressed so low you cannot press us any further, but all we can do is suffer in silence."

The $340 fine imposed on him was half a month's pay, the maximum permitted without a trial.

Emergency Trips

Lt. Gen. Robert W. Burns, U. S. military commander in Japan, became a hero in the eyes of enlisted men for intervening on behalf of the bumped GIs.

The seven enlisted men were hurrying on priority orders to sick or dying relatives in the United States when they were taken off a military plane. Platt, his wife and four children boarded it for a vacation flight to Hawaii.

One of the bumped GIs telephoned Burns. The general ordered the airborne plane back, yanked off the colonel and his family and gave six of the enlisted men the Platts' seats. The seventh had left the airport and flew home the next day.

An air force investigating board cleared Platt of direct blame for the bumping and said it was due to an administrative error. But Platt's "actions contributed to the confusion which caused the administrative error."

2 Rob Ohio Bank Of Over $40,000

Wooster, Ohio — (AP) — Two men carrying snub-nosed revolvers robbed the North branch of the Commercial Banking and Trust company of more than $40,000 today.

Richard Tracy, manager of the branch bank, estimated the loot. He and a teller, Mrs. Arlene Hall, were in the branch bank when the men entered.

Sgt. James Wilson of the Wooster police said it was not yet determined whether another man had waited for the pair in a get-away car.

Wilson said the robbers made Tracy hand out money from the cash drawers and then went with him to the vault to get more. They were in the bank five or ten minutes, Wilson said.

The men told Tracy and Mrs. Hall to stay in the vault for 20 minutes after the holdup or they would be shot.

Blast and Fire Destroy Plant; 3 Dead, 5 Hurt

Kansas City, Kans.—(AP)—An explosion levelled a block-long, 1-story building of the Thompson - Hayward Chemical Co. plant today.

Three men were killed and five injured.

The explosion occurred in a tank containing 3,000 gallons of weed killer and destroyed seven other tanks. The resulting spectacular blaze, on a high hilltop five miles southwest of the Kansas City, Mo., business district, was visible over most of the city.

For a time the fire threatened to spread to half a dozen other tanks, but after two and one-half hours firemen reported the fire was "contained," but would have to burn itself out.

Troops Escort Workers Into Carolina Plants

Henderson, N. C. — (AP) — Police and state troopers, outnumbering a handful of strikers, escorted a full shift of workers to their jobs at the Harriet - Henderson cotton mills today after another outbreak of violence.

The quiet scene contrasted sharply with last night when second shift workers met small arms fire, homemade flares and firecrackers.

About 250 pickets ignored a steady drizzle at the company's two plants to jeer and shout defiance at the departing workers. One picket was struck in the arm by a .38 caliber bullet. Officers said he received first aid treatment at a hospital and was released.

An unidentified woman reportedly suffered a slight head wound from a shot or a steel pellet hurled from a slingshot. An officer said she was treated at the south Henderson plant dispensary.

Delay Bill to Form Jobless Commission

Embarrassing for Democrats; Fear Passage Would Strengthen Foes Of Housing, Other Aid Legislation

Washington—(AP)—An embarrassing legislative situation is delaying house action on a senate-passed bill for a special commission to study unemployment and its remedies.

House Democratic leaders reportedly fear that establishment of such a commission now would strengthen opposition to housing, aid to depressed areas, and other bills they are pushing to create jobs. Opponents could urge a delay until the commission had time to study the problem.

Union Rally

The proposal for an 11-member commission was sponsored by senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. He advanced it initially at a national labor union rally held here three weeks ago to demand jobless aid.

Although passed by the senate two weeks ago, the bill still rests on the desk of House Speaker Ram Rayburn of Texas. It is expected to remain there for a while.

Passage of the Johnson bill once it is allowed to go to floor, does not appear to be in doubt.

A top - ranking Democrat said the problem was entirely open of timing, and added:

"If I had my way, the time would be the end of the session."

Republicans were taking obvious enjoyment in the embarrassment of their Democratic colleagues. They were not unaware that the author of it was Johnson, a potential aspirant for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said Republicans would not stand in the way of a house vote on Johnson's resolution, although he commented "I have serious misgivings about it, that it might do more harm than good."

Enthusiasm

A Democrat close to speaker Rayburn said that early enthusiasm of some Democratic liberals for the Johnson proposal now appears to have cooled off.

Legislation which could be most immediately affected by creation of the commission would be a bill authorizing more than $2 billion of loans and grants for federal housing programs.

This bill is now frozen in the house rules committee by a 6-6 voting deadlock.

Leaders confidently expect the deadlock to be broken shortly—chiefly under Republican pressures. GOP leaders are ready to let the bill go to the house because they think they have a good chance to cut it down, or if not then send it to a White House veto.

Two Convicts Moved From San Quentin

Escapees Who Held Couple as Hostages Angry Over Change

San Quentin, Calif. — (AP) — Two San Quentin convicts who held a grandmother hostage at knife-point in a dramatic escape attempt are being transferred today to other institutions.

Billy Joe Wright, 25, was ordered to Folsom, California's maximum security penitentiary. William D. Werner, 24, goes to the California Medical facility at Vacaville.

At a news conference Wednesday, both expressed anger at being sent from San Quentin prison although it meant they would not spend 29 days in solitary confinement.

Seized Couple

Wright and Werner, escaped from work details outside the walls Tuesday, and seized Mrs. Louise Gschwendt, 54, San Francisco beauty operator who was fishing on a long pier near the prison.

They also seized her companion, Doug Harrison, 62.

For six long hours they kept police at bay by threatening the couple. After surrendering, Werner and Wright paid tribute to Mrs. Gschwend's courage.

Webb, a partner in a plumbing and heating firm with his father, Raymond, disappeared April 1.

Grant county Undersheriff Robert Seemeyer and Coroner Dallas Wepking recovered the body after it was seen floating on the river near the Bayfield bridge. Wepking listed drowning as the cause of death.

Believe Body Can Take Twice Amount of Radioactive Item

Experts Rule On Dangers Of Fallout

Washington—(AP)—A committee of radiation experts says it believes the human body can safely tolerate twice the amount of radioactive strontium that earlier was thought permissible.

The report came yesterday from the national committee on radiation protection and measurement — an organization of governmental and private experts in the field.

No Official Status

The committee has no official status, but its recommendations on radiation protection standards in the past have been followed by the atomic energy commission and the U. S. public health service.

The new report raised the recommended permissible values for some radioactive materials, lessened values for others and left some unchanged. A big reduction was recommended for Cesium-137, the second most-feared product of nuclear fallout.

It was made clear that the new recommendations will in no way change the maximum permissible dose of radiation from all sources which the committee recommended in 1957.

The recommendations were drawn up specifically to apply to those working in and living near atomic energy plants, but in a general way they can be applied to all persons.

In an allied action, the committee recommended something that would mean a 20 per cent upward revision in the amount of strontium deemed permissible in milk.

Radioactive strontium is the most-feared constituent of fallout from nuclear bomb explosions because it could cause bone cancer if present in the body in sufficient amounts. The material is also a potential hazard of working in atomic energy plants, and of any exposure to wastes from such plants.

Mountain Folk Shrug Off Report of Survey

Show Little Concern Over Link Between Malformed Babies, Radioactive Rocks

BY CONRAD OLIVEN

Greenville, N. Y. —(AP)— "If there's anything to this thing of radioactive rocks and malformed babies, there's nothing we can do about it."

That's the reaction of mountain folk to a report that the radioactive rock that surrounds them may account for a higher-than - average rate of deformities in babies.

The New York state health department announced last week a researcher had found that, in areas of the state having surface radioactive rock, the malformation rate among infants was higher than elsewhere.

Vermont Line

In this northern New York area near the Vermont line, Hebron and Argyle are on the list with a high rate.

"What's got to be has got to be—nothing we can do about it," Martin Warner, 21-year-old farmer who has had a bad hip since childhood, commented to this reporter. He farms 400 acres in North Hebron, where heavy slate and shale deposits bother his tractor more than they do him, although the rock is naturally radioactive.

Many people discount the study—"they didn't prove anything definite, did they?"

Others shrug, "it's interesting. Every year we're learning a little more. Strange things happen these days.

"It's a lot of bunk," asserted John Knowlton, puffing on a cigar in his colonial restaurant at Argyle. "It's women taking too much medicine."

With him was William Coates, Argyle trash-hauler. Said he: "It's these women who work in factories that are having trouble. Women belong in the home. . .

"But maybe it's something in the air," almost as an afterthought.

More of an authority on the subject, Dr. V. K. Irvine of Granville, who has delivered babies in these parts for 24 years, said:

"Frankly, I don't hink the incidence of malformed babies is any higher here than anywhere else. I personally have had very few malformed babies."

Farm Worker Receives Three Years for Arson

Jefferson — (AP) — Maximo Garcia, a 21-year-old itinerant farm worker from San Antonio, Texas, Wednesday was convicted of arson and sentenced to three years in prison.

Husband Held for Abducting Wife

Castaic, Calif. —(AP)— A bedraggled seamstress staggered into this ranch community yesterday and told authorities her estranged husband had held her prisoner for 10 days. She said he beat and threatened to kill her.

Mrs. Kathrein Roden, 38, told deputies that her husband, Raymond, 44, forced her at gunpoint into his car, drove into nearby foothills and pitched camp. She escaped yesterday.

Roden, found sleeping in a tent, was booked on suspicion of kidnaping and assault with a deadly weapon. The husband, an unemployed tool and die maker, claimed his wife accompanied him voluntarily.

Committee Votes for Bill to Boost Beer Drinking Age to 21

Three Republicans Back Measure; Two Democrats Ballot Against It

Madison —(AP)— The senate's public welfare committee voted 3-2 today for passage of a bill to boost from 18 to 21 the beer drinking age in Wisconsin.

Three Republicans, Peter Carr, Janesville; William Clark, Vester and Raymond Bice, La Crosse, recommended that the senate pass the bill. Two Democrats, Carl Lauri, Superior, and William Moser, Milwaukee, opposed it.

A hearing on the controversial measure stirred up long and loud arguments Wednesday.

Authored by Sen. Davis Donnelly, D-Eau Claire, the measure would prohibit persons under 21 from entering a tavern or drinking beer anywhere, unless supervised by an adult.

More than 100 persons jammed the senate public welfare committee hearing on the bill.

Numerous tavern owners and representatives of the Wisconsin Malt Beverage association and University of Wisconsin students opposed the bill.

Period of Adolescense

Prof. John L. Miller, head of the University of Wisconsin's economic and sociology extension division, said the higher age limit would keep teenagers just that much longer in a period of adolescence.

He said teenagers regard the right to drink beer as "one of the milestones along the road to adulthood and maturity." Delaying that eventuality will only prolong their period of adolescence.

Churchmen and temperance leaders said a higher age limit would reduce the number of traffic accidents involving teenagers. They said most highway mishaps involving these youths resulted from drinking.

The president of the Student Association of Racine High Schools, 17-year old Stephen Bruner, said a majority of teenagers in his city favor passage of the bill.

Teenagers need a "buffer age" to free them from the influence of those who have just finished high school, he said.

Donnelly said 150 communities representing three-fourths of the state's population, now have a 21-year-old age limit through use of local option. He said 35 other states also have a similar law.

"This then is not a unique bill because it is in operation and enforced," he said.

Donnelly cited the traffic accident argument as the bill's chief defense.

Ask Changes In Boating Law

Some Interests Not Satisfied With Present Proposal

Madison —(AP)— A load of amendments designed to put Wisconsin boating laws on a truer course were dumped in the lap of a legislative committee Wednesday.

The added cargo came from boating interests who are not quite satisfied with a proposal to revise laws relating to recreational boating and adopt many provisions of the Federal Boating act.

The measure had no avowed opponents at a public hearing before the senate conservation committee.

The bill, the result of an interim boating committee study ordered by the 1957 legislature, calls for registration of an estimated quarter-million boats on Wisconsin's inland waters, and new lake and river traffic laws.

Registration Fee

A total of $100,000 financed by the annual $1 registration fee would go to the conservation commission.

The majority of amendments came from Carl Otjen of Milwaukee, a representative of the newly-formed Wisconsin Boating association, which represents 8,000 boaters.

Otjen offered 12 pages of amendments to the bill despite the plea of Sen William Trinke, (R) Lake Geneva, one of its authors, not to "load" it with proposed changes which he said would keep it from passing.

The association asked that money from the boat registration fee go only to boating interests, the mandatory use of life saving equipment and lifting of the restriction on use of boat toilets.

DAR Spends Day Electing New Officers

Washington —(AP)— The election of national officers occupied the Daughters of the American Revolution today in a long day of balloting.

Polls at Constitution hall were to be open from early morning until mid-afternoon, but results may not become known until tonight.

Both sides made advance claims to victory in the battle for the top DAR post—president general — and a dozen other offices. Terms are for three years.

Supporters of Mrs. Ashmead White, Lubec, Maine, were predicting she had the big states—New York, Pennsylvania and California — in her corner with enough votes to swing the election.

But Mrs. Ralph W. Newland, St. Joseph, Mich., buoyed by the luck of a drawing that gave her top position on the ballot, was equally sure she could win the race for the post now held by Mrs. Frederic A. Groves, Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Each heads a slate of candidates for the various national offices.

Candidate Hurt In Airport Mishap

Coldwater, Miss. —(AP)— A campaigning Democratic candidate for governor was slashed on the chest from shoulder to waist when he walked into a spinning airplane propeller Wednesday night.

Ross Barnett, 60-year-old Jackson lawyer, was taken to a hospital at Memphis, 40 miles to the north. He was reported in fair condition.

Physicians said the propeller fractured numerous ribs, but apparently there was no damage to lungs or heart.

The accident occurred after Barnett's chartered single-engine plane landed at the Coldwater airport.

Barnett has been a vigorous candidate in a 4-way race for governor. The Democratic primary will be held Aug. 4.

Southern Colony

Tranquilizers Aid Many Children At Training School, Officer Says

Union Grove—(AP)— The medical director of Southern Colony and Training school here reported Wednesday that many children in the institution have been helped by tranquilizing drugs.

Dr. Louis P. Ptacek told the state board of public welfare that many patients who previously were too disturbed to educate had become good students after being given the drugs.

Pressing Need

The board met here as part of its annual visit to state welfare and correctional institutions.

The medical director said the most pressing need of his department is a central hospital building. Such a building would permit better utilization of medical and nursing personnel, he said. He also reported that crowding has increased the problems of epidemic disease, particularly when influenza and dysentery strike.

Supt. John M. Garstecki told the board that 1,542 patients are being cared for at the colony that has a listed capacity of 1,228. He expects the population to go to 1,700 this summer.

Garstecki said that one cottage is being remodeled to provide space for 50 more cribs and that a new boiler and handling equipment in the power plant also is being installed.

A new Roman Catholic chapel, built by friars from St. Francis Monastery at Burlington and colony maintenance crews has been completed, Garstecki told the board. Funds for material and equipment were donated.

Space has been allocated for a new Protestant chapel but a start on the project is awaiting funds. Protestant services now are held in the gymnasium.

William E. Roewer, director of training, said his staff still needs occupational therapists because of the increasing number of emotionally disturbed patients coming to the colony.

French Balloonist Forced Down

Nevers, France—(AP)—Strong winds today forced a young French astronomer to give up his balloon flight for a look at the planet Venus after he had soared 42,000 feet.

Andouin Dollfuss said the attempt was worthwhile for the scientific data collected even though he fell short of his goal of 82,500 feet. He made a safe landing after six hours aloft.

Dollfuss, who rode in a sealed 1,000-pound aluminum gondola attached to a cluster of 100 10 - foot balloons, came down in a pasture.

Wearing his jaunty Basque beret, Dollfuss stepped out unhurt in the midst of a herd of cattle.

John McLean, of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company representative, explains the "Trees for Tomorrow" camp to four Appleton High school students. Park Ideas Shelved For Menominee Lands

State Unit Working on Legislation To Create New Wisconsin County

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Suggestions that the Menominee Indians reservation be purchase by the state or national governments for public park or forest purposes were shelved here Wednesday by the state Menominee Indian study commission which is preparing state legislation to complement federal law providing for the termination of federal control over the Indian community.

Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds said that the committee is now engaged exclusively upon writing state enabling legislation that will provide for a separate Menominee county and for a form of corporate ownership and management of the tribe's extensive timber holdings and related properties. Reynolds is chairman of the state group that will report to the legislature.

The attorney general said also he believes the committee report will favor the separate county and the aconomic plan submitted by the tribe's own leaders after four years of study with state government specialists.

Opposition to County

The idea of buying the 320,000 acre reservation for public purposes as a means of liquidating the Menominee's interest in the lands has been backed by some dissident members of the tribe and has been especially favored by the Oconto county government, which opposes the plan for a separate county.

Three of the reservation's 10 townships, thinly settled, lie within the present borders of Oconto county.

The committee may stay in session until the end of the week before it is able to complete its report to the legislature, members indicated.

Reynolds called it into session Monday, determined that it would sit until the legislative drafting job is completed.

The chairman has said he also is determined to write into the legislation adequate personal and property rights for the Indians.

County Library Board Created

To Study Services Offered; Get Facts For Budget Session

An Outagamie county library board was created Wednesday by the county board. Seven members will be appointed by Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer.

The board will review the library situation in the county to determine what service is offered, what is needed and facts for the county board in time for the fall budget session.

The need for a board, Fulcer explained, arose when the Appleton Library board changed from a circulation to an actual cost basis for service given outside areas. During last fall's budget session, the annual $6,500 grant the county distributes among eight city and village libraries was boosted to $9,000, mainly because Appleton asked for a $1,750 boost.

Aid Basis

For years all libraries have asked funds on the basis of circulation and the Appleton change undoubtedly will cause hikes in other library requests, Fulcer said.

The Appleton board, which last year got $6,300, has indicated to Fulcer the actual cost of serving areas outside Appleton will be about $13,000.

Board members will not be paid. They will serve three years and the board will meet every three months or oftener.

Voting against creation of the board was Maple Creek Supv. Leo Bieck and voting present was Little Chute Supv. Paul Kostka.

40 Students Selected for Forest Camp

Tree Conservation Program Sponsored By Power Company

Scholastic achievements of 40 high school students will be rewarded by an all-expenses-paid workshop at the Trees for Tomorrow Conservation camp at Eagle River, Wis.

Sophomores and juniors from Appleton, Kimberly, Weyauwega, Seymour, and Niagara are attending the 3-day camp as guests of Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The camp ends Saturday.

The group of 20 boys, 20 girls, and four teachers will study conservation of soil, forests, water, and wildlife resources on field trips under supervision of foresters, game wardens, wildlife biologists, and soil conservationists.

Appleton Youths

The Kimberly scholarship winners are Kathleen Nelessen, Barry Seidel, Barbara Bunnow, Michael Mitchell, Dennis Dresang, Mary Ellen Milis, David Hamann and Janice Vanwenhoven.

Fined for Drunkenness

Frank Rudzinski, 67, of 325 Ivory street, Seymour, has been fined $25 for drunkenness. He was arrested Saturday in Seymour.

Amateur Cameraman, Judge Really Makes His Court 'Click'

Los Angeles —(AP)—When division 63 of municipal court is in session things really begin to click.

Judge Leo Freund permits news photographers to take pictures just so they don't bother courtroom decorum. And why not? Judge Freund is an enthusiastic amateur lensman, himself.

A small camera focused on the witness stand rests on the judge's bench hidden by a paper. When Judge Freund is ready to take a picture he taps the paper lightly, quietly triggering the camera.

"I take pictures of police officers or other persons I know who are testifying," Judge Freund said. "I have even taken pictures while talking to the subject.

"And some of them are quite good."

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

Herter Enthusiastically Approved

President Eisenhower's choice of Christian Herter as secretary of state to succeed John Foster Dulles has been warmly received in America and abroad. The senate's immediate and unanimous approval was presaged by the earlier comment by members of both parties and probably represents the opinion of a majority of the people.

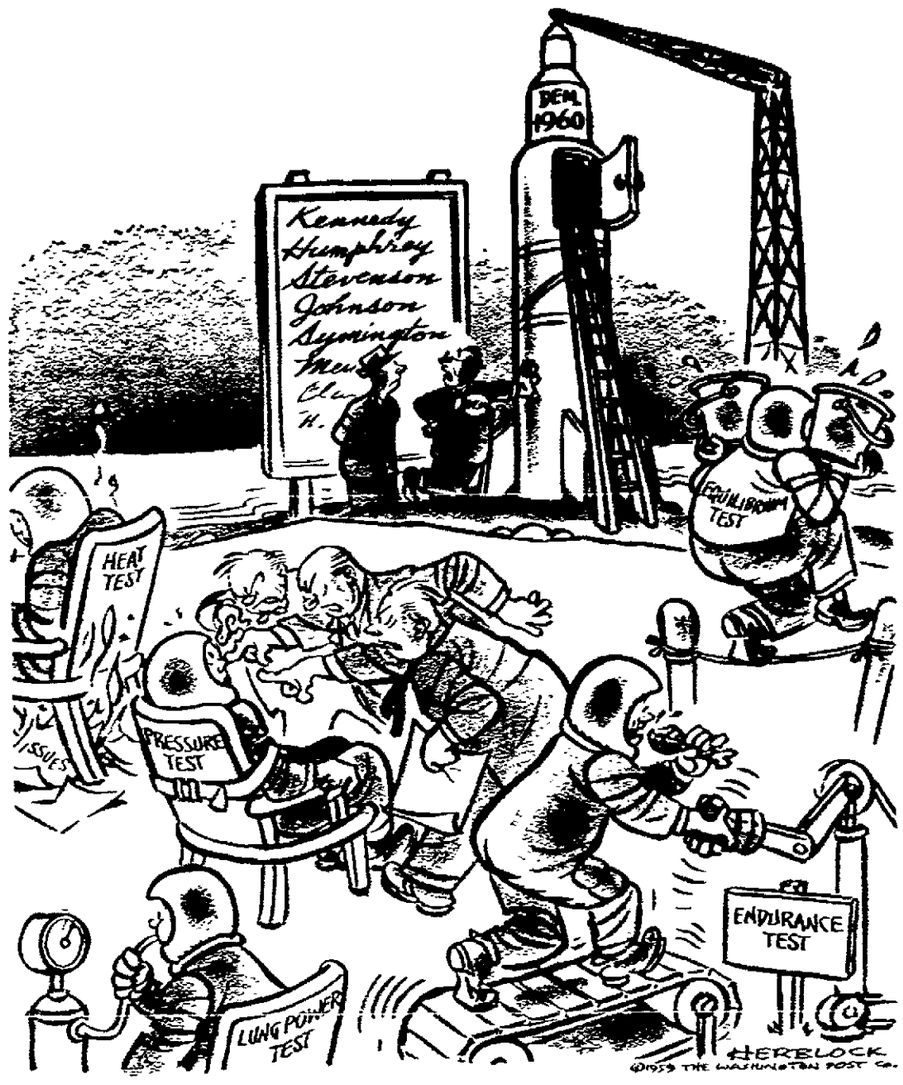

It is confidently expected there will be little change in American foreign policy as the result of this appointment. Herter has been working with Sec. Dulles as an assistant and is thus fully informed on Dulles' policy. In addition, he will in the future be working with President Eisenhower and Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Herter both are advocates of the firm hold-the-line policy against the reds.

The new secretary of state has a broad experience in the United States foreign service. He served as an attache to the American embassy in Berlin in 1916 and later was in charge of the American legation in Brussels, Belgium. He served in the state department from 1917 to 1919 as assistant commissioner and secretary of a diplomatic mission to draft a prisoner of war agreement with Germany and later as secretary of the American commission to negotiate peace. From 1919 to 1924, he served as assistant to Sec. of Commerce Herbert Hoover and was executive secretary of the European peace council in 1921. At one time he was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives and served as speaker there for four years. He was appointed under secretary of state succeeding Herbert Hoover, Jr., in February, 1957, and served there continuously until his elevation to the post of acting secretary of state a few weeks ago.

Herter also can be said to have a good understanding of all governmental problems since he was a member of congress from 1943 to 1953. During that time he was a member of the foreign affairs committee and also served on the select committee on foreign aid whose report is credited with laying the groundwork for the Marshall plan. In 1952, he was elected governor of Massachusetts. He was reelected in 1954 and retired voluntarily from that post in 1956.

The only question raised as to Herter's fitness for the office has been on the matter of health. He suffers from arthritis in his hips and is required to use canes when he gets about. However, President Eisenhower was careful to meet this objection in advance by asking Mr. Herter to submit to an examination by a physician other than his own before the appointment was made. The report of Herter's doctor as well as the one chosen for the special examination both agree that he is physically able to carry on the duties of the office.

Everyone in the west will hope that Herter does well. There is much in his career to indicate that he not only will but that he will wear well in office and get better as time goes on. He has the reputation for winning and keeping friends. This has shown up in his political career. In 1942, he was elected to congress by a margin of 2,900 votes. In 1944, his margin was 20,000 and by 1946 it had risen to 67,000. In his contest for governor he won in the election in 1952 by the narrow margin of 14,000 votes but when he ran again in 1954 he piled up a lead of 75,252. All of the events in his past life point to the conclusion that he will be successful in this, his greatest test.

'We Probably Won't Know Till the Last Minute Who We'll Put in Orbit'

Food Surpluses and Hunger

Last January President Eisenhower outlined a food-for-peace plan in a farm message to congress in which he asked for cooperation of the lands producing surplus goods. Representatives of France, Argentina, Australia, Canada and the United States will meet next month with the director-general of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization to see whether some plan to dispose of surplus wheat is feasible.

It always has seemed ridiculous that thousands of people starve to death or are seriously undernourished in some parts of the world while wheat and other valuable surpluses stack up in warehouses and taxpayers pay out more and more for unusable food. But the individual who comes up with a solution will be another Solomon. It is not simply a matter of transportation or determination of who deserves a handout and who is just lazy. Wheat given away in very many areas of the world would mean a cutting of the natural market, a subsequent drop in the normal price and demand and a rise both in the surplus and the amount required of the taxpayer for subsidy.

The conflicts don't stop with this. Substituting wheat for basic rice in Asian countries means a halt to rice producing with the loss of the market and consequent poverty and disaster. The very real humanitarian idea of feeding starving, innocent children becomes lost in economic red tape and the creation of more starving children in some other area.

Stanley Yankus may leave Michigan for Australia because he was not permitted to raise all the wheat he wanted to feed his own chickens. But regular wheat farmers in this country, although restricted, are producing in winter wheat and spring crops, about 200,000,000 bushels more than needed for all domestic and export requirements. The United States government has $3,123,019,363 invested in wheat alone, either through outright ownership or on price support loans to farmers who are unlikely to reclaim very much.

The situation is ridiculous and there is no solution in sight. Sometime responsible government authorities are going to have to decide whether this political pretense of maintaining "the family-type farm" justifies the cost.

The Timorous Legislature

The Wisconsin state assembly is indulging in the same cowardly devices employed by the senate two years ago in tampering with the laws controlling the closing hours of taverns without benefit of a recorded vote.

The assemblymen the other day shouted final approval of the measure that would permit tourist zone localities, at their option, to extend the tavern closing hour to 2 a.m. during the summer vacation season. Two years ago the senate employed the same trick to give anonymous approval to a similar bill.

There is an argument to be made on behalf of the northern hostelries under the daylight saving time arrangements that now prevail during the summer season.

They have a right to make their representations to their legislators and the legislators have a perfect right to grant their demands. But there is nothing to be said for approving such important laws without a recorded vote, and legislators have no right to employ such shabby methods in a state which has been proud of its legislative integrity and honor.

Better Pay for Good Teachers

The suggestion of the joint finance committee of the legislature that the state colleges raise only the salaries of those teachers in the lower pay brackets is completely contrary to the pay scale system of both the state colleges and the university. It overlooks incentive and remuneration according to responsibilities. It ignores the very big problem of all educational institutions in employing and retaining top men and women in their fields in competition with industry.

The state college pay scale is below that of the university, an inequity which the college regents have been trying to remedy for years. The gap has been considerably narrowed, but there still are worthy individuals on the university faculties whose salaries are considerably higher than top individuals in the state college system. Since equality of educational opportunity is the aim of both systems, under the direction of the coordinating committee for higher education, it would seem apparent that the first place to raise salaries at this point is to those teachers, administrators and heads of departments whose responsibility and ability is comparable to those at the university. While those who do the actual teaching are extremely important, so also are those who direct policy in entire departments.

Such suggestions by the joint finance committee are not new. But it represents either an ignorance by members of the committee, a failure by the college regents to get across their needs and reasons for the needs, or simply an attempt to appear on the side of those in lower brackets regardless of need or ability.

Rental Space Could Lead to All Sorts Of Revenue Sources

From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The revelation that a freshman representative from Indiana was renting his front porch to the government for $100 a month as space for his congressional office was bound to start something.

Since then it has been learned that a woman representative from Georgia, now serving her third term, has been renting her garage to Uncle Sam for $100 a month and a Louisiana representative, now in his seventh term, is drawing $100 for rent on an office he maintains in his wholesale equipment company in his hometown.

Almost any day now we expect to hear that some congressman from the middle west has been renting his silo and at least one from the New England area has been cashing in on his attic corner under the seventh gable.

Insurance Plan Good For Safe Drivers

Motorists in every state will watch with intense interest the result of the auto insurance experiment just starting in California.

Drivers without an accident or an arrest for three years will get special low insurance rates, and others will pay more. The plan is basically equitable and safe drivers everywhere will hope it proves actuarially sound.

Presidential Delegate Selection Being Reconsidered by Parties

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Some significant changes in the state's famous presidential preference primary election law are very likely to be considered seriously by the legislature now sitting.

Wyngaard

This is one of the few political matters that can be considered in a bipartisan way. The problems of political management affect both parties, and the realists in charge of them are quite willing to sit down together for their mutual advantage to consider improvements in the electoral machinery.

One of the problems that has long troubled responsible party leaders on both sides of the political system is how to assure responsible and representative delegations to national nominating conventions. There now are being heard some proposals that would aid both parties, as organizations, without affecting the rights of the voters as such.

Present practice is dangerously casual. A candidate picks his own delegate list, sometimes without much preparation or background in local affairs. Sometimes the delegates organize themselves, and get the perfunctory assent of the presidential aspirant; in either case it is pure luck of the list if it is representative of the party as a whole.

DEFECTS

The careless system has sometimes led to the election of national convention delegates with utterly no standing in their home communities — while the chosen leaders of the party organizations were denied convention badge credentials.

A plan that is getting considerable preliminary support would limit the presidential primary ballot in the quadrennial spring elections to the names of the presidential aspirants, and assign the choosing of the delegations to the party organizations.

Thus the winner of a presidential primary would have a claim upon the delegation for its support, but the delegation itself would not be bound by the responsible party organization.

Such an arrangement would be a considerable aid to building an effective party. Presumably the selection would be made in the state party conventions. Such choosing would make such conventions far more important and interesting, and correspondingly contribute to the responsibility and integrity of the parties.

As now being discussed, the delegation would be pledged to the winner of the presidential primary for a reasonable time—say for the first ballot, or even through the second ballot, but would be permitted to shift at the convention upon the majority vote of its own members. Under present practice, the Wisconsin delegation is typically bound to the candidate which elected it, even when the cause is obviously hopeless. Consequently, the state has rarely cut much of a figure in national conventions.

PUBLIC VIEW

Nor is it the identity of the delegates wholly the concern of the parties as parties. It also has some public importance. The delegate at Chicago and Los Angeles next summer will do more than nominate a candidate for the presidency for his party. He will also choose a vice president, and he will participate in writing the party platform. Those responsibilities are not considered, even indirectly, in the present method of electing the delegates as a part of expressing a preference for the presidential candidate.

National convention delegates ought to be, by definition, tried and experienced and representative spokesmen of their parties in their home districts.

But the haphazard selection machinery the state now has more often than not sends to the national convention halls men and women who would not ordinarily be considered for deputy sheriff or election board duties in their own localities.

Truck Driver Is Disgusted With 'Brats', Mothers

Editor, Post-Crescent:

A letter to so-called parents, especially mothers.

You read in all the papers about brats being picked up. I call them small angles with black wings. This wouldn't happen if so-called mothers would watch and keep their brats off the road and in their own yard. I am a truck driver. I put on a lots of miles in one week. And I stop and tell these brats to please stay off the road that they might get killed.

They call me dirty and filthy names, they swear at me. These brats are from two and four years of age and up. These mothers scream about morals, but they don't know any more about bringing up a family than savages in a jungle. It's disgusting.

Tax 'Windfall' Only Political Talk for a Change in State Policy

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I am glad that the Post-Crescent, in its editorial of April 14, "The Nelson Building Program", supports the idea of a forestry training camp for juvenile delinquents. It is praiseworthy, too, that the Post-Crescent recognizes that, "Gov. Nelson's suggested schedule of new construction at state welfare institutions and institutions of higher learning, considered alone, is a farsighted and defensible one. Most citizens can agree that these structures are necessary." And, one must add, appallingly overdue.

Why the coupling of this need with as practical a proposal by the governor as the withholding system for the collection of income taxes should be dubbed "political", however, is not clear. Since this method is used and found most efficient by the federal government and a majority of state governments (with five more states now considering its adoption), it makes good business sense, beyond political considerations. "Eventually, why not now?"

It also makes sense that since we are dragging behind our needs in buildings for important state institutions, and since most communities still need money for schools, etc., we could use the $78 million, misnamed "windfall", to make an immediate start — pending eventual overhaul of our whole tax structure — (the "impact study") for which, of course, this would be no substitute. A conservative estimate is that the withholding plan would net the state $3 million a year lost presently through tax evasions. This, during the next ten years, plus the "windfall", would pay for all the vital public welfare and state college buildings which the governor proposes in his 3 year building program. If bond issues were used as an alternative, the interest we would have to pay over the next 30 years would raise the cost by $20 million.

It should be remembered that "pay as you go" does not, as it is sometimes falsified, mean "pay double as you go." The so-called "windfall" is simply the overlap arising from the process of making the old system current . . . as though you paid the grocer more in one month because you are catching up to become current.

Far from the governor's statements on the budget "confounding the private citizen," as the Post-Crescent would have it, I must say that his whole approach (as he explained it to the League of Women Voters in Madison the other day, of reorganizing the present 120-year-old chaos of 78 uncoordinated, uncontrolled, overlapping departments to make the state's biggest business as efficient as a private business. Not in decades have we gotten such clear statements about the complexities of state finance — such unhurried, thoughtful weighing of the pros and cons in terms of our responsibility to ourselves! It would be of service to the Fox Valley if the Post-Crescent would print Gaylord Nelson's speeches to the legislature on these subjects in their entirety.

Daylight Saving Time— Why Do We Save It?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Once again as DST Hour approaches, I take my pen in hand to champion the cause of the "underdogs" — the poor souls who still don't like it. And I remind anyone with smart answers that we may have to have it, but we don't have to like it. But to be honest, most of my friends like it, and nearly all of my enemies.

However, since the cause is lost anyway, I would like to be permitted a few observations on the subject.

It is an acceptable fact, I believe, that the sun starts its day's journey in the east and ends it in the west. This, I understand, will remain unchanged, and rightly so. It is around noon that there is confusion. Formerly, when the sun was overhead it was noon, and time to eat. Now what time is it, and when do we eat? I get hungry at the same time as before, but since it's a different time by the clock now when I get hungry, I can't eat until the clock says it is time to eat which is not the same time that I am hungry because before the clock was at a different time when I was hungry. So.

My pet project and fondest hope is that our vocabulary be brought up to date to keep pace with the "changing times" and the following suggestions seem in order:

Since it is now dark when it used to be light and vice versa, daylight, an old-fashioned word, could become "daydark," and nighttime would be "nightlight." The euphony and descriptive value, as well as logic, of these words is obviously superior to that of the older terms.

One question — what are we saving the daylight for? In the winter there is hardly any of it. Why not save it for then?

"I speak the word for the early-bird—
The voice of the few has now been heard."

Board Votes Funds To Extend Runway

Long-Time Airport Foe Fischer Repeats Arguments on Location

More money to purchase land for extending the Outagamie county airport runway was voted Wednesday by the county board despite objections of a long-time foe of the port site.

The board appropriated $5,350 to add to $4,000 appropriated in February as its share of $37,400 for buying land on the east end of the runway and for engineering costs involved. State and federal governments will provide the remainder of the cost.

Fischer

Appleton Fifteenth Ward Supv. Alois C. Fischer, who repeatedly has called for relocating the port (now across Ballard road from his ward), pointed out the French road will have to be closed eventually, since it abuts the proposed east end of the runway. He added that if Convair aircraft are placed in service on Appleton flights by North Central Airlines, the runway may have to be reinforced to service the larger planes. Also, Fischer repeated, there are houses, a school, churches and a hospital in the airport area, making it hazardous.

Airport Location

"Does this mean that we are definitely leaving the airport where it is?" asked Appleton Fourteenth Ward Supv. Philip Retson.

"Yes, for now at any rate," replied Seventh Ward Supv. Mark Catlin, newly chosen chairman of the airport committee.

"There is no question of closing French road at present," Catlin explained. "It is unfortunate the question of the airport location came up now. However, I'd like to point out the county is getting a very good buy on 18 acres—$9,000 is it share and the value is there.

"Whether we move the airport or leave it where it is, the county has invested about $67,000 in property easily worth $150,000 or more.

"This $5,350 appropriation the baord is asking for now simply completes an agreement made in February. If you appropriated the $4,000 in February, you made an agreement and now you are asked to complete it, that's all," Catlin concluded.

Retson

Votes Against

The additional land will add about 1,000 feet to the existing runway.

Voting against the appropriation were Fischer, Hortonville Supv. Ira Dominowski and Oneida Supv. Fred Hill. Voting present were Retson and Grand Chute Supv. Arthur Lecker.

The board also approved an agreement with the state aeronautical agency, naming it as the county's agent in any airport improvement work. Voting against the agreement were Fischer and Dominowski.

DAR Says U. S. Bonds Don't Pay Enough Interest

Washington — (AP) — The Daughters of the American Revolution, which tags its financial affairs "big business," is turning from investment in U. S. savings bonds toward blue chip stocks and bonds.

They say Uncle Sam doesn't pay enough interest.

Miss Faustine Dennis, a Washingtonian, is in charge of finances for the 186,000-member patriotic society, whose funds—cash and investments—she tallied at $970,594.64.

But the tax-exempt DAR is worth a lot more, considering it owns such valuable property as the 4,000-seat Constitution hall and a unique collection of Americana.

Just how much the DAR plans to divert from Uncle Sam is not specified. But the funds it now has in corporate stocks and bonds total about $217,500. Uncle Sam still holds the edge on DAR investments with some $368,900 in U. S. bonds and 90-day treasury bills.

Cadillac

World's Best Synonym for "Quality"!

In every land where automobiles are seen and appreciated, the Cadillac name has become a part of the language.

In fact, it would be safe to say that "Cadillac" is now an international synonym for "quality".

What a telling tribute this is to the motor car that bears this proud name—and that has given the Cadillac ideal such widespread recognition.

And certainly, that ideal of quality has never been more clearly evident—or more beautifully delineated—than it is in the current "car of cars".

First of all, it can be seen—in the majesty of its lines and contours . . . in the regal grace of its silhouette . . . and in the jewel-like elegance of its finish and trim.

Or it can be felt—in the brilliant response of its great new engine . . . in the incredible smoothness of its ride . . . and in the ease with which it drives and handles.

It can even be sensed—in the superb taste of its interior appointments . . . and in the matchless character of its beautiful fabrics and leathers.

And yes, it can be heard—in the marvelous quiet of its operation . . . and its truly wonderful silence on even the roughest of byways.

In brief, the Cadillac name has never before represented excellence in such great measure—as a personal appraisal will amply demonstrate.

We suggest you visit your authorized Cadillac dealer soon—and view your favorite highway through the windshield of a 1959 Cadillac.

It will give you a new understanding of how truly fine a motor car can be.

When Dr. Charles H. Malik's expressive hands were not moving to emphasize a point, they were busy doodling with meaning. A line drawn here explained, a few words there emphasized a time, place or subject under discussion. The Lebanese president of the United Nations made these doodles while holding a press conference Tuesday at the Post-Crescent building.

U.N. President Malik Speaks With Unexpected Candor at Conference

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A man of the world's middle east came Tuesday to America s middle west to expound upon some of the enigmas of a jittery world. He spoke with a candor unexpected from a man attuned with international politics.

He is Dr Charles Habib Malik, president of the United Nations and assembly delegate from Lebanon, a tiny country neighbored by Syria and Israel on the Mediterranean sea

Lebanon, with an area of 4,015 square miles, is the most densely populated country of the middle east with 346 inhabitants to the square mile. (Wisconsin's 56,154 square miles contains about 63 persons each).

House Dr Malik arrived, trimly dressed in a modest, dark grey suit to serve as the first speaker of a jointly sponsored World Community series arranged by Lawrence college and Appleton Post-Crescent executives in a move which brings Wisconsin temporarily into the international big leagues.

Poses for Pictures

The man of the world walked into the room at the Post-Crescent which was pulsing with reporters from the area "Good afternoon, good afternoon good afternoon ' he said repeatedly. He posed for pictures, apologizing for his unruly hair.

"How does it look?" he asked, and then with a flat smile he said, "Ah, well, there is little I can do with it."

His hair is greying, tight with curls, and receding His face is Abrahamic for he comes from strangely mixed races of people — Semito-Hamitic, Armenian, Greek, Arab descendants of the ancient Phoenicians, most of whom now regard themselves as Arabs and are Arab speaking.

Sometimes pontifical, sometimes profound, but consistently clear and reasoning, Dr. Malik made an initial attempt to take hold of the press conference.

"Before we begin, I would like to know to whom I am speaking," he said. After detailed introductions, he answered questions at great length and in precise, professorial order, point-by-point, section-by-section.

Expressive Hands

His face was not as expressive as his eloquent hands though he smiled occasionally, sometimes with oratorical purpose and sometimes to emanate friendliness

He smiled when he said 'Americans consider their history in decades; we consider ours in millennia " To illustrate his point he told how his father, digging behind their Lebanon home found three ancient Phoenician sarcophagi, chest-shaped coffins, dating to 1700 B C

His hands move gracefully, expressively and constantly. Once they were a whole people alone from the world, once they served as an Iron Curtain and fell sharply to the table Then they rose again, liberating an eastern Europe. Again, a wide sweep of his hand clutching a rapier-like pencil suggested annihilation.

He doodled maps, brackets, words, thoughts, havoc and history on a nearby pad. ("The cradles of civilization are within only 900 miles of my home in Beirut. Thus, unless the West is completely decadent it must consider the Middle East ")

Answers Candid

Again he smiled when he ventured into a delicate question on the Iraqui "I must be careful what I say. You're taking notes. I was speaking academically, but now I am making political documents.

But the scholarly U.N. president was candid, seldom dodging a question, never bobbling one and always answering with what must have bravery.

He answered one question testily. A reporter asked if he thought the United States was being run by too many old men.

"Oh, what do you want me to say?" he complained. "Yes? Then woe is me!" But in a generality, he sought nevertheless, a response both fatalistic and harmless: "We are all growing old," he said

His accents, acquired in his 53 years of multi-lingual accomplishment, seldom included the Harvard where he took his master of arts degree in 1934 and his doctorate in 1937. He spoke of "dee west," and of "Berleen," and of being "agaynst" 'certain ideologies, and of "Septembah," but his choice of words or phrase was always discriminating and frequently superb. Once he employed the inelegant American word "fake" to specify "sham" or "false." ("The Berlin crisis is a fake crisis. I feel it is part of a total game of diversion.")

Dr. Malik's eyes are dark, somnolent and heavy-lidded. They belie his alert, mathematical mind which was ever orderly, ever disciplined and ever directly to the point.

He spoke not at all of Lebanon s strange amalgamation of peoples nor of its odd religious texture which is nearly half Christian and half Moslem in a total population of 1,383,000 Nor did he discuss the Lebanese rule that the nation's president must be Christian and its premier a Moslem.

Off the Record

But the seeming consensus of the reporters present, some of them veterans of press conferences, was that the Malik candor and direct answers were novel in a world of international political intrigue where a mis-statement may rattle in the corridors of the U. N. building for months to come.

Dr. Malik, also surprisingly, requested a 4-minute "off the record" period wherein he could speak his mind freely, and he did.

Though "off the record" statements are abhorrent to the reporter for obvious reasons, the Malik interlude was educative, succinct and clear —useful for background and comprehension.

Thus it was that the first in a World Community series augers well for the tomorrow ahead and may set the pace for deliberate honesty from men of world stature who will come to our small part of the world.

Governor Outlines Development Plan university for research could be used to solve problems now facing the state.

The reorganization plan is the second offered by Nelson since he took office in January. The first suggested changes in the conservation commission.

The new department would "stimulate ideas and research and developmental work," he said; "above all it will look at our resource development problems as a whole—not as jumbled jig-saw pieces."

Staff aides Wednesday described the proposal as one of the top measures of Nelson's administration. They said a bill incorporating the proposal would be submitted to the Assembly for introduction, probably early next week.

The measure would dissolve the division of industrial development, created in 1955 as an arm of the executive office, and the state planning division, added to the bureau of engineering in 1951. Staff, appropriations and most of the duties of both agencies would be transferred to the new department

A tax department estimate places the cost of the new department at $32,000 the first year. This would include salaries of director and a recreational specialist The director would be appointed by the governor at a salary of up to $14,000.

Advisory Group

A 15-member resource development advisory committee would also be named by the governor to advise the director of the new department.

The department would handle state building program planning, agricultural development industrial and commercial expansion, municipal development, recreational and tourist development and economic expansion of the north.

Promotional funds administered by the departments of conservation and agriculture would be affected by the change. The two agencies handle more than $500.000 each biennium. Under the proposal, expenditures for advertising and other promotion would have to be okayed by the governor and the director of the new department

Specialist In North

One of the duties of the advisory committee—if the governor's conservation commission reorganization bill is passed—would be screening applicants for posts on the state conservation commission

Under the reorganization plan, a specialist would be permanently located in northern Wisconsin to work on development of industry. mining, forestry and the vacation trade. This would be in addition to recreation specialist who would work in all areas of the state

Functions now carried out by the planning agency would be expended under the plan The agency now furnishes technical assistance to local governmental units in connection with zoning. city-and area planning, public works and development of recreational facilities.

Troopers End Prison Revolt In Bay State

the hostages with the gun and knives.

Grennan said that in addition to Martin the convicts who caused the wild disturbance were Thomas P. Carlino, 28. kidnaper; Charles Woods, 31, burglar; James Parker, 33. robber, and Peter Makarewicz. Jr., 20. who five years ago killed a 15-year-old girl at Norwood.

Authorities said that about 50 other prisoners milled about free of their cells during the uprising but took no active part in it.

McGrath said he learned that just before the siege ended Carlino snatched the gun from Martin, placed himself in front of the cell where the hostages were held and shouted·

'No one is going to harm any of these men."

No Chance to Escape

McGrath said although Carlino was one of the leaders of the revolt, apparently he wanted none of the hostages shot

The five inmates held the hostages — 13 guards and 2 civilians—for four hours before surrendering meekly. their eyes swollen by tear gas.

Their chances of getting out, from the start. were nil. Lt. Col. John C. Blake. executive officer of the state police. heading an assault force of 125 troopers. said when asked if negotiations were considered:

"I never negotiate with anyone; we were here to get them out and restore order."

The troopers swarmed in with military precision. many wearing campaign ribbons. steel helmeted. carrying riot guns and ballasted with bandoleers of cartridges and tear gas charges.

Rebels Tripped

The issue never was in doubt

The troopers drove the malcontents from first to third floor of a wing of the prison. like soldiers assaulting pill boxes. They opened steel doors with acetylene torches and finally pushed the rebels into an area from which there could be neither escape nor retreat.

Surrenders were accepted only after the prisoners stripped naked. Then they were marched to secure quarters. One trooper displayed a kitchen paring knife which he took from one of the recalitrants.

A pistol. with which Martin subjugated the hostages and marched them to the segregation section. last holdout, was not immediately found

Guard Frederick Bobola. one of the hostages. said Martin held the gun against him and pulled the trigger "It looked to me like the end. but the gun failed to go off," Bobola said

The reformatory once was used for youthful offenders. but several years ago its use was turned over to hardened adult criminals, including murderers posals to ban all secondary boycotts and to limit organizational picketing.

The vote on McClellan's bill of rights amendment was a setback for Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), who has rrgued from the start that any major floor change in his measure would endanger its chances of getting through congress.

Raps Amendment

Kennedy said yesterday that the amendment was poorly drawn and would mean "the federal government's reaching its hands into the internal affairs of unions in a completely unnecessary way "

But McClellan insisted his amendment would give needed protection to union members against thugs, racketeers and power-hungry leaders who, he said, were infiltrating more and more unions.

The amendment apparently would have been defeated if all of the Democratic votes had been on hand. Five senators were missing. all Democrats. Of these, three were announced against the amendment — Paul H. Douglas (Ill), Theodore F. Green (RI) and Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn). Only one, A Willis Robertson (Va) was announced for it J Allen Frear, Jr, (Del) did not list a position

(Sen. Wiley voted for the McClellan amendment. Sen. Proxmire opposed it).

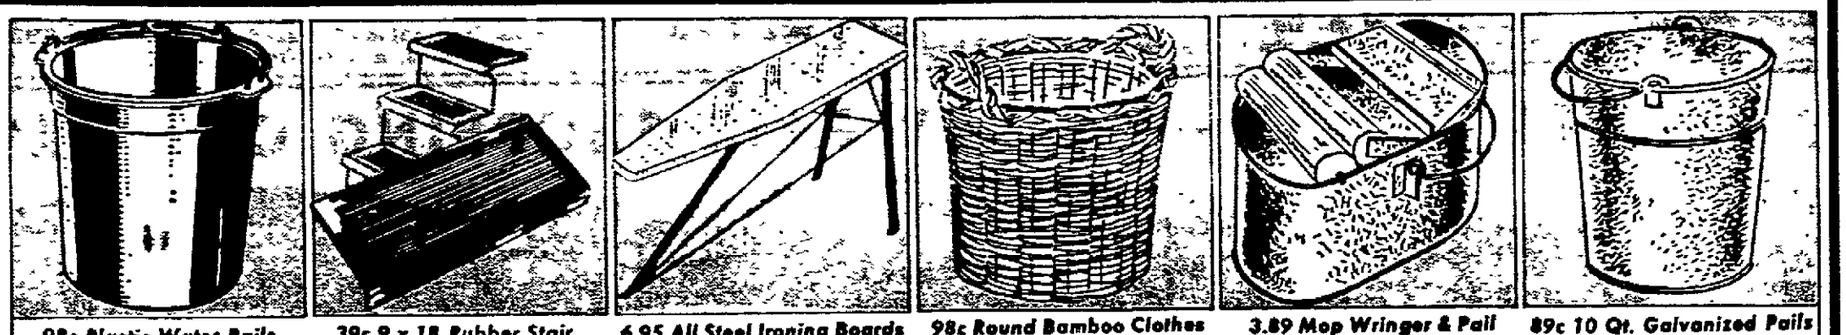

Humphrey. on a political speaking tour at the time, said in Portland. Ore. last night he was ending his western trip immediately and flying back to Washington today "to help Kennedy " Humphrey is one of the bill's co-sponsors.

Any hope Humphrey may have had of reversing approval of McClellan's amendment appeared to be doomed from the start. Backers of the amendment. intending to seal the vote, used a tabling device which Senate Parliamentarian Charles L. Watkins said would require suspension of the rules to upset.

A two-thirds vote is necessary to suspend the rules, and the 47-46 vote for the amendment indicated that such a margin would be impossible to attain.

As it was. a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats put over the amendment. Voting for it were 32 Republicans and 15 Democrats, 13 of them southerners. Opposed were 44 Democrats and 2 Republicans.

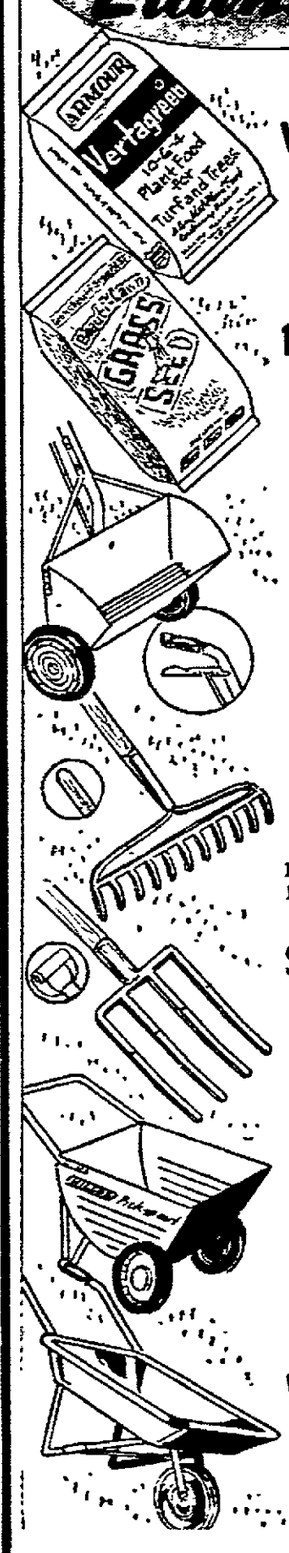

The victory was clinched with the help of Vice President Nixon. In a parliamentary maneuver to nail down the vote, the senate tied 45-45 on a motion to table reconsideration of the 47-46 tally. Nixon broke the tie to carry the motion.

Tax Chief Won't Back Withholding

Harder Bucks Nelson Despite Expiration of His Appointment

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — Harry Harder state tax commissioner and career man in the state civil service may be somebody's candidate for the capitol's "most courageous man."

Facing the expiration of his term and presumably desiring a reappointment from Gov. Gaylord Nelson and aware that an income tax withholding law is the governor's dearest wish, Harder has steadily refused to endorse such machinery as likely to provide any significant improvement in the accuracy of state revenue collections.

Members of the legislative finance committee grilled Harder on the subject again Wednesday, one of several appearances the state's chief tax collector has made before the committee deliberating the governor's proposal.

Again and again the Democrats on the committee, anxious to back up the governor's position, bore in with questions designed to elicit a concession that withholding would be preferable to the traditional payments and self-assessment.

But Harder maintained his attitude of cautious neutrality, answering all technical questions with a smile but demurring to the obvious desire to commit him on the merits of the Democrats' key fiscal objective.

Finally Assemblyman Fred Risser of Madison, presiding, asked bluntly:

"Won't withholding make for a more effective enforcement of the law?"

Harder paused then said: "If I answer that I'll be admitting that I'm doing a lousy job now."

Harder might have refuted indirectly one of the Democrats' main contentions about the virtues of tax withholding—that it will trip up many tax evaders for the enrichment of local and state treasuries.

Draheim

Replying to a query from Senator W. A. Draheim of Neenah, Harder said the state examiners now have free access to the tax records of the U. S. internal revenue service.

Thus it is virtually impossible for any taxpayer who is on the records under the federal tax withholding system to escape a state income tax bill, he explained. The only exceptions may be persons who move into the state for short-term employment, then move out.

Assemblyman Mogilka of Milwaukee, a Democrat, offered two questions and got replies from Harder that might also provide fuel for the anti-withholding forces.

Employer Tax

Harder told the Milwaukeean that there is a considerable employer delinquency in payment under the federal tax withholding system, and that he supposes there will be an equivalent delinquency under a state tax withholding act.

He also explained that less than 10 per cent of the personal income taxpayers of the state are now using the privilege of installment payment under present law. Administration spokesmen and labor leaders have insisted that the majority of wage-earners now find it difficult to pay their taxes and want weekly pay check deductions.

The finance committee Wednesday deferred action on the Nelson withholding bill. There were reports that the governor wants some delay, and to permit a mobilization of his forces. When the committee acts, it is likely to report favorably by a Democratic-Republican party line vote of eight to six.

County's CD Alert Action Report Given

Entire Village of Kimberly Joins in Practice Exercise

A detailed report of Outagamie county's participation in Friday's civil defense alert has been released by County Schultz.

Nearly the entire village of Kimberly was in readiness by the 2 p.m. reporting deadline set by Schultz, the report indicates. Director Quentin Williams reported three policemen, 24 auxiliary police, a block warden captain, Explorer Scout troop, seven village board members, an ambulance, 24 firemen, transportation officer, two inspection and cleanup men, attorney, businessmen's association, two school boards, two clerical workers, first aid center director, four registered nurses, two doctors, a medical technician, an undertaker, American Legion commander, Legion auxiliary, Catholic War Veterans, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and the industrial group ready to assist in any emergency.

Kaukauna Report

Kaukauna also had an outstanding report, Schultz said, with Director Michael Gernarz reporting ready 70 auxiliary and regular police and firemen, all hospital personnel and 65 trained first aid personnel, facilities and personnel of civic, fraternal and veterans organizations, a squad car and motorcycle, ambulance, four fire trucks, six city trucks and radiological monitoring equipment at the high school and some privately owned.

In Seymour, Police Chief Bernard Plumb reported 15 auxiliary policemen and 22 firemen alerted.

Other villages reporting were Combined Locks, with two police and seven firemen alerted, Hortonville with 15 to 20 volunteer firemen and others alerted and Little Chute with 24 auxiliary policemen alerted.

Towns Report

Towns reporting included Black Creek, six volunteer firemen alerted; Dale, 30 men alerted, telegraph and short wave radio ready to operate food and fuel for 300 to 500 people and transportation and trucks available; Freedom, 25 volunteer firemen alerted, Grand Chute, 50 men, volunteer Red Cross first aid ready and able to feed 500 in schools and American Legion hall, Hortonia, seven men ready, and Seymour, 25 volunteer firemen alerted.

In Appleton, Director Robert Beltrone could not be contacted for the 10:30 a.m. afternoon staff was ready and WHBY (the Conelrad station) had 60 days been in the exercise, the Red Cross had 100 workers ready, nine men with the U. S. Army corps of engineers were standing by, and 22 men at the American Legion were alerted for their disaster squad, water rescue boat, feeding center staffed with 12 women and emergency receiving center were alerted.

No other governmental units contacted Schultz during the alert.

Warning Given

The warning, received at 10:35 a.m. had been relayed to Chilton, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Montello, Outagamie county, Sheboygan, Wautoma and Oshkosh by the Appleton police department by 10:45 a.m.

Schultz notified Appleton, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Hortonville, Kimberly, Seymour, Combined Locks and Black Creek in six minutes, although no response was received from Black Creek or Appleton.

Alfred E. Eggert, director of the Outagamie county department of public welfare reported there was sufficient food in the county to feed about 900,000 people for 30 to 60 days.

Red Chinese Will Increase Spending

Tokyo —(AP)— Red China announced Tuesday it is increasing its military spending and foreign aid program this year. At the same time it indicated the new peasant communes are not carrying the load expected of them.

The arms budget rises 16 per cent to 5,800,000,000 yuan, which the Chinese regard as the equivalent of $2½ billion. That doesn't put China in the Big Four class, but manpower is cheap and money buys more among the red Chinese.

Six hundred million yuan, 218 per cent more than last year, is earmarked for aid to other countries. That's rated at about $260 million.

County Receives State Highway Aid Money

A check for $84,149 for state supplementary highway aids, has been received at the office of Outagamie Treasurer R. A. Bentz.

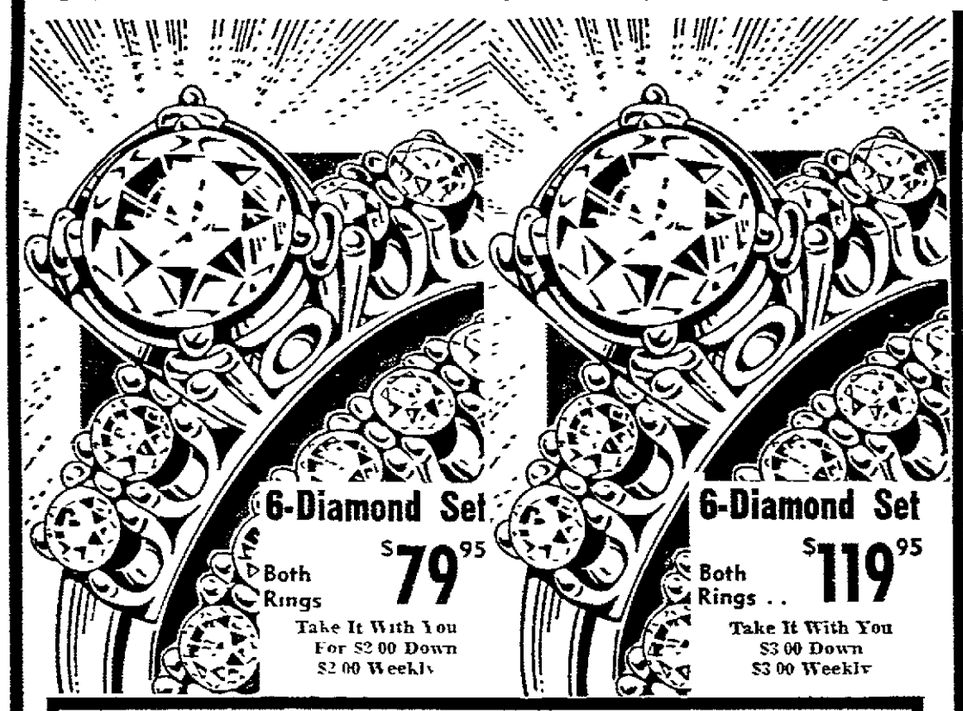

The check is the first of two installments. Benz said a second check, for about the same amount, is expected in July. Last year the county received about $161,000 in such highway aids.

Passover Foods Traditional, Symbolic

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

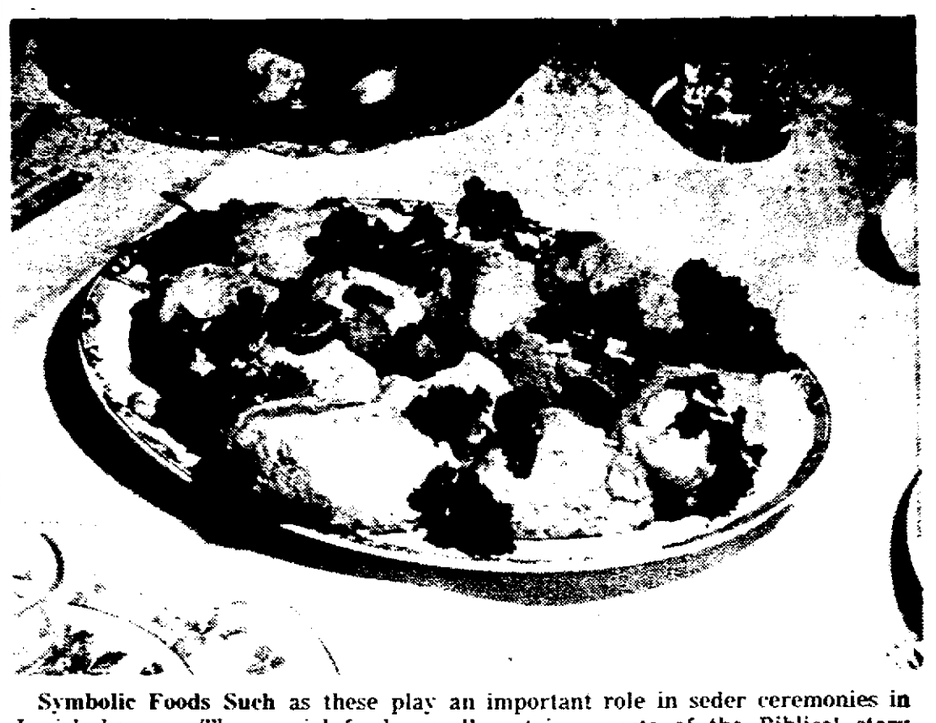

Jewish families in the Fox Cities gathered round festive tables Wednesday night for the holiday service and meal known as the seder. The simple, traditional family ceremonies followed earlier religious services at sundown that ushered in the 8-day observance of Passover. Many orthodox families also will follow the custom of holding a second seder in their homes tonight.

Jews celebrate Pesach or Passover in a spirit of rededication and rejoicing. The head of the household, or person designated, retells how ancient Hebrews toiled in bondage for the Egyptian Pharaoh, how Moses grew up in the palace unable to brook the serfdom of his people, and how he led the revolt and ultimately liberated them.

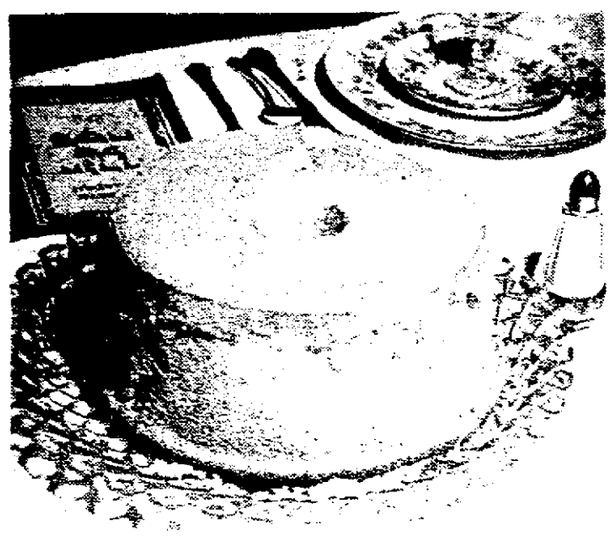

The seder commemorates the last supper held in Egypt on the eve of the exodus. Symbolical foods recall certain aspects of the Biblical story. Unleavened bread or matzos symbolizes the bread of affliction and represents the meager rations which the people prepared in their hasty departure from Egypt. The bitter herb symbolizes the bitterness of slavery and parsley reminds that Passover also marks the advent of spring and hope eternal.

At that long ago supper, charity was taught the Hebrews. They were instructed to invite their less fortunate neighbors to share their meal with them. In its modern application a prayer is uttered that ends with these words, "If there be those unable to prepare a Passover seder let them join with us and partake of ours." Another application of this rule is the collection of funds to buy matzos for poor families.

Charity as a way of life has become a fundamental in Judaism since the original seder service in ancient Egypt.

Symbolic Foods Such as these play an important role in seder ceremonies in Jewish homes. The special foods recall certain aspects of the Biblical story of the exodus of the Hebrews from Egypt and this age-old chronicle is unfolded at the festival meal by the head of the household.

Sponge Cake Is One of the popular desserts used for the supper of rich foods. Recipes frequently vary from cook to cook, but this one made by Mrs. Eli Fielkow for the family celebration includes potato starch, seven eggs, sifted sugar and the grated rind and juice of half a lemon.

Special Cooking, Bustle Mark Preparation for 8-Day Holiday

As in other Jewish homes these last few days, the household of Mrs. Eli Fielkow, 1120 N. State street, was a scene of bustling activity. Delightful, tantalizing kitchen odors of food baking, simmering and boiling was proof enough that a celebration was in the making.

The busy homemaker indeed was preparing for one of the most important holidays on the Jewish calendar—the 8-day season of Passover with its traditional foods and special home observances.

According to custom the china, glassware, silver and other materials used only for Passover had to be unpacked, washed, shined dry or polished as the case might be. Plans had to be made for 16 to 18 guests at the two family seders, traditional suppers, Wednesday night and tonight.

Wide Choice

Although Passover foods follow certain rules as to their ingredients, the menu choices during the season are wide. Mrs. Fielkow explained. Lamb, chicken, fish, matzos balls in soup, vegetables, fruits and nuts, horseradish concoctions, fluffy tortes of sponge cakes, puddings, salads are among the many dishes that often have become the special pride of the Jewish cook.

Matzos is used in numerous dishes. Mrs. Fielkow's recipe collection revealed, and the foods may be prepared from matzos meal, flour or crackers. Potato starch also is widely used in Passover recipes.

Here are a few of the recipes she graciously took time from her work to discuss:

Sponge Cake

7 eggs
1½ cups sugar, sifted
Grated rind of ½ lemon
Juice of ½ lemon
¾ cup potato starch, sifted twice
Dash salt

Separate six eggs. Beat six yolks and one whole egg together with rotary eggs beater until frothy. Gradually add sifted sugar, lemon juice and grated rind, beating constantly. Then add gradually the sifted potato starch, stirring constantly to insure thorough blending.

Beat the six egg whites until stiff but not dry. Then gently fold them into mixture.

Pour entire mixture into ungreased, regulation tube-pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for about 50 minutes.

Matzos Balls

2 tablespoons fat
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup matzos meal
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons soup stock or water

Mix fat and eggs together; mix matzos meal and salt. Add meal mixture to egg mixture and when well blended, add soup stock. Cover mixing bowl and place in refrigerator for at least 20 minutes.

Shape in balls about the size of a walnut, and drop into slightly bubbling salted water. A 2-or 3-quart kettle is used, bringing the salted water first to a brisk boil and then reducing heat until the surface is bubbling. After the dough has been dropped into the salted water, cover the kettle and cook for 30 or 40 minutes.

Have the soup to be served at room temperature or warmer. Remove matzos balls from the water and transfer to soup. When just about ready to serve, allow soup to simmer for about five minutes. This recipe makes about eight matzos balls.

Appleton Recipes

Two other delicious Passover dishes were taken from the cookbook, "Plain and Fancy," compiled by a group of Appleton Jewish women who belong to an afternoon club. Proceeds from the book go to the Appleton chapter of Hadassah and the Ladies Aid society of Moses Montefiore synagogue.

One recipe is for prune or prune-nut-apple filled Kremsleks, the contribution of Mrs. Fielkow. The other is a recipe for Gefulte Fish as prepared by Mrs. Harry Ressman, 512 N. Mary street.

The Kremsleks are a bit fussy to make since the recipe is a 3-part one, but the result is well worth the effort, according to Mrs. Fielkow.

The filling is made by mixing one-half cup of raw, chopped prunes with sugar to taste. This may be used alone or nuts and appies may be chopped into the mixture also.

A paste for this recipe is made by mixing together one-half cup honey, one-half cup brown sugar and one-half cup Passover wine. Ingredients for the basic recipe follows:

Kremsleks

1 cup water
1 cup matzos meal
2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs
pinch salt

Let water, salt and butter come to a boil in a sauce pan. Then add matzos meal. Let cool. Beat in eggs. Blend thoroughly.

This mixture is made into balls, walnut sized, with filling placed in the middle between two pieces of dough. Place dough balls in boiling, salted water and cook for five minutes.

Place in oblong baking dish. Pour paste over top of dough balls and bake in a 350-degree oven for one hour.

Gefulte Fish

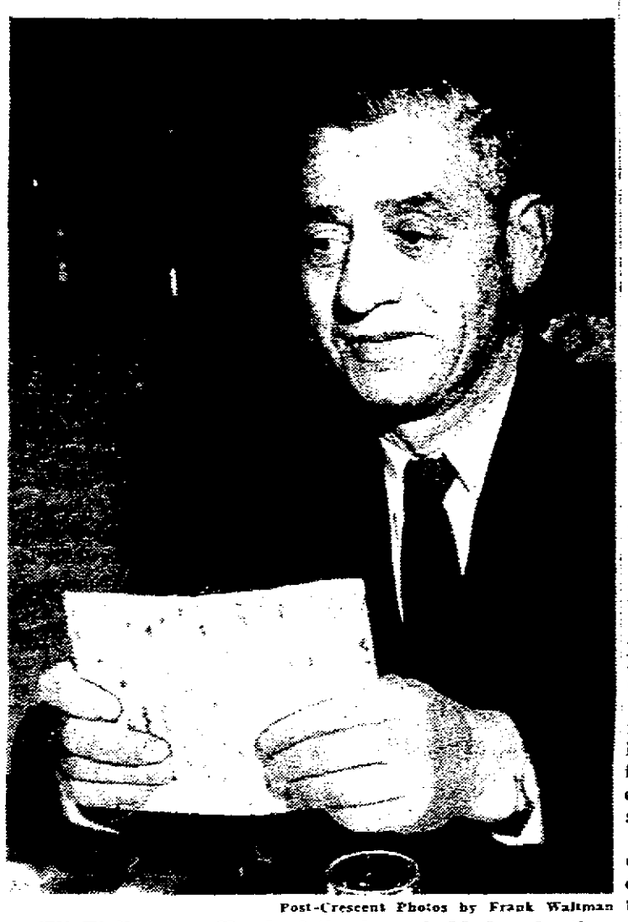

3 pounds trout
3 pounds pike
white onions carrots celery
3 eggs
1 tablespoon sugar
salt and pepper

Skin and bone fish. Take heads, bones, skin and place in the bottom of a kettle to make a nest for the fish balls.

Slice celery, carrots and a white onion over the nest.

Grind and chop the fish fillets. Add three eggs and three small, cut up onions, sugar, salt and pepper. Form medium sized balls and place on the nest prepared for them. Cover with cold water.

Cover and cook over low heat for at least one and a half hours.

Post-Crescent Photos by Frank Waltman

Eli Fielkow, as Head of the household, breaks the matzos as part of the Jewish ritual at the seder festival meal. Matzos, or unleavened bread, is the most familiar of Passover symbols for non-Jews. Eating it during the holidays is supposed to be a reminder of slavery's oppression and the individual's duties to aid in the uplift of human beings.

Sandwich Idea

Here's a catchy number that's in tune with snack time — Peanut Butter - Banana Sandwiches. With a 2-inch cookie cutter, cut circles from sliced enriched bread. Spread bread circles with peanut butter and cap each one with a banana slice that's been dipped in orange juice.

Sorority Tells Plans For Dinner

Arrangements for the annual Founder's day dinner were completed by Beta Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, non-academic sorority, Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. K. J. Dean, 1505 N. Gillett street. Co-hostesses were the Mmes. Thomas Lennon and G. E. Disney.

Mrs. George Krampien, social chairman, is being assisted by the Mmes. Fred Allen and Lennon in arranging the 7 p. m. dinner May 5, at Butte des Morts Golf club. Newly elected officers will be installed and an award presented to the member who has shown outstanding service to the chapter during the past year.

Plans were announced for a benefit card party at 7:30 p. m. May 13, at the Ambrosia room of Elm Tree bakery. Mrs. Neil Brahe, chairman, will be aided by the Mmes. Richard Fass, Clark Grecley, Alvin Woehler, A. W. Lehman, Robert Kennedy, Roy Collar and Lennon.

Featured on Tuesday's program was Miss Sue Neuman, a junior in art at Lawrence college, whose topic was "Sculpture and Modeling." She presented pictures and used live models to illustrate her talk.

Tasting Parties Teach Young Fry to Like Food

BY PHIL GUNBY

Columbus, Ohio —AP— If Johnny won't eat his broccoli, perhaps a tasting party is in order.

Researchers at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station have arranged tasting parties for 28 fourth graders as part of a study of food waste in school lunches.

After the youngsters checked off the vegetables they liked, didn't like, or had never tasted, the researchers inquired into family practices in buying, preparing and serving the vegetables. Parents also were asked if they liked the vegetables.

Vegetables Served

Then, says the study report, the three vegetables with which the children were least familiar — broccoli, rutabaga and squash — were served to them in a variety of ways.

The report said:

"As each new vegetable was presented at tasting parties, it was shown in its natural form and the children were told what part of the plant it represented.

"The students were given opportunities to read about the vegetables in the classroom and some brought samples of broccoli and squash from home. These were cooked and the class tasted them.

Like Most Familiar

"The children were also provided opportunities to suggest more appealing ways of preparing and serving the vegetables."

Generally, the report says, children ate best the vegetables with which they were most familiar and which were served regularly at home.

When relatively new vegetables were served at tasting parties and later in the school lunch program, acceptance "tended to improve with familiarity."

But, they warn:

"Children in the present study tended to slip back into a pattern of higher plate waste when the educational efforts were relaxed."

Woman Critical of Her Escort

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: While my friend (male) of long standing and I were dining at a popular spot, another couple (man and wife) I know quite well entered and occupied a table nearby. My friend had met the gentleman on one previous occasion. On leaving, we had to pass their table. My friend knew I planned to stop and say "hello" to them and I expected he would stop with me, but he walked right by them. I think he showed very bad manners. He thinks he was right to walk on. What is your opinion?

Answer: If the husband showed no sign that he remembered your friend, he would have been right in saying to you, "I'll go on ahead and get our coats and meet you in the lobby." But if he was recognized, he should have stopped with you, said good-evening, and been introduced to the wife. In any case, you should not have kept the husband standing for longer than necessary to introduce your friend and exchange a very few words of greeting.

Double Shower

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been invited to a shower that is being given for twin sisters who are to be married shortly at a double wedding. I would like to know if it is necessary to take two presents, or would one present for the bride who is my particular friend, be sufficient?

Answer: I suggest that you take an inexpensive token present for the twin you don't know well and something more important for the one who is your particular friend.

Your Problems

Male Students Ask Ann Why Some Decent Girls Look Cheap

BY ANN LANDERS

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is being written in study hall by five senior guys. We have decided to register our pet-peeve with you, in hopes you will print the letter. The general question is this: Why do some decent high school girls get themselves up like chippies and spoil their natural good looks?

There are about a dozen gals in this very room who:

(1) Wear their clothes entirely too tight.

(2) Circle their eyes with black pencil and look like Halloween spooks.

(3) Monkey with their hair either making blonde streaks or changing the color completely.

(4) Let their nails grow long like claws, then paint them silver or bright red.

(5) Drown themselves in heavy perfume that almost knocks you dead when they walk by.

You will solve a great big mystery if you can provide the answer. What are these girls trying to prove when they cheapen themselves this way?The Group

Dear Group: These girls are trying to prove they're grown up (poor things).

Thank you for writing, fellas. Such comment will mean a great deal more coming from you than from me.

DEAR ANN: I love my wife. She's a lovely woman. She's given me four fine children. But she has less sense than the kids when it comes to certain things. I need help.

If it weren't for our alert 12-year-old daughter the house would have burned down twice last year. Mom has ruined two good irons because she "forgot to disconnect them." (Thank heavens for asbestos ironing board covers) She has answered the phone and forgotten the bath water was running. If she breaks a glass or dish she'll pick up the larger pieces and then when one of the kids cuts his foot she can't figure out how it happened.

Our 4-year-old drank some cleaning fluid last year and we had to rush him to the hospital to have his stomach pumped. Mom had poured it in a pop bottle and he thought it was something good to drink.

Two weeks ago our 7-year-old fell out of the car because Mom forgot to check the doors to see that they were locked. Fortunately he was not hurt. What can I do with a woman like this?—Nervous Dad

Dear Dad: You can resign yourself to the fact that you have five children (not four) and that the oldest "child" needs watching more closely than the others.

Encourage the 12-year-old to "help" mother. Train the others to watch out for themselves and each other constantly. And check the car doors when you take your wife out—to make sure she doesn't fall out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I received my engagement ring three weeks ago and was very thrilled, naturally. We've lived in this duplex for eight years and the girl upstairs is a good friend of mine. I told her right away and her first remark was "Hooray. I get to be a bridesmaid." (I intended to ask her but I think she should have waited for an invitation.)

Yesterday she told me she'd much rather be my maid of honor. I was stunned, but I didn't let on. I'm sure she thinks it's settled. I'm afraid if I don't do something to put her in her place she'll want to be the bride next.

How can I tell her without being too blunt? She's always been a very good friend and I'd hate to have her mad at me.—Skittish

Simply tell her the final plans are being set for the wedding party, and the bridesmaids are as follows —"You, of course, and Betty, Mary and Suzy . . ."

This "Weirdie" Is Heather Downham, dressed in the latest fashion of the Chelsea set, London's Bohemian crowd. She wears a three-quarter black wool coat, short leopard print skirt, black tights and spike-heeled shoes. As one of the set expresses it, "In looking different I keep my individuality." AP Wirephoto

'Weirdies' are British Girls in Fashion Craze

London —(P)— "Weirdies" are girls — but sometimes you'd never guess it. They're part of London's latest fashion craze—the uncombed, unkempt cave woman look.

"Weirdies" try to look different.

It started in the teenage student set in the Chelsea district.

You see them scuffling along in sneaker shoes, shapeless black duffle coats, sloppy sweaters and tight skirts, or in black leather topcoats, black sweaters, and black stockings—with a darn at the heel.

No lipstick.

Heavy eye makeup.

"In looking different," said Margaret Smith, 18-year-old student, "I keep my individuality.

"I can't afford to go to Norman Hartnell (Queen Elizabeth's dressmaker) and if I go to a chain store to buy dresses, I'll only look like every other office girl

"So I strike out on my own.

"I wear makeup because I think it is mysterious and feminine I don't wear lipstick because I think it is common."

Janet Brown, 17, a student, objects to being called weird

"I may not look smart," she said, with some understatement, "but I don't think I'm dowdy.

"I feel these clothes are 'me' at the moment."

Bolshoi Ballet Puts Best Foot Forward in 'Swan Lake' Production

New York —(P)—The Bolshoi ballet, which opened its American tour last week in the Metropolitan Opera house waited till last night to put its best foot forward.

Welcomed warmly enough for their starting number, "Romeo and Juliet," these dancers were welcomed this time with real enthusiasm for "Swan Lake."

This classic is the most famous number in their repertory, and it showed them off in all their glory. Any doubts anybody had after seeing the first presentation, a contemporary work, vanished for good on this occasion.

It was a beautiful production by what proved to be, after all, a top-flight company led by a second prima ballerina, the dazzling star Maya Plisetskaya, seen for the first time outside the Soviet Union.

In details this production differs little from "Swan Lakes" done in the west, but there is a subtle and vital change in the mood. Where we, and the English strove for speed, precision and style, the Russians settle for poetry.

Miss Plisetskaya gave us a touching odette, and an Odile a little less wicked than she might have been A bit larger than Ulanova, it seemed, she is a remarkable dancer with a superb sense of style and a fine feeling for drama, too. She was called back repeatedly for bows.

Clyde Duncan, pianist from the faculty of the Lawrence conservatory of music, will be guest soloist with the Lawrence symphony orchestra in a concert at 8 15 p m Sunday in Memorial chapel Kenneth Byler is the conductor

Duncan has chosen to play a Ballade for Piano and Orchestra, dated 1939 from the pen of Frank Martin a contemporary Swiss writer Martin was born in Geneva in 1890, and is now among the most highly regarded Swiss composers A pianist himself he is on the staff of the Institut Jacques-Dalcroze His works range from opera and ballet to song, all of which he writes in an idiom uniquely his own without being theoretically experimental

Duncan, assistant professor of piano at Lawrence, was trained at the American conservatory in Chicago, from which he holds the bachelor and master s degrees in piano and composition For two periods he was able to study abroad — first at Trinity college, London, at the close of World War II while he was awaiting return to this country with the armed forces, and four years ago as a Ford foundation scholar to the Vienna, Austria, academy of music While studying in London, he became a pupil and friend of British composer Alec Rowley, who has dedicated one of his writings to Duncan.

Two of Duncan's compositions have been published — a Toccata for Piano brought out in London, and a Sonatina for Clarinet and Piano which has been printed in New York The latter was an award winner of the National Association of College Woodwind and Percussion Instrument Instructors in 1954

A number of his works have been given premieres by the Lawrence symphony, and other have been heard at the University of Minnesota festival of contemporary music, in Chicago's Kimball Hall, and under New Friends of Music sponsorship in Philadelphia

Prior to his appointment at Lawrence Duncan taught at Wheaton college in Illinois Last summer he was on the staff of St Norbert college

Other works selected by Director Kenneth Byler for the spring concert of the symphony include Schubert s Overture to Rosamunde the Prelude in E flat minor by Shostakovich transcribed by Stokowski, and the Beethoven Symphony No 8 in F major Op 93

The program is open to the public without admission charge The orchestra will play again in June at a commencement concert with senior soloists.

Appleton Appearance

Roger Williams Boxing Champ As Well as Keyboard Artist

Roger Williams

Roger Williams, who will appear in one of his brilliant piano concerts at 8:30 Tuesday evening at the Appleton High school auditorium under the sponsorship of Charity circle of King's Daughters, will have a busy day when he arrives for his Appleton appearance.

Mrs. R. D. Kewley, general chairman, announced today that the recording, concert and television star will appear in the late afternoon at an Appleton store to autograph records and albums and to meet his fans. Tickets to the evening concert will be available at the music store at that time, as well as at Belling's pharmacy, the committee said. No program will be announced for the concert as Williams prefers to introduce his numbers informally.

After the concert Williams and the rhythm group which accompanies him, "The Quiet Men," will be guests of the circle at a private reception at Butte des Morts Golf club. The reception is for members of Charity circle and their personal guests.

Exhibition of Dexterity

Concert-goers Tuesday evening have an exhibition of dexterity at the keyboard awaiting them, for Williams delights in playing one melody with his right hand, another with his left while he whistles a third, blending all in an easy-listening manner that has brought rave notices from coast-to-coast during his current concert tour. His repertoire extends from Bach to boogie, all laced together by his informal off-hand comments. He particularly invites fans to come backstage to meet him.

Williams' personal background is as varied as his musicianship. A native of Omaha, he is the son of Dr. Frederick J. Weertz, a former prizefighter who gave up the ring and became a Lutheran minister. His mother, a music teacher, was director of a symphony orchestra at Emporia State college in Kansas. When he was a baby, his father became senior pastor of St. John church, Des Moines, Iowa, which later, under his leadership, became the largest United Lutheran church in America.

Boxing Champion

Showing signs of unusual musical talent at three, he first played the piano by ear and by the time he was four he was turning out his own improvisations. While he was in high school, Williams, worried lest he be stamped as a musician and nothing else, since he conducted the school orchestra, went out for boxing and basketball and won letters in both. During vacations he worked as a lumberjack and guide in the Minnesota lake country.

Enlisting in the navy during the war, he was found to have high mechanical aptitude and was sent to Idaho State college for courses in engineering, and during his "spare" time worked with navy entertainment units and became a navy boxing champion.

After the war he met and married his wife, the former Joy Dunsmoor, Idaho state beauty queen, took his degree in 1949, received his master's degree in music at Drake and subsequently studied at Julliard in New York city. The rest his history — as a winner on an Arthur Godfrey talent scout show, he won a few dates here and there and finally attracted the attention of the recording company which brought out the fabulously successful "Autumn Leaves." That was the beginning of the big time for this Nebraska minister's son.

Culbertson on Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

South's key play in the deal below was not a safety play within the usual scope of that term, inasmuch as it did not guarantee success, but it did increase his chances.

South, dealer.

The bidding (rubber bridge):

South	West	North	East
1 D	Pass	5 D	Pass
Pass	Pass

Many players would be inclined to "fool around" with North's hand after the one-diamond opening by partner, in the hope of sounding out a slam, but particularly in view of the vulnerability, North's actual leap to game was well calculated.

It is clear enough that a heart lead by West (or the club ace with a heart shift) and reasonable follow-up defense would have beaten the contract, but the spade ten opening was more attractive from West's point of view. One round of trumps settled that matter, and South then took time out for consideration of his obvious problem.

If the missing aces were favorably located, there wouldn't be any problem, but if West had the club ace and East had the heart ace, misfortune loomed. So, after long thought, South operated as follows:

He cashed dummy's remaining spade honor, returned to his own hand with a trump, and then led the spade jack. When West failed to cover (for the best of all reasons) South let the jack ride, discarding dummy's singleton club. East took the trick and returned a club, and West, who could not read the precise club situation, covered the king with the ace. Dummy ruffed; declarer got back to his hand with another diamond, and dummy's hearts were discarded on South's good clubs.

It is true that if East had held the club ace, he could have given South a tough guess (even with the heart ace lying right) by returning a low club after winning the spade trick, but that possibility did not detract from South's line of play. At worst, South would have given East a problem of his own.

Aaron Bohrod's Paintings Show Unusual Technique

BY MARILYN LOW

"In a rather extraordinary sense, I want my work to be ordinary. . . .I want no eccentric devices. . .to prove that I am an interpreter of nature rather than an imitator of it." So spoke Aaron Bohrod in a 1944 statement whose implications have become astoundingly vivid since that time. Mr. Bohrod, whose paintings are now on exhibition at Lawrence's Worcester Art center and whose works of "magic realism" you might have seen on recent covers of Time, was at that time covering the war as an artist-correspondent for Life magazine.

Since the war, Mr. Bohrod has developed a style of painting which, if it does not compel us to label it as great, certainly demands that we marvel at the technique. The fancy word for the style is trompe l'oeil, which means "fool the eye", and Mr. Bohrod certainly does that. So realistic are the paintings and so tempting to the sense of touch, that it is necessary to post "do-not - touch" signs with the exhibit.

Unusual Subjects

For the most part, the subject matter consists of odds and ends which range from newspaper clippings to eggshells to insects, generally set against a textured background such as wood or torn paper.

The artist, it would appear, has painted them in at random, but on closer inspection a sense of composition and forethought emerges which is in actuality a highly effective and compelling factor. Suddenly these random objects take on a quality of real significance, and we find ourselves drawn into their relationships.

Nevertheless this significance is an inherent quality, not one which the artist has tried to impose from without. Mr. Bohrod, involved in a conscious reaction against the non-objective art of today, insists that he is interested only in painting a factual image of what he sees.

No Deep Symbolism

And yet he also refutes those who say he should leave such things to the camera. No matter how closely the artist approximates photography, the very brushstroke asserts his presence, and the process from object to image is one of "distillation" through the artist. And surely when we look at these paintings with any perception we know that a camera could never do this.

The works exalt human fascination with just "things." There is no deep symbolism, no conscious injection of the subconscious or neurotic — only nature and the visual, depicted with a technique whose freshness and vitality delights the eye.

The show will remain on the walls of the Worcester Art center until the end of April.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

No Uniform These

The shirtwaist dress is an all-time favorite in summer fashion collections. Around the clock, millions of lovelies will be wearing it. And therein is a danger; it could come to look like a uniform.

You take a giant step toward individuality if you select shirtwaist dresses in a version that most flatters your figure. Proven for the heavy woman are softly tailored styles with buttons from neckline to hem; with easy, straight-hanging skirts, with open necks, notched collars and self pelts or ties.

A bodice buttoned to the waist and a slim, pleated skirt is the combination for petites. Tall, slender damsels look best in designs with wide belts and full skirts.

Distinctive fabrics and colors further the you-look. For the fillip, try crisp, printed cottons by day; chiffon, silk organdy or eyelet-embroidered batiste by night. Try offbeat colors like pansy purple or mossy green. Ever and always, accessorize your shirtwaist dresses to the hilt.

By these means, you will appear delightfully different — even if six other women arrive on the scene in a shirtwaist dress!

City Schools Measure Up, Supt. Mann Says

Administrator Outlines Areas Where System Falls Short of Goals

Appleton secondary schools "match fairly well the comprehensive high school program recommended by James Conant," Supt. John P. Mann told the Kiwanis club Wednesday.

Mann

But in 14 out of 16 areas he has explored, Mann found the school system lacking The Conant report lists 21 requirements for what he calls "the comprehensive high school."

Appleton High school meets enrollment standards set by Conant (more than 100 students graduated annually), and about 5 per cent more students go on to college from AHS than the national average.

Need Counselors

The school, however, does not meet requirements for counselors. There should be one full-time counselor for each 250 students," Mann said. "We have one counselor for 900." He would like to employ more, "but this is a budgetary consideration," Mann noted.

Conant recommended every student have an individualized program and not be pushed into a curriculum labelled college preparatory or commercial. "We're not meeting this recommendation," Mann said.

Recommendations for senior high school minimum requirements also are not being met, Mann noted. "The English program is weak if anything is weak," he said.

Group by Ability

Mann noted students are grouped somewhat by ability in the Appleton school system, as is recommended by Conant, but said programs for the academically talented and programs for the extremely gifted are not adequate. "e are experimenting," he said, "but only with a few."

Students should be given a permanent record of their grades, Conant said. AHS graduates are not. At least one-half the time in English courses should be spent on composition, Conant said. "We would need a third more English teachers," Mann said.

Programs for "marketable skills" should be improved, Mann said

More Attention

Slow readers should receive more attention than the one reading consultant now is able to give, he said.

A statistical program for determining standards for the academically gifted needs attention, he added. Conant also recommends one more class period a day than is scheduled by AHS, he said.

Conant says students should not be ranked. "We've had a tendency toward ranking," Mann said But, he added, it is recommended that schools publish a list of those students who take recommended courses and achieve a B average — in commercial as well as other curricula

The developmental reading program does not measure up to standards set by Conant, he concluded

Cooler Air In Store for Fox Citians

Cloudy and somewhat colder weather is headed for Wisconsin tonight and, it appears, the weekend will be something less than perfect as far as summer - like temperatures are concerned.

Lows tonight, weathermen say, will range mostly in the 30s, with some areas in the extreme south holding in the 40s.

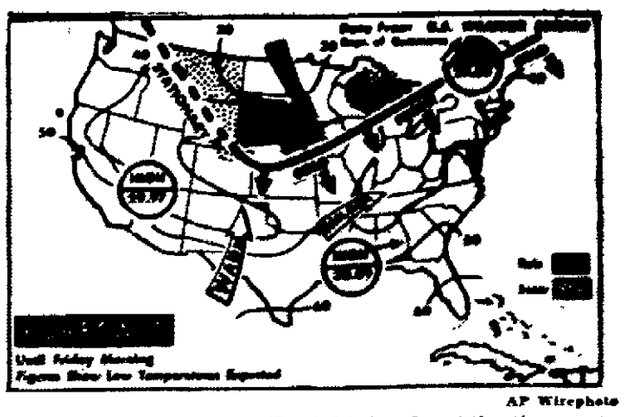

Forecasters see a chance for showers turning to snow in central and northern areas. There is no indication now how much precipitation to expect for the weekend.

Meanwhile, Fox Cities residents were enjoying some of the warmest weather of the season. The highest reading Wednesday was a pleasant 65. The overnight low was 38 and the mercury had moved back to 62 by 11 a.m. today.

Fresh southwest winds at 14 miles per hour kept the air moving most of the morning and tended to have a cooling effect.

Charge Dropped

A charge of battery against Kenneth M. Bodway, 29, 419 E. Fremont street, has been dropped in municipal court at the request of his wife, Janet, who brought the charge. He was accused of beating his wife in their home April 9

It Will Be Warmer Tonight in the Atlantic coast states and in the southern plains. It will be colder from the upper Mississippi valley to the Rockies. Snow flurries and rain are predicted for the northern Rocky mountain states and the upper Great Lakes.

Our Children

Inner Resources Can Help Fight Loneliness

BY ANGELO PATRI

Of course youth shuns advice. It does bore them, but age has a tender feeling for the young and would warn them and prepare them for the day when they discover, as they must, that they are alone in a world of people — quite alone.

On that day they learn that there is just one person on whom they must depend for help, themselves. It is then that they learn what resources they can muster within themselves. If they have none but have been in the habit of living outside themselves, they are in a bad situation and a very lonesome one.

Inner strength is a stern necessity in this life and young people have to be led to cultivate it, just as they are led to learn out of books and from people, so as to be able to earn material things.

Various Resources

Religion, some sort of faith in goodness, in the things not seen but strongly evidenced all about them. To cultivate this inner strength against the evil day, youth must be willing to do so and want to do so with determination.

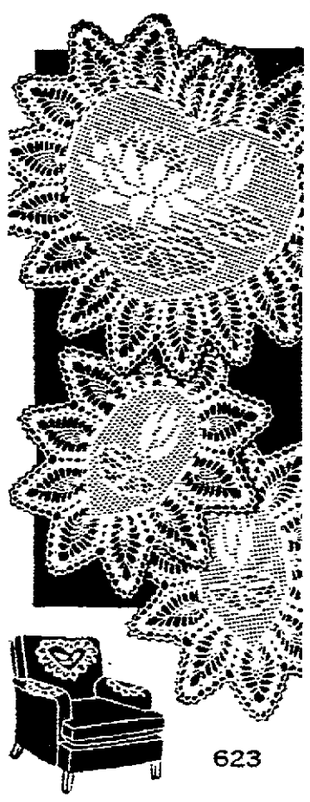

First I suggest that they follow the religion of their parents. They found it good, so it is fair to suppose their children will. Next that they learn to read and to enjoy reading. When illness strikes, when they are incapacitated, they have this wonderful resource — books.

A special interest that can be followed during the days of inactivity that are certain to come at some time or other, is an insurance against loneliness. Handwork of some sort, carving, sewing, weaving, knitting are fine skills to be cultivated

Sports are fine, but if one breaks a leg skiing, or is laid up by some misfortune, one cannot ski, nor can he race, swim or play ball. But it is likely he can use his hands if he has trained them to do something that is creative The days of health and spare time, are the ones in which to cultivate one's talents and so insure oneself against the loneliness of illness, trouble and incapacity.

One need not wait for illness to be in need of something interesting, creative or comforting to do, when one is tired, troubled, confused and worried, to have some resource of mind, hand or spirit, is to find courage and comfort and release from tensions.

16-Year-Old Sent to State Boys' School

A 16-year-old Appleton boy with a record of various criminal offenses since 1955 has been sent to Waukesha School for Boys by Juvenile Court Judge Stanley A. Staidl.

The boy will be under the jurisdiction of the state department of public welfare until he is 21.

He was sent to Waukesha after welfare authorities reported he stole a bicycle, stayed away from home, burglarized an Oshkosh home and generally refused to cooperate with county welfare department case workers.

The boy has a record including burglaries of homes, business places and a church, participation in beer parties and was sent to a special school in Michigan last year. The boy's father was ordered to pay $25 monthly to the school.

New London to Invade KHS Diamond for M-E Opener

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna High school baseball squad will open Mid-East conference play at 4 p.m. Friday meeting New London at the Dodge street diamond.

The Ghosts chalked up a 6-1 win over Freedom in a non-loop tilt last week with three pitchers looking impressive and the team showing fairly good fielding potential despite limited practice sessions.

Coach Harry Wilson is blessed with nine returning lettermen including three pitchers and with the exception of a catcher, a solid veteran infield. One of the returning pitchers also saw outfield action last year and is again slated to handle center field when not on the mound.

The Ghosts finished in seventh place last year with three wins and four defeats while the Bulldogs were winless in seven outings to place eighth. New London Coach Greg Charlesworth lost six players by graduation and is expected to field a young team this year.

Possible Starters

Coach Wilson will select a starting pitcher from Tom Frank, Leign Wachel, Tony Van Zeeland or Jerry DeBruin with either Terry Sharron or John Lambie behind the plate.

Lee Wyenberg will be at first base, Bruce Vanevenhoven at second, Ron Busse at third, Gary Vanevenhoven at short and Fred Steger, DeBruin and Jim Steger in the outfield.

Also available for outfield duty are Ken Kavanaugh, John Borree, Keith Busse and Bob Berhuis. Gary Herres is expected to start on the mound for the invaders.

Work Started On Rest Rooms At Ball Park

Engineer Drawing Plans for $5,000 Concrete Structure

Kaukauna—Robert Natrop, city engineer, is drawing up plans for rest rooms at the Dodge street baseball diamond.

Plans call for the building to be located between the baseball diamond and softball diamond, south of the tennis court. The council authorized the health and recreation committee to advertise for bids on the work after the engineer has completed the plans.

The 1959 budget has an appropriation of $5,000 for the building and provides the work is to be done with city labor. Heavy regular work loads make it impossible for the construction to be done by city crews, thus the bid advertising was accepted.

Building Change

When set up in the 1959 budget, aldermen felt the building should include shower and locker rooms for visiting teams but this plan has now been discarded.

The building will be of concrete block construction, about 12 by 20-feet in size and approximately 10 feet high. It will be situated about 50 feet from an existing sewer line so some sewer lines will have to be laid. Council members hope the project can be rushed to make the building available for the summer ball leagues.

Jesters Change Date Of Play Presentations

Kaukauna — The three 1-act plays being rehearsed by the Kaukauna High school Jesters will be presented May 19 in the school auditorium rather than April 30 as originally scheduled, according to Miss Barbara Little, club adviser.

The date was changed as the school calendar was overcrowded with events, making it difficult for the casts to have sufficient rehearsals prior to the public performance.

Winner Named In Elks Contest On Constitution

Kaukauna — Bonnie Verstegen, senior at Kaukauna High school, was named first place winner in the Elks Constitution contest sponsored by the local Elks lodge.

She represents Kaukauna High school in state competition. Miss Verstegen will receive an award from the Elks lodge in conjunction with class night activities at the school. Second and third place winners will also be announced and receive awards class night.

Seniors competing for the award take a test on the constitution. Noel Diffatte, faculty member and Elks representative in charge of the contest, stated the test was given after considerable study on the constitution under the direction of Harry Wilson and Donald Dake, instructors in the American problems class.

A. J. Courchane Hits 249 Game

Kimberly — A. J. Courchane rocked a 249 singleton and Frank Van Cuyk hit a 606 series to share the high honors in the Village league at Shy's alleys.

Schmidt Oil company and Joe's Foods tied for the second half title and in a roll-off Schmidt's won the series, two games to one.

In the roll-off Clancy Coates led the winners with a 625 series, and Paul Albers had a 591 set. For the losers Ed Van Cuyk had a 574 trio.

The league banquet will be at 6:30 p.m. tonight at Holy Name school.

'April Showers' to be Theme for 1st Dance Of New Cabaret Club

Kaukauna — "April Showers" will be the theme for the first in a series of dances planned by the recently organized Cabaret club here. The event is set for Saturday at the Elks clubrooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Winn and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Siebers will be co-chairmen for the dance. Membership in the club is limited but a waiting list is being prepared by Mrs. Jack Damro. Club officers and members of the board of directors are assisting with arrangements for the initial undertaking.

Kimberly 9 Tips St. John

Papermakers Score 8 Runs in Fifth Frame for Victory

Kimberly — The Papermaker baseball team exploded for eight runs in the fifth inning to break open a close contest and defeat St. John of Little Chute 12 to 4 here Wednesday afternoon.

The loss was the second in two days for the Dutchmen who were nipped by St. Mary's Menasha Tuesday. In two warmup games the Kimberly squad has split.

St. John grabbed a 2 to 0 lead in the first inning and held it until the third when the Papermakers went out in front with four tallies. Following the Kimberly eruption in the fifth, the Chuters came back with a pair in the sixth.

Strikes Out Seven

Jeff Vander Velden went all the way for Kimberly striking out seven, walking two and his mates backed him up with only one error in the field.

Owen Vanden Heuvel and Don Hermsen shared the mound duties for St. John. The pair allowed nine walks, hit two batsmen and the Chuters committed a pair of miscues. Five Papermakers were set down on strikes.

Tom Peerenboom had a pair of singles in two trips for Kimberly while Vander Velden had a two run triple and a single. Vander Velden held the Dutchmen to three singles the entire route.

Law to Regulate Retail Sales, Charges Opposed

State Agency Head Believes Proposal Won't Protect Buyer

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Legislation to regulate installment sales and retail charge agreements by merchandizers was opposed Wednesday by the head of the state agency which regulates loan companies and other commercial credit organizations

John Doyle told the senate judiciary committee the bill offered by leading department stores and retail merchants, is inadequate to protect the consumer.

Numerous spokesmen of licensed finance and loan companies also attacked the bill echoing Doyle's allegation that it has insufficient enforcement provisions to be useful or effective.

The measure was drawn by the Wisconsin Retail Merchants association, and was described as similar to bills that are being pushed in other state legislatures by state merchandising organizations

Doyle declared flatly the arrangements for installment sales and "revolving credit plans by many stores today and the special charges imposed for such arrangements are illegal under present laws He did not explain however, why no action has been taken against such alleged illegality.

The proposed law would define the terms of retail sales credit contracts specify maximum rates of time differential numbers of installments and other details, require that copies of the contract and insurance policies be delivered to the buyer and provide that such contracts or charge agreements provide for attorneys' fees not exceeding 20 per cent of the amounts due

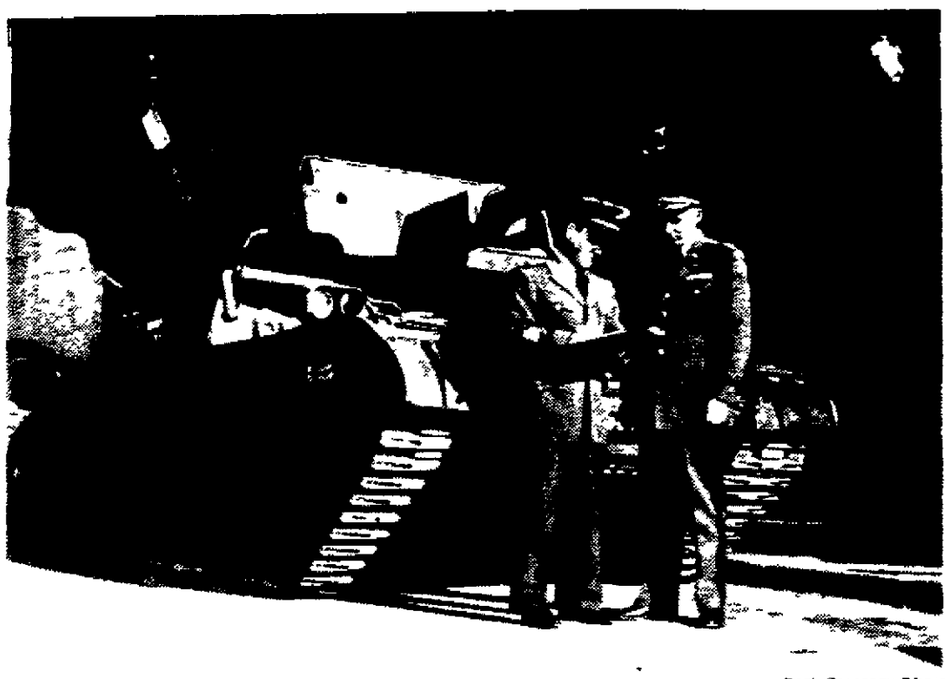

The limit of time price differential would be $12 per $100 per year from date of contract Retail charge agreements could be assessed at a rate not more than 1½ per cent per month

Merchants explained that there are some 45,000 retailers in the state who might be covered by the act They hailed installment buying as the bulwark of the nation's mass production economy and noted that the medieval Scotch, noted for their thrift, invented the device.

The retailers' spokesmen said their purpose is to provide mutual protection and fair treatment for the merchant and the buyer. There is no general law covering such credit sales agreements, they maintained

Doyle repeated his own view that usury laws cover charges for installment credit by stores He complained the retailers bill is a "camouflage and a smoke-screen to legalize the sales finance business in which they are engaged"

Doyle doubted the consumer would know precisely what his charges for installment credit are under the regulatory proposal as drafted by the stores association.

Open Records on Juvenile Crime Meets Resistance

Madison —(AP)— A proposal to open court records of serious juvenile crimes drew stiff resistance Tuesday from social workers and juvenile authorities.

Lillian A. Nitcher of Madison, representing the National Association of Social Workers, said printing names of young offenders would play into the hands of some juveniles who "commit crimes to spite their families."

Backers of the measure told the assembly judiciary committee giving newspapers and other media access to names and facts involved in such crimes would reduce the rate of delinquency.

Judge Richard W. Bardwell of Madison told the lawmakers the bill is unnecessary because serious crimes are now tried as felonies regardless of the offender's age and such case records are public. Bardwell spoke for the Wisconsin Board of Juvenile Judges.

Proponents of the bill included two of its authors, GOP Assemblymen John Crawford of Marshfield and Arnold Cane of Menasha, and W Wade Boardman of Madison, representative of the Wisconsin Daily Newspaper League.

Lawrence Says:

U. S. Obligated to Aid Castro's New Republic

To Avoid Reds, Cuba Needs Advice, Economic Overhaul

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Fidel Castro has had the limelight for several days now, but it is an open secret that his visit here has sharply increased the worry that the United States government feels about the future of Cuba

This leader Lawrence of a successful revolution gives the impression that he is a dedicated man and seeks only the good of his people but, unfortunately, Cuba's destiny is not in his hands alone If anything happened that suddenly removed him from the scene, matters would be much worse For the truth is the communists have a toehold in Cuba and have managed to infiltrate the army, the educational institutions and the labor organizations

Fidel Castro himself is not a communist but his brother Raul, who heads the army, has expressed on many occasions his communist sympathies

The big question is whether the communist underground apparatus is in a position to do great harm to the relations between the United States and Cuba The fear is that it can achieve that result if economic conditions grow worse and are exploited in a wave of anti-Americanism

Castro Right

Fidel Castro is quite right in telling of the tragic plight of his people — the vast amount of unemployment and the weaknesses in the economic structure His visit here had a profound effect in the sense that it opened the eyes of officials to the fact that the Cuban situation is far more urgent — and, indeed, more dangerous — than had been hitherto believed.

It is a time for realism Cuba cannot be allowed to fall under communist influence. The Cuban people are helpless now in view of the reign of terror recently dramatized by the execution of more than 500 alleged war criminals There is no sign of any counter-revolutionary movement But on the other hand, there is no evidence that the people are to be consulted as to what kind of policies they want adopted

The national elections, moreover are being postponed. Fidel Castro at first said they might be held in 18 months, and then he spoke of a 4-year delay He has convinced himself that the time isn't really ripe for elections and that there should first be a program that will bring stability.

Action Needed

He gave the impression here that he hadn't thought the problem through very thoroughly and could be persuaded to hasten the time for an election if circumstances seemed favorable

What policy ought the United States to pursue? Certainly the situation in Cuba should not be allowed to disintegrate through inaction at Washington The Cubans have some gripes against this country because of tariff matters especially sugar quotas There is a breakdown of confidence outside of Cuba concerning the future of capital investments there Cuba desperately needs a prop

So the best thing that could be done would be for the United States government to send a commission to Cuba to make a survey. It should be composed of economists and businessmen as well as experts in labor matters Cuba's finances should be examined and recommendations made as to what is needed to bolster the economy of the country and stimulate the creation of jobs for the idle Cuba, in short, needs a complete overhauling from the economic standpoint.

If this should involve some financial help from the United States this is a matter which surely would be given due consideration after a report is received from a commission of competent observers with a background knowledge of similar problems in other Latin-American countries.

Fidel Castro has for more than two years been living in the hills of Cuba fighting a revolution. His visit to this country probably exposed him for the first time to the dispassionate examination of the outside world He is a devoted believer in revolutionary doctrines and probably has absorbed much from his fellow-revolutionaries who are more skillful than he is in the ways of national socialism. Unhappily, the impression lingers here that Castro could be used by others and that he is naive about the tactics of communist infiltrators.

The future of Cuba is at stake The United States, as the next-door neighbor and godfather of the little republic, still has an obligation — by economic means and by disinterested advice — to help bring stability to the freedom-seeking people of Cuba.

Egg Prices Steady

Market Varies Little; Chicken, Pork Good

Little variation in food prices has taken place in Appleton during the last week Pork and chicken still are the best meat buys, and eggs are the cheapest they've been in a long while

The egg news remains surprisingly good. Prices for large, Grade A eggs range from a low of 37 cents a dozen to a high of 39 cents Prices are expected to remain low for some time, according to U S Department of Agriculture food experts.

Chicken Good

Chicken, an annual spring budget favorite, ranges from 29 to 39 cents a pound, considered a very good buy

Pork chop prices took a nosedive this week. They are 69 cents a pound on some butchers' counters Other pork prices are loin, 55 cents good quality, and pork steak, 55 cents good quality.

Ham has remained steady at 39 cents a pound for picnics and 55 cents a pound for shank halves.

Beef prices are back up to what is normal for this time of year according to agriculture experts. Some Appleton prices are T bone steaks $1 25 to $1 29, cube steak 89 cents, porterhouse $1 29, sirloin, $1 05 to $1 10, rump roast 95 cents, round steak 79 to 89 cents; chuck roast 69 to 79 cents, pot roast 55 cents, standing rib roast, 79 to 89 cents.

Veal and lamb prices remain steady, and are considered only fair buys.

On the produce shelves, there has been little change. One grocer lists good buys in lettuce at 12 cents a pound Some excellent cabbage is available at from 7 to 10 cents a pound. Red cabbage is still 15 cents a pound

Radishes are almost universally 10 cents a bunch and considered of fair quality Asparagus is from 19 to 25 cents a pound Celery is good, but considered only a fair buy at from 15 to 25 cents a bunch, depending on size

Fruit Fair

Broccoli is 19 cents a bunch, cauliflower, 25 cents a head; carrots, from 12 to 15 cents a pound, tomatoes are 19 cents a pound and some leaf lettuce is 19 cents a pound, a trifle expensive because it's early.

There still are some apples around but neither quality nor price is too attractive. A run-down on the prices reveals: golden delicious, 29 cents a pound; red delicious, 20 cents a pound; winesaps, 12 cents a pound.

White grapefruit are 10 for 59 cents and the pink variety sells for 3 for 29 cents or 2 for 29 cents.

Oranges are about the same as last week and bananas are up to 15 cents a pound.

Stratton Urges One-Half Cent Sales Tax Boost

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)— Gov. Stratton Wednesday proposed a half cent sales tax boost in submitting a 2-year Illinois budget calling for increased spending of $296 million

The budget was marked by sharply boosted outlays for educational purposes, mental hospitals and state employes salaries.

Stratton also advised the legislature to consider higher cigaret and liquor taxes, plus plugging loopholes in the sales tax law

In all, his tax program would yield an estimated $275 million more in the 1959-61 biennium if approved by the general assembly.

Stratton, in presenting the spending program to a joint legislative session, placed the over-all budget total at $2,436,549 299, about 30 per cent of which come from federal grants

He said the budget represented an increase of $296,522,395 over appropriations for the current 2-year fiscal period.

Nelson Appoints 2 To Aeronautics Body

Madison —(AP)— Gov. Gaylord Nelson announced Wednesday the appointment of two new members to the Wisconsin Aeronautics commission.

Attys Donald A. Olson of Two Rivers and Edwin Larkin of Eau Claire, were named to 6-year terms. The appointments are subject to senate confirmation.

Olson will replace Howard A. Morey, Madison, and Larkin succeeds Alvin G. Sell Ashland, whose terms end April 30, 1959.

Says Office Workers Exceed Plant Employes

Los Angeles—(AP)—Nowadays it takes more people to keep track of things than it does to turn out the work.

It's partly the government's fault, an accountant says for forcing an increasing load of paperwork on business Also responsible though, says Calvin P Andrews, is business' own need for better control

Andrews, president of the Los Angeles chapter of the National Association of Accountants, told the Southern California business show yesterday that the number of office employes now exceeds the number of factory employes.

Kleczka, Ex-Judge, Congressman, Dies

Milwaukee —(AP)— John C. Kleczka, 73, who served two terms as a Republican congressman from the Fourth district and 23 years on the Milwaukee county circuit bench, died Tuesday. Judge Kleczka, who retired from the bench in 1952 because of ill health, also served one term in the state senate, being elected in 1908 at the age of 23. He was elected to congress in 1918 and again in 1920.

Hortonville Girl Before Committee

Miss Carol Zeihm, president of the Outagamie County Teenage Safety council and a student at Hortonville High school, appeared before the state senate committee on education Tuesday in Madison on behalf of a bill which would aid high schools offering driving courses.

The assembly education committee has approved a similar bill

GOP Seeks Biennium Budget Instead of Nelson's Plan

Madison — (AP) — Assembly Republicans will attempt to substitute a biennium budget for the one-year spending program submitted by Gov. Gaylord Nelson, it was learned Wednesday.

Party leaders have been working with senate Republicans for several weeks in drafting the proposal, sources in both houses said. They plan to have it ready for introduction late Friday.

The joint finance committee version of the governor's budget was introduced in the assembly days ago. Under a gentlemen's agreement it was laid over until next Tuesday. A Friday deadline for amendment also was agreed on.

The committee version is about $940,000 less than the $194,500,000 the governor recommended. He included identical token figures for the second year of the biennium. The Democratic - controlled assembly is expected to reject the GOP substitute and adopt the 1-year plan.

Appearance of the substitute is important because, even though it is rejected in the assembly, it can be immediately re-introduced in the senate. Republicans control that house 20-13. By adopting the substitute they could force the budget bill into a joint conference committee.

Seek to Exempt More Insurance From Estate Tax

Madison — (AP) — The assembly Wednesday advanced a bill to increase from $10,000 to $20,000 the amount of life insurance exempt from the inheritance tax. In its first test vote, the assembly refused to kill it 29 to 60. The exemption would apply only to insurance payable to surviving spouses, minor children or incapacitated adult sons or daughters.

A bill to exclude unemployment compensation benefits from gross income for state income tax purposes was advanced. The bill, sponsored by six Democrats, was sent to the finance committee. It would reduce income tax revenues about $1,200,000 a year.

The assembly killed another tax exemption measure. It would have permitted deduction of tuition paid to degree-granting colleges in Wisconsin. The change would have reduced tax revenues about $200,000 a year, according to a tax department estimate.

Fremont Plans To Construct New Clinic

Building to be Ready for Use By Dr. Haselow

Fremont — Definite plans are underway to build an office clinic for the new doctor expected to come to the village in July.

Dr. John Haselow will move to Fremont with his family late in June and will begin his practice about the third week in July.

C. H. Peters and Henry Kemper were reappointed to the building committee. The two men are to appoint a third person to assist. Three sites have been picked as possible locations for the new office. Each location is in the vicinity of the village hall and all three are corner lots which should ease the parking problem.

The buying of land and the erection of a new building was brought about by a letter received from a former doctor of Fremont that his property was not available for rent. It is believed it will be cheaper to build a new building rather than purchase the residence and office. Dr. Haselow will be consulted as to location and plans of building.

Harold Olson and Irving Bauer have been appointed to the finance committee to which a third man will be added. They were requested to investigate possibilities of having from one to six persons invest in the ownership of the clinic. Two homes were suggested as being available for the doctor's home on a rental basis.

More Study For Spencer Speed, Trucks

More study on keeping W. Spencer street from the Appleton limits to Highway 41 a truck route with a 45-mile speed limit was ordered by the Outagamie county board Wednesday.

Residents had asked reduction in the speed limit and removal of trucks from the road, citing pedestrian traffic as children walk to Badger school as main reason.

The highway committee recommended no action, but the board sent the question back for committee study and ordered the committee to call in Grand Chute Supv. Arthur Lecker and a member of the county safety council.

"That road is dangerous and we need a sidewalk along the side. The road is too narrow. The county ought to be able to help us get a sidewalk along the road," Lecker, in whose town the road lies, declared.

"I don't see why the committee didn't call Lecker in. That road is too narrow, the speed limit is too high and those children are in danger when they walk to school," declared Appleton Eighteenth Ward Supv. Sylvester Esler.

"The county isn't obligated to put sidewalks along Spencer—if it did, it would have to put in walks all over the county," commented Bovina Supv. Ervin Conradt, member of the highway committee.

"It may not be obligated to put in sidewalks, but it is obligated to protect children," retorted Esler.

$5.84 Charge Set for Prospect Avenue Work

Public Hearing Slated May 20 Before Council

A special assessment of $5.84 per lineal foot of frontage will be charged for concrete paving on Prospect avenue this summer, the board of public works has decided.

A public hearing will be held before the council on May 20.

The project calls for widening and surfacing with concrete between Douglas street and a point 150 feet west of Perkins street, the city limits line.

Wieseler Low

Widening will be to 40 feet, about twice the present width. The concrete slab will be eight inches thick, resting on a 4-inch stone base and fitted into a 6-inch integral curb.

Wieseler Construction company, low bidder on the project by $27 over Ray McCarty and Sons, Kaukauna, is recommended for the contract. The firm, which also will be working on the approaches to the College avenue bridge, should be able to finish the work on time, Director of Public Works Duszynski said.

The concrete slabs will cost $56,919.80; gravel fill, $2,250; the curbs, $2,492; the stone base, $4,800; the excavation, $3,010; an 18-inch reinforced concrete storm sewer, $1,287, and a manhole, inlets and inlet pipe, $4,406.

The pavement at the city limits will drop 1½ feet to meet the surface of County Trunk BB. A dirt ramp is planned, it was explained.

Some $70,317 of the $75,164.80 total cost of Wieseler's bid was used to determine the assessment, Duszynski said. Sewer work was not charged.

There is about 1,800 feet of frontage which is not assessable, he said, and the city policy of charging only for 70 per cent of the cost of a 33-foot-wide street produces an assessment of $5.84 a foot along one side of the street, enough to return about $23,000 in assessments.

The city share reportedly will be about $33,000, because aid from the county will be applied to the overall cost. The $20,000 county aid has not been received and won't be until the project is completed.

Italy's Jobless Problem

Government Trying Hard To Find Enduring Solution

BY SAM DAWSON

Rome—(AP)—Unemployment is today's most stubborn problem in the United States. It's the biggest bugaboo in Italy, too.

The chief similarities: In both countries there are pockets of joblessness and women are a growing part of the labor force.

The chief differences: 1. U. S. pockets are mostly in industrial areas hard hit by the recession and where recovery has brought greater revival in production than in rehiring. Italian pockets are largely geographic rather than industrial. 2. The U. S. government intervened only in moderation. The Italian government is making heroic efforts — some with the help of American dollars — to alleviate a much more permanent problem.

The industrial recession touched Italy lightly compared to the sharp drop in the United States. Industrial unemployment rose only slightly here. Industrial recovery was quick in the United States; Italian industrial output is rising, but at a slow pace.

South Hardest Hit

Chronic unemployment is mostly in the south of Italy, where industry now is making a tentative entry, nudged along by a worried government.

Its chief efforts are two: To rebuild agriculture through power projects, irrigation, and advanced techniques and to get the crowded and impoverishment population either into northern Italian factories or into jobs in other countries.

The first calls for training and education, a long, slow process at best.

The second may be helped by the common market. The six member nations—Italy, France, West Germany, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg — have pledged that when it gets fully going laborers can move freely from one country to another.

Northern Europe long has used Italian workers. Italy, for example, was just as concerned as Germany and Belgium when the great flow of American coal to Europe, which gave the American coal industry one of the few shots in the arm in recent years, seemed likely to close down European coal mines. Many Italians in Belgium would have been thrown out of work. The flow has stopped and they're still working.

Would Export Labor

Italy hopes that with common market it can export more of its jobless to other member nations. But it has some fears. It notes that France, before the Algerian crisis, tended to rely more on North African laborers. And other nations have their colonials or former colonials to favor.

At present the relation of the jobless in Italy to the total labor force is much like the ration in the U. S. at the depth of the recession.

Despite the emigration of 750,000 Italians isnce 1950 and a steady rise in total employment, unemployment stays around 7 per cent of the labor force. The reasons: A slow but steady increase in population; farmers leaving the land to look for factory jobs and the emancipation of women.

Italy has almost two million classed as permanently unemployed, plus some 258,000 working less than 15 hours a week, and more than one million farm laborers working less than 100 days in a year.

That's one reason Italy would like to see more American dollars invested in private enterprises here — and more demand for Italian laborers in Europe and overseas.

Steinhilber will run for Sixth district chairman as Mrs. Byron Ising has announced that she would not be a candidate for reelection. She declared she thought the party "needs a shakeup, with new faces and new ideas."

Other new officers are Kenneth Holmes, Menasha, vice chairman, and Mrs. Bernice Carver, Oshkosh, vice chairwoman. Reelected are Miss Ursula Cragg, Oshkosh, secretary, and William Gresenz, Neenah, treasurer.

$21 Million Spent on Winnebago Highways In Post-War Period

4-Laning Hy. 41 From Neenah to Brooks Corner May Begin Next Year

Oshkosh — About $21 million has been spent on highways and street construction projects in Winnebago county in the post-war period, of which about half has been on Highway 41, L. W. Empey, district highway commissioner, told Winnebago county board members Wednesday afternoon.

About an eighth of that amount has come from the county's highway allotments.

He said the prime consideration in the district was to complete the 4-laning from Milwaukee to Green Bay, which he thought would be done by about 1963.

Empey said he hoped that right-of-way purchases for the section from Neenah to Brooks corner along Highway 41 could begin this year and then in another year the purchase of right-of-way in the section from Highway 26 to the Fond du Lac county line. The paving might begin next year.

Cecil Street Interchange

After the 4-laning is completed then the state can come back and take up some of the grade separations and interchanges being postponed now such as Cecil street at Neenah, College avenue at Appleton and the bridge over Lake Butte des Morts. No year has been set when this work will be done.

Grade separations cost about $650,000 to $900,000 each he said in mentioning the state highway program amounts to about $50 million a year, of which the district gets about $6,750,000.

He saw Highway 41 as an eventual closed expressway system with ingress and eg-

70 at Hearing

Vinland Boundary Change Loses By 24 to 22 Vote of County Board

Oshkosh — Residents in the Paynes Point area and along the Lake Winnebago shore in the town of Vinland got back their petition for detachment from that town and attachment to the town of Neenah.

The county board Wednesday afternoon after about an hour's hearing, voted 24 to 22 to return the petition to the petitioners for more evidence on the tax standpoint. About 70 persons attended the hearing.

Supv. Van Jackson, Omro, held there was insufficient evidence to detach from the town of Vinland and moved the petition's return to the petitioners. His view won by the 2 vote margin with most Neenah - Menasha area supervisors backing the petitioners.

The petitioners maintained their area had a more common interest with the town of Neenah, would have a better voice in town government since the town of Neenah annual meetings are held at night while the Vinland meetings are in the afternoon, that the geographical area lends itself to attachment to the town of Neenah, that it looks to the town of Neenah for fire protection and that the section is consolidated with the Lakeview school of the town of Neenah.

These arguments were advanced by Lewis C. Magnusen, who along with Allen B. Adams, Menasha, were attorneys for the petitioners. Adams added that almost 100 per cent of the people in the area favored the detachment from Vinland and that this should be given considerable weight.

Petitioners who spoke were Jack Meyer, a resident of the district and Lakeview school district treasurer, Ed Hill and Mrs. Dorothy Liebl.

Meyer pointed to the school consolidation background and how this has benefited children in the area. Hill mentioned almost all of the area involved was residential except for a few farms, one of which is being divided into lots now and another where the owner has retired and may subdivide.

Mrs. Liebl told of a fire at her home and how residents of the district involved must call long distance to get a fire truck while they can get service from the town of Neenah on a local call. The town of Neenah also has 24-hour telephone answering service and

S. Commercial Paving May be on 1960 Program

Not Official Yet, Empey Tells County Board; U. S. Aid Sought

Oshkosh — Resurfacing of S. Comercial street in Neenah may be on the 1960 road program of the state, but no official action has been taken L. W. Empey, district highway engineer, said here Wednesday when he appeared before the county board.

The statement came in reply to a question from Supv. Oliver Thomsen, Neenah, who asked about the status of that street.

Empey replied that $3 million a year is allotted for federal aid to urban (FAU) roads and that S. Commercial street was such a road. However, there are 25 cities and 45 villages in the Green Bay district seeking such aid and the district gets only a part of the state's allotment.

"It is not official yet since the commission has not taken any action, but it has been suggested that surveys be made this year with the thought of getting the estimated costs now and then to face financing in 1960," Empey replied.

Federal aid will provide 50 per cent of the cost and the balance must come from local financing. Since S. Commercial street is a part of County Trunk A, county aid would help defray part of the balance.

(Mayor Bell of Neenah mentioned to the council Tuesday night that public financing might be needed for the city's share of the S. Commercial street project.)

Board Rejects Aid for DAV Convention

Twin City Chapter Reduced Request From $1,000 to $750

Oshkosh—The county board Wednesday again rejected the request of the Neenah-Menasha Disabled American Veterans chapter for aid in financing the state DAV convention in the Twin Cities in June.

Heiss

The chapter had reduced its previous request for $1,000 to one for $750 and pointed out that one veterans organization had received two grants while the other organizations had received only one grant.

The finance committee recommended the money not be granted and was upheld by a voice vote. The request for aid was presented by Supv. Clayton Heiss, Menasha.

No change was made in the cost of living bonus which will stay at $55 a month rate set last November since the department of labor cost of living figures have not shown any change since that time. Last year at this time the bonus was raised to $53 and then increased to $55 in November.

Aug. 2 was set as the date of the county board and county employes annual picnic at Winneconne and June 16 as the date for the next board meeting.

Highway 44 Paving Set for Next Year

Winnebago Board Okays $526,000 as Share of Reconstruction of Ripon Road

Oshkosh—Winnebago county board members Wednesday pledged their county highway allotments from 1960 to 1964 for the reconstruction of Highway 44, the Ripon road, between Oshkosh and the Fond du Lac county line.

Empey

The county's share of this project, estimated by L. W. Empey, district highway engineer, at $900,000 to $1 million, will be $526,000. The county will have about $2,000 left of its allotment for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1960. In 1954 it had pledged its allotments until 1960 toward the Highway 110 resurfacing project.

Empey appeared before the county board Wednesday afternoon to outline the Highway 44 plans which are for the engineering this year and reconstruction starting next year and finishing early in 1961.

There are quite a few bad corners to be straightened out, visibility improved and the road widened, he mentioned. The state hopes to complete the 11.6 miles from the Fond du Lac county line to Oshkosh with the amount anticipated. The part in Fond du Lac county also is to be improved.

Winchester Road

Right-of-way purchases for the project will begin next spring, he indicated.

The district highway engineer informed the board that Highway 150 from Winchester to Larsen would not be neglected. Nothing will be done though until after the completion of the Highway 41 project, he said, since the road now is taking a beating from the heavy traffic using it for the Highway 41 project.

Empey said he hoped no serious troubles would develop on Highway 26, the Waupun road, and that the troubles in Winneconne and around that village would hold off for awhile.

Hi Son:

Well your last letter convinced me of what I have been missing in Menasha. I've been in God's country for the last three weeks now and everything you said is true. Still I think we can make more improvements. Like Maverick, my 'pappy', your grandad had his saying too, one was "Never stand still son or someone will walk right over you!" While the Hour On Wheels and Pizzas are bywords, people of the Twin Cities just aren't used to the idea of calling us when they think of steaks, chicken, sea foods, chops or sandwiches. I wish they could see how each steak or chicken is wrapped in tin foil, one slice in dixie cups, and rolls and french fries or potato salad added on pure white plates and immediately put in the ovens of 'Hour' trucks and rushed right out to them. Why when you sit down to eat you'll think the little woman just took it off the stove. To give everyone a chance to taste these delicacies, I'm offering these low, low prices for one week starting tonight.

NHS Trackmen Collide With Raiders in Outdoor Opener

Take Chain of 17 Wins Into Friday Test at Two Rivers

Neenah — Neenah's athletic teams have the pleasant habit of putting together long winning strings. And another of those chains will go on the line Friday afternoon when the Rocket trackmen open their season in a dual at Two Rivers.

Going into the outdoor opener, the Red and White has a record of 17 straight triangular and dual victories, the last loss coming at the hands of Fond du Lac four years ago.

The meet also marks the debut of the Neenah coaching staff of Harland Carl and his assistant Marlon Batterman although they did have 10 of their charges at the Madison West relays two weeks ago.

Seven Returnees

The Rockets open their season with a nucleus of seven returning lettermen. Gone from last year's squad are many boys who had a hand in building up the win string and helped the Rockets to three straight Mid-Eastern conference crowns and a sectional title.

The departees include Fred Seggelink, pole vaulter and high jumper; Ed DenDooven, dashes and relay; Eric Anderson, 440 and relay; Hector Fischer, 880; Howard Thorpe and Henry Quade, mile; Jim Miller, low hurdles; Ralph Syring, and John Dixon, weights, Dan Jack and Mel Bayer, relay and dashes; Bill Meyer, medley relay; and "Bud" Tollette, discus.

Good Ones Remain

However, some good ones remain. They include Jerry Hensen, pole vault and broad jump; Tom Drews and Jerry Schaefer, hurdles; Jim Quade conference and sectional mile champion; Wayne Rudolf, 880; Mike Lintner, 440 or relay and Mowry Stilp, weights.

Schaefer, a junior, figures to be one of the top hurdlers in the area and Quade appears best of the conference milers again.

Non-lettermen who are expected to aid the returnees in the point column include Jack Bogrand, high jump; Steve DenDooven, hurdles; Willis Zeinert, weights; Paul Poellinger, co-captain of the cross country team, in the distance events, and Winn Zimmerman a freshman, who appears to be the best of the dashmen. Sophomores and freshmen are being counted on to supply the depth behind the veterans.

Raider Lettermen

Two Rivers has a nucelus of 11 returning monogram winners. They include only three seniors, Richard Lodl, 440 and relay; Dennis Payette, 880, and Stuart Walesh, hurdles.

Junior returnees are Al DeRusha, mile; Lee Ostreich, dashes and relay; Emery Panosh, discus; Lee Raddatz, high jump; Dennis Rocheleau 440 and relay; and Richard Soucoup, low hurdles.

John Boutin, a low hurdler and relay man, won a letter as a freshman last year.

Gone from the squad are Arden Root, who staged several exciting mile duels with Quade, dashmen Don Krummel and Leon Gospodarek and shot putter Joe Buenzow.

The Rockets tripped the Raiders 75-43 in last year's meeting, slamming the pole vault and half mile en route. The only returning winners are miler Quade, Rudolf, 880 and Schaefer, high hurdles.

Bluejays Test Kimberly High In Net Match

Attempt to Get Back on Winning Trail After Loss

Menasha — Their early-season win string halted at two by Neenah Tuesday afternoon, Menasha's netters will attempt to get back on the winning trail when they entertain Kimberly Friday afternoon.

The match will be the first of two in as many days for the Bluejays who play host to powerful Wauwatosa Saturday morning.

The Jays now have a 2-1 record, including 1-1 against Mid-Eastern conference opposition.

The Papermakers were blanked by Neenah 7-0 in their only other match against a Twin City foe.

Menasha trimmed the Papermakers twice by 7-0 scores in last year. Winners in the first match were Nick Farrell, Tom Krysiak, Fred Hollenbeck, Jim Stenson and Bob Hodkiewicz in singles and Stenson-Krysiak and Hodkiewicz-Farrell in doubles.

Second-time winners were Farrell, Krysiak, Hollenbeck, Adams, and Ritchie in singles and Ritchie-Dan Arft and Krysiak- Hollenbeck in doubles.

On the tour, students saw hunting and fishing areas and the types of farming practiced in the area. Nesting and feeding places for ducks and geese were shown. Some migratory fowl, the students learned, congregate close to Highway 49.

Billionth Box Of Kleenex Made By K-C Plant

Neenah — Kimberly-Clark Canada Limited has produced the billionth box of Kleenex tissues since it was first packaged in the Niagara Falls, Ont., converting mill in 1928.

Today there are three converting mills located at Winnipeg, Man., St. Hyacinthe, P. Q., and the original mill now greatly expanded at Niagara Falls.

It is estimated that approximately 7½ million trees have gone into the production of the billion boxes of Kleenex. The trees were mostly from northern Ontario woods.

Pulp mills are operated at Kapuskasing and Terrace Bay and the pulp is used at the K-C tissue mill at Kapuskasing where it is converted to rolls of cellulose wadding from which the tissue is made.

Osiewalski Cops Three Firsts in Ripon Track Win

Ripon — Menasha's Bob Osiewalski picked up three firsts and a second place tie in Ripon's 80-51 track win over Carroll Tuesday.

Osiewalski won the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds, the high hurdles in 15.2 seconds, the low hurdles in 25.5 seconds and placed second to teammate Dick Celihowski in the broad jump. His high hurdles time bettered a meet mark of 15.5 which he set as a sophomore.

Omro Track Squad Vies With Wautoma

Omro — Its 2-year winning string shattered by Winneconne last week, Omro's track squad will try to get back on the winning trail Friday afternoon when it entertains Wautoma.

The Foxes, winners of the Little Nine crown the last two seasons, were bested by the Wolves 64-34 last week. Omro's only first place was picked up by Jim Michels in the shot put. The Foxes got another five points when the Winneconne medley relay team was disqualified.

Neenah Tennis Team Takes on Wauwatosa

Rockets Gun for Fourth Straight Win of Spring

Neenah — Coach Ivan Williams' Neenah High school tennis squad goes in search of its fourth straight win when it entertains Wauwatosa of the Milwaukee Suburban conference Friday afternoon.

The Rockets cleared their toughest hurdle to date Tuesday when they bested Menasha 5-2 after losing the Nos. 1 and 2 singles matches. Their first two wins were over Kimberly and New London.

Wauwatosa is perennially the power of the Milwaukee area tennis circles but it appears to be running into more competition than usual this year. For instance, a spring ago it won the Milwaukee Suburban league crown, copping every match but one by shutout.

Lose to Nicolet

In its most recent outing, the Raiders were beaten by Nicolet 4-1. However, Nicolet also has a win over Manitowoc, always one of the powers in this area.

Raider returnees are headed by Nick Riccardi, the No. 2 player of last year; Tom Jensen, who played No. 3 and Selwyn Small, No. 4. Riccardi, currently playing No. 1, lost a 6-2, 11-9 test to Gary Adelman, of Nicolet, state singles champion.

As is the case when Twin City schools play Milwaukee Suburban league entries, the match will include six singles and three doubles duels.

Neenah's likely singles starters are Dick Wilson, Jack Ankerson, Steve Price, Doug Ankerson, and Paul Valente with the sixth chosen from John Schmerein, Dale Mrotek, Duane Anderson and Oliver Hoppe.

Wauwatosa defeated the Rockets 6-3 in last year's meeting down there but Neenah was without Ed Meyer, the No. 1 player, who got a late start because of a hand injury. 'Tosa later lost to Menasha.

Neenah winners were Jack Ankerson, Paul Valente and the Wilson-Ankerson doubles team. Other Neenah entrants were Dave Reierson, Wilson, Judd Koehn and Mrotek in singles and Valente-Reierson and Koehn - Steve Price in doubles.

Canadian Town Grows With Help Of K-C Company

Neenah — Longlac, Ont., which late in 1937 had a small population of 50 inhabitants, can now boast of approximately 1,000 residents.

Chief factor in the steady development of the community has been the Kimberly-Clark Pulp and Paper company, Ltd., and its predecessors.

With the completion of the pulpwood mill at Terrace Bay, 90 miles south of Longlac, in 1947, the Longlac operation took on added meaning.

Starting in 1936 K-C built five houses and added to that number each year until 60 homes were built by 1952. In that year the Longlac Improvement district was organized under the jurisdiction of the Ontario department of municipal affairs.

Return Driver Tests to Police, Board Requests

State Examination Plan Causes Delays, Supervisors State

Oshkosh — Return of the driver's license examinations to local police units was asked Wednesday afternoon by the Winnebago county board as it termed the state method inconvenient and causing delays.

Thomsen Hanson

The action was taken on recommendation of the board's judiciary committee, to which the matter was referred last November, and was passed on a voice vote with only a few dissents heard Copies of the resolution are being sent the three assemblymen and State Sen W A. Draheim

The board declined to appropriate $3,000 to replace the toilets and inadequate wiring at the fairgrounds grandstand and exposition building by tabling a motion to do that work

Supv. Oliver Thomsen, Neenah, contended that it was questionable whether that money should be given until after the board had studied the fair situation for a year or two to determine if it planned to continue operating a county fair

"The old type of county fair is not working as it should and it would be best to wait another year Maybe the state board of health will agree to wait on the toilet replacement," he declared as he called attention to the special committee s report at the last session which was to continue the fair another year while studying to see if a different type of fair and a different location should be used

'Must Be Optimistic'

Supv. Gordon M. Hanson, town of Winchester, urged the board to be optimistic about the fair and not lose faith in it. "How do we expect others to be optimistic about it if we aren t?"

Struensee

Supv. Van Jackson, Omro, argued that to drop the fair throws a monkey wrench into the 4-H program which is built around exhibiting at the fair and would be a strong blow to the farm youngsters

Supv Arthur Struensee, Oshkosh, chairman of the special study committee, said the county may need to do an about turn in operating the fair and have a different type, probably a junior fair. There is so much money that has to be spent on the roofs and other things at the fairgrounds since the buildings are not in good shape he stated

Chairman Joseph Dreyer Oshkosh, hastened to point out the board was not disapproving of the fairs in general to which the board members readily agreed.

The building committee was asked to find more room for the soil conservation service so that this office can be kept at the courthouse where it would be more convenient for farmers than having it in the post office.

ral to the district resolutions chairman The district caucus will be in May at Sheboygan.

Oppose Withholding Tax

Resolutions in opposition to federal aid to education and to the governor's withholding tax bill were passed unanimously

The caucus also resolved to urge state legislative representatives to adopt laws protecting the rights of individual workmen Specified were the right to participate in legal union activity the right to free collective bargaining the right to a secret ballot in any election and the right to strike upon a vote by secret elections conducted and supervised by the Wisconsin employment relations board

This resolution also includes the right to protection against unfair labor practices by either employers or unions the right of the individual to support political activity of his own choice and freedom to contribute thereto protection from forced contribution to political causes in which he does not believe and the right to protection from personal financial responsibility in damage cases against his union.

Return Resolutions

Two resolutions were returned to the committee One urged adoption of a constitutional amendment limiting the power of the president to make treaties and execute agreements providing such treaties and agreements do not violate the constitution

The other resolution urged congress to enact appropriate legislation limiting appellate jurisdiction of the court thereby protecting the constitutional rights of the state executive branch and congress

Resolutions thanking Steinhilber for his leadership commending State Sen William Draheim for his conduct of committee hearings on the withholding tax bill and his leadership of the joint finance committee in his fight for economy and efficiency in state government, and Assemblymen Arnold Cane, Floyd Shurbert and Harvey Abraham for their efforts in furthering the Republican principles in the state legislature were also passed could get there quicker, she thought.

Mrs Norris Krohn, state vice chairwoman, was chairman of the resolutions committee

Henry P. Hughes, attorney for the opponents to the detachment, contended the petitioners had never asked the town to have its annual meeting at night, that the town of Vinland has working arrangements with the Winneconne fire department and town of Neenah for fire protection and that the people knew the boundary situation when they moved there.

'Rest of Town Suffers'

"If this area is taken out, the rest of the town suffers" he argued. "Not only the rights of these petitioners but the rights of the others in the town should be considered If this area were to be detached, just because it is an urban area, the county board will be flooded with petitions because all townships along the lakes have considerable urban areas"

Magnusen charged that "in a democracy, if these people want to be attached, why deny them that privilege" The Vinland clerk (George Dobberke) said town of Neenah taxes are higher so that is not an issue Everything is in a state of flux As for staying with the original boundaries, we then deny the basic principles we adhere to"

Hughes' remark that the first blacktop road in the town was put in at Paynes Point brought the retort from Clarence Loenning, Neenah, that the property owners in that area fought hard to get that road

Supv. Herbert Pitz, Oshkosh asked about the tax base of the area to be detached and how it compared with the entire town. He was informed that the area of about 4 per cent of the total area had about a fourth of the town s valuation $1 5 million out of $6 million and had about 400 of the 1 200 population of the town, roughly estimated

Supv John Heinzl Neenah asked if those in the urban area felt they were penalized as to the value put on their homes as compared with the values put on similar homes in other parts of the township.

Magnusen replied the people felt they were so penalized

Jackson then contended the evidence was not sufficient and moved that the petition be turned back to the petitioners

Held in Car Theft

Neenah — Two 16-year-old town of Neenah boys are to be arraigned in federal court at Cheyenne, Wyo., today on a charge of transporting a stolen car across state lines.

They were apprehended at Rock Springs, Wyo., Tuesday while driving a 1950 model car reported stolen Saturday night from the Pepe Motors garage on N. Lake street.

Fifth Grade Pupils of Jefferson school, Menasha, are displaying a working model weather recording station in the school hall. At rear, Ann Des Marais holds a rain gauge. Bryan Russell, foreground, points to a hygrometer, used to measure atmospheric humidity, and Duane Breitzke is at the anemometer, which measures wind speeds.

Fifth Graders at Jefferson Build Own Weather Station

Menasha — As part of the science course, fifth graders at Jefferson school are studying weather and weather-recording instruments.

Members of the class, under teacher, Leonard Marko, have made a working weather station, on display in the school hall.

The instruments, made of easily available materials, show how their higher-priced counterparts operate.

The instruments, uses, and how they were made:

Barometer — An eyedropper partially filled with colored water, standing in liquid in a bottle. Atmospheric pressure changes cause the level of liquid in the dropper tube to rise and fall.

Hygrometer — Made from a hair, a milk carton, needle and a broomstraw. The hair is stretched tighter or more loosely by changes in relative humidity in the air. At the movable end of the hair is a needle with the straw in its eye. The tightening or loosening of the hair causes the needle to move on a dial to measure the moisture content of the air.

Anemometer — Paper cups, wooden sticks and wire hanger. Wind speed is calculated by counting the number of turns in 30 seconds and dividing that number by 5.

Thermometer — Because they are easily available, the class used one made commercially to measure temperature.

Wind vane — Made of cardboard and clothing hanger, it shows wind direction.

Rain gauge — Two jars are used, one to catch the rain and the other to give the exact amount of rainfall by marks indicated on its scale.

Weather charts — Ruled sheets to record data noted by the station tenders. A day-to-day chart is maintained on the bulletin board.

St. Mary Pupils Hear Talk on Satellites

Menasha — "Man-Made Satellites" was the title of an illustrated lecture given Wednesday to students of St. Mary High school by Roger Blackmun, staff lecturer at Adler planetarium, Chicago.

He described launching of man-made satellites and the rockets, fuels and methods used to hurl them into space and keep them aloft, circling the earth.

Harford Named Head Of Oshkosh Council

Oshkosh — William P. Harford was elected president of the Oshkosh common council at a reorganization meeting Tuesday evening. Robert Stauffer was chosen vice chairman.

New council members Ervin Harenburg and John E. Fitzgerald were seated. The workshop session was postponed to April 29.

Neenah Department Answers 203 Alarms, Chief Zick Reports

Neenah — A better than 80 per cent reduction in damage from fires was recorded in 1958, according to the annual report of Fire Chief John Zick.

Total fire loss last year amounted to $45,402 compared to the high figure of $266,508 in 1957. Zick pointed out that the lack of any major fires in the past year was largely responsible for the huge cut.

In fires to which the department was called the loss amounted to $36,156 in 1958 compared to $258,588 the year before. Fires where the department was not called amounted to $9,246 in damage last year compared to $7,920 the year before. Careless smoking loss in 1958 was $3,495 compared to $2,420 the year before.

Alarms Answered

There were 203 alarms answered, one false alarm and four rescue calls in 1958. A total of 199 alarms were answered in 1957 along with two false alarms and three rescue calls.

Firemen spent 80 hours and 45 minutes at fires in 1958. This is down considerably from the 105 hours and 52 minutes of fire fighting in 1957. Trucks traveled 501.5 miles last year compared to 500.1 the previous year.

In the breakdown of fires attended by the department, spontaneous combustion damage amounted to $12,183 while grease fires caused $10,652 damage. Other types of fires and damage included electrical, $7,403; heating systems, $2,330; cigaret, $691; unknown $546 and miscellaneous, $2,345.

In those fires to which the department was not called the damage included electrical, $2,037; heating units, $649; cigaret, $2,804; lightning, $1,442; grease, $1,409; miscellaneous, $790 and others, $434.

Community Council Hears About Welfare Department in County

Menasha — The structure, duties and services of the Winnebago county public welfare department were explained at the Tuesday noon meeting of the Community council by L. J. Howman, director of public welfare, and Norman L. Whitford, casework supervisor of the department.

Howman pointed out that the five members of the welfare board are all members of the county board and their duties are to supervise the department and to formulate its policies. The director is appointed by the board and other personnel are hired according to the civil service system of the bureau of personnel.

The 19 employes of the welfare department include 11 caseworkers, six stenographers, the assistant district attorney and the director. Salaries are according to the scale established by the personnel bureau and employes are hired on a six months probationary term.

Some of the department's duties are general and Indian relief, social security and student loans. Howman added that aid to the aged has necessarily been increased due to the greater numbers of people in their 80's and 90's.

Includes Medical

Previously, assistance to them included only maintenance, but now includes medical expenses. "Doctors are doing a wonderful job for these people," Howman added "and most of them are thankful for it."

Whitford discussed foster homes, the juvenile court and the department's services to children with problems. "Last year there were 86 homes in the county that took care of 96 foster children," the speaker explained. "There is a need for more foster homes."

He described a foster home as persons who care for children where no relationship within the degree of first cousin exists. "The ability to share the child with the agency is important," he said "but not as important as the ability to love children."

Reasons for placing children in foster homes include neglectful care, a family break-up, illness in the family or illegitimacy.

"The welfare department serves the juvenile court by preparing social studies on a child before he appears in court," Whitford explained. "Much of the decision in court is often based on these studies."

Service to Children

The services to children with problems are included in their regular casework duties which he defined as "the art or profession of helping people to help themselves."

Also announced Tuesday, the final Community council meeting of the year, were officers and directors for the coming year. Mrs. Milton P. Gaertner was re-elected president; Mrs. Iveaux Andersen was named first vice president replacing Mrs. Hayward Biggers; Al Starck, second vice president; Mrs. George Hrubecky, secretary; and Armin Schroeder, treasurer.

New directors are Mrs. Oscar Dorn, the Rev. L. Clarence Kelley and Dennis Mattson. Mrs. H. R. Moore is a director replacing Dr. J. P. Canavan.

May 19 'Alice' Parade Route Established

About 30 Women To Compete in 8-County Contest

Neenah — Final arrangements have been made for the 1-hour May 19 "Alice in Dairyland" contestants' music and float parade through the Twin Cities.

Clifford Lee, chairman of the "Alice" parade committee, completed the parade planning with Police Chiefs Peter P. Clark of Menasha and Irving H. Stilp of Neenah.

About 30 young women from this area will compete May 19 in the regional "Alice in Dairyland" contest.

Staging area for the 2 p.m. parade will be in the Torrey-Main street area in Neenah. The line of march will carry it down Main street to W. Wisconsin avenue to Commercial street, where it will turn north and proceed to Menasha.

The parade will continue north on Washington street and turn right onto Main street, proceed to Racine street, where it will turn left on Racine and continue north to the disbanding areas.

The bands will break up on First street and the floats will disband on Second street, west of Racine.

Police Escort

Escorts will be provided by the Neenah and Menasha police departments. Members of the Neenah-Menasha Jaycees will handle the parade arrangements, Lee said.

So far, Lee said, there may be 10 marching bands in the parade, along with about six floats sponsored by industrial and 4-H groups in the eight-county area covered by the local "Alice in Dairyland" contest.

Other firms and organizations are urged to contact the Chamber of Commerce soon if a float or band is desired in the parade. Invitations have gone to high schools in surrounding counties requesting their bands for the parade.

ress only at the grade interchanges. This will be the case in Outagamie county where bids for the first interchange will be taken May 21.

In his discussion of the Lake Butte des Morts bridge, Empey mentioned that last year there were 254 bridge openings for pleasure boats and 32 for commercial boats.

July was the heaviest month with 67 openings for pleasure boats. Of the 67, three boats accounted for 51. One boat required 25 openings of the bridge that month, another 15 and the third 11.

Empey emphasized that he was not drawing any conclusions from those figures and was not denying anyone their rights as these boaters had a legal right to go up and down the river. He said he was citing the figures just for the board's information.

To go considerably higher in the air with the next bridge in order to avoid the openings would require quite a bit of extra money from the taxpayers, the highway engineer cautioned. He said he would like to know just what part of the boat's equipment and how much of it made it necessary for the bridge openings since there is considerable clearance from the lake to the bridge deck now.

Empey also mentioned Highway 41, from the standpoint of every 10 million miles traveled is "a long way from being hazardous." Some of the lesser traveled roads have higher accident frequency rates, he added.

High Ratings To St. Mary Music Units

The marching band part of the Saturday program, judged by Anderson, Edgar Turrentine and E. Bleick, was rated superior in marching and general effectiveness and very good in music.

The glee club received superior ratings in note values and tempo and in interpretation and phrasing. Excellent ratings were given for tonal balance and fusion of chords, spirit and discipline, and value of performance.

Sister M. Sophronia is chorus director and Bernard Kiel is band director.

First Industry Moves to Buy Into City Park

Takes Informal Cost Estimate to Directors This Week

An Appleton industry interested in buying part of the city's nearly 40-acre industrial development park was to take an informal board of public works' cost estimate to its board of directors this week. It was the first industry to actually move to buy into the city park.

The revelation was made to the works board by Mayor Mitchell and Director of Public Works Duszynski Tuesday. The industry employs about 65 workers and would set up a manufacturing process on the park land, it was reported.

Hoow much of the S Perkins street park the industry wants is unknown.

Demolition Needed

The tract desired was said to front on S. Perkins at the north end of the park It would require installation of spur tracks from the Soo Line and Chicago and North Western railroads, and demolition of a house, barn, coop and silo on the property.

Works board members seemed agreed the demolition cost would be charged against the entire park, as would installation of the spur lines. It was not clear how much the industry would be asked to contribute toward sewer, water and street improvements

The city bought the park in 1957 from Roy Winter and Roland Abitz for $58 365, or $1-500 an acre plus interest At that time, it was said any city improvements to the park would be charged against the eventual sale prices for all park land so the venture would not cost the city general fund any money.

Call for Closer Links in Field Of Rehabilitation

Closer communications between probation and parole agents and industry's personnel men is essentail for rehabilitation Anthony Harrant of the Appleton Personnel Men's association told the quarterly meeting of Green Bay and Fond du Lac probation agents Wednesday.

Most personnel men, Harrant said, find that the only time they see a probation agent is when he walks in the door with a request to hire a man on parole or probation.

Harrant suggested that probation agents would make their job much easier, and the personnel man s, if they would talk with personnel men about their problems and requests before asking an employer to hire one of their cases

Each parolee or probationer is an individual with his own problems and it is difficult to generalize what these are, Harrant commented.

Hendricks has indicated investigation of the case has been completed and identity of the youths is unknown Kranzusch denied knowing them.

South Spends Least On Public Education

Association Survey Shows Mississippi Pays Lowest Teacher Salary in Nation

Washington —(AP)— The deep south is spending less for public education than any other area in the country—and its people are the least educated —the National Education association reported today.

On the other hand, many of the southern states are spending a greater percentage of their citizens' personal income to support their schools than are richer states elsewhere.

The NEA issued its annual report, "Rankings of the States," with 60 tables of figures to show how the various states stood in different educational categories. It picked no over all best or worst state, but the figures told quite a story.

Teacher Salary

For instance: Mississippi this year is paying its classroom teachers an annual salary of $3,070, lowest in the nation. It is spending $181 per year for each student in average daily attendance, less than any state except Alabama, which spent $164.

But Mississippi led the nation in one respect: In 1957 almost half its young men who registered for the draft failed to pass the pre-induction mental examination. Mississippi's rejection rate was 49.9 per cent, followed by South Carolina 49.8, Alabama 42.6, Louisiana 38.9 and Georgia 37.

At the other end of the table, Montana had the lowest rejection rate, 3.5 per cent. Next came Iowa 3.6, Minnesota 4.2, Kansas 4.5 and Oregon 4.6. The national average is 18.9 per cent.

The national average of "current expenditures per pupil in average daily attendance" for 1958-59 is $340.

New York Tops

New York, with $535, is spending more per pupil than any other state. Next comes Alaska $520, New Jersey $463, Wyoming $435 and the District of Columbia $434.43. The 10 lowest states on this list are all southern or border states.

But Mississippi spent 3.8 per cent, and Alabama 3.3 per cent, of their total personal income payments for school support compared with New York's 3.2 per cent and New Jersey's 2.9 per cent, for instance.

The annual average salary of classroom teachers for this year ranges from Alaska's $6,400 to Mississippi's $3,070. The national average is $4,775. New York is second with $6,200. Eight of the 12 lowest-paying states are southern or border states.

Lighted Softball Diamond Okayed for Plamann Park

Outagamie county will have a new softball field, complete with lights, at Plamann park (County Trunks E and EE), the county board decided Wednesday.

Lights for the diamond will cost an estimated $6,000 and grading and backstop work another $1,000, the park committee chairman, Freedom Supv. Joseph Weyers, told the board.

New Association

The ball diamond was decided on by the park committee after the newly formed Outagamie County Athletic association told the committee the Center softball facilities are inadequate. Starting date for association games is May 18.

The association will schedule games and take care of reservations for the diamond, prompting Hortonville Supv. Ira Dominowski to say "You're establishing a recreation program for a select group, not all the people."

Dominowski

"No, we're just leaving it to the association for the first year or so until we have a caretaker at the park to take care of things like that," Weyers retorted.

Several supervisors said the park should have toilets and a water supply before any diamond is built.

Well Donated

"Give us a chance—we've got to start somewhere," explained Weyers.

A well will be drilled in the park sometime this summer by Malcolm Veitch, Seymour, who is donating it to the county as a memorial to his father. The well will be a deep-type one, 150 feet or more in the ground, Veitch has explained.

Eleven supervisors voted against the $7,000 ball field appropriation.

Supervisor Urges Board to Order Routing for Letters

Appleton Fifteenth Ward Supv. Alois C. Fischer Wednesday tried to have the Outagamie county board order letters and communications to committees directed to the chairman instead of the county clerk and corporation counsel.

Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer commented he didn't think it took any board action, but everyone would certainly cooperate to see that committees got all their mail.

Airport Committee

Fischer has quarreled often with Corp. Counsel Raymond Dohr about communications to the airport committee, on which Fischer serves. Fischer commented messages often come to a committee immediately after a board session and may go to the clerk or counsel and be forgotten.

"The committees ought to get their mail before the paper does," commented Appleton Eighteenth Ward Supv. Sylvester Esler.

"I know what Mr. Fischer is driving at," snapped Appleton Tenth Ward Supv. Douglas Evans, also on the airport committee. Fischer and Evans clash regularly over airport questions. "A chairman has the prerogative of sending someone to meetings in place of himself," explained Evans.

We're Confused

"I think we're confused about what Fischer wants—he just wants communications to committees to get to the committees," commented Fulcer.

"We usually just put the letters in the committee file unless we think it's urgent," explained County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeffer.

Assembly for Yearly Terms Of Legislature

Madison —(AP)— The senate Wednesday adopted a resolution calling for annual sessions of the legislature.

The action requires amendment of the constitution and would have to be approved by two successive legislatures and in a referendum.

Floor debate and procedural maneuvering on the measure tied up the senate most of the session.

The resolution, written by Sen. William Draheim, R-Neenah, was defeated last week. A motion to reconsider the action brought it before the house again Wednesday.

Vote Reversed

A second vote again threw the measure out. But the senate then reversed itself, adopted another motion to reconsider, and approved the measure, 18-15.

The action was made final when the house refused by the same vote to reconsider its vote for adoption.

Under the proposed amendment, legislative sessions in even-number years would be limited to state budget matters and taxation. Sessions in the odd-numbered years would consider all items of business.

Works Board Wants Bids on Lift Station

More Elaborate Park Shelter Pushes Cost Estimate to $80,000

The city council May 6 will be asked to advertise for bids to construct an estimated $80,000 combination sewage lift station and park shelter in a newly-annexed 6.452-acre northwest park.

More elaborate plans for the shelter, to include a kitchen, small storage area and comfort rooms, and an increase in time and materials costs since the original estimate of $60,000 are responsible for the new price tag of $80,000, Thomas E. Orbison, Jr., consulting engineer, told the board of public works.

The lift station would serve about 305 acres at the northwest corner of the city from its site at Lindbergh and Nicholas streets extended. Director of Public Works Duszynski has estimated. More than 1,000 building lots would be opened.

Price Affected

The lift station has been under consideration for nearly a year and has been sought for several years by owners of in-city land which could not be served by existing gravity sewers or extensions of them.

Construction of the lift station must be underway by Sept. 1 or the price of the park land will jump from $2,000 0an acre to $2,500 under terms of a contract with the former owner, Kenneth Hooyman.

Businessman Seeks $50,000 From Actor

Los Angeles —(AP)— A 50-year-old businessman says actor John Carroll, 54, attacked him without provocation after a traffic argument.

In a suit filed yesterday, Ernest A. Dean sought $50,000 damages from the actor. He said both men were in cars and an argument erupted over the right of way last Dec. 14.

Seeks Probe of U. S. Investment In Foreign Areas

Washington —(AP)— A senate investigation of the investment of American capital abroad was proposed Tuesday by Sen. William Proxmire.

Proxmire said that in at least two industries, American companies have recently transferred part of their production from Wisconsin to foreign countries. He listed the industries as the manufacture of machine tools and of tractors.

In the case of a single company, Proxmire said, there has been the loss of more than 2,000 jobs in Wisconsin because of such transfer of work abroad.

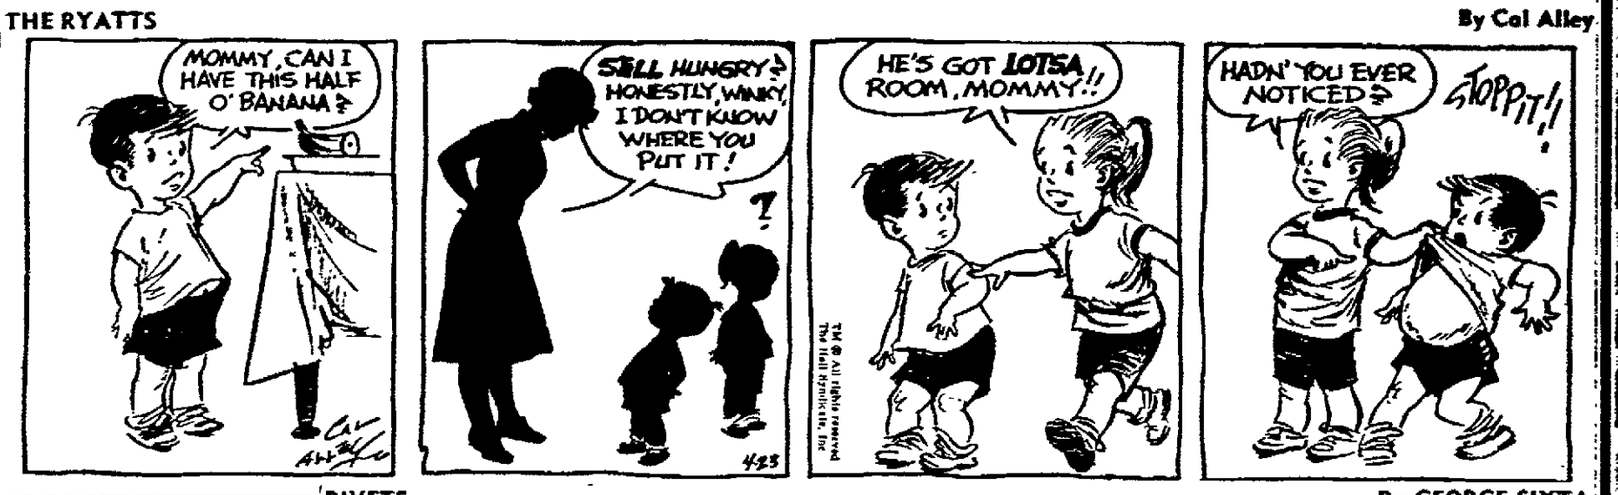

"Reliable reports indicate that this export of American jobs has just begun," Proxmire said.

"The combination of available American capital, American automation and know-how fused with low foreign wages is not only cutting a terrible swath in the export market for American factories, it is beginning to cost them some of their domestic U.S. markets," he said.

Forest Fire Loss Increases

1958 Boost Blamed On Dry Conditions, Human Carelessness

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The relation of drought and human carelessness to forest fire losses is shown in the annual report of the state forest fire protection service which discloses a quadrupling of acreage burned during 1958.

Fires burned oved more than 16,000 acres and brought losses of about $128,000, the highest totals in recent times, said Neil La May, chief of the extensive state forest protection system.

LeMay said the extended drought conditions of the year were mainly responsible for the unfavorable trend in fires, but noted that people burning debris and railroad ignitions accounted for more than half of all the fires. There is a need for an intensified prevention program, he told the state conservation commission.

But the protection division managed to stabilize costs during the year, LeMay said. The 16,900,000 acres of forest lands under protection were served at a cost of 10.4 cents to the acre, which was the figure for the preceding year.

The division is now spending at the rate of $1,764,000 a year, which is higher than ever before. But the area under protection has been sizeably enlarged by action of the conservation commission acting upon the request of land-owners and local governments.

Rich Beatniks Have Demoralizing Effects on American Society

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — It was bad enough when Mikoyan came to these parts offering orders for steel pipe and chemical plants. The rich boys forgot all that they had been saying about Bolsheviks for 40 years.

Sokolsky

They had a prospect and Mikoyan was his name. It is characteristic of a beatnik that he forsakes ideals, aspirations, hopes, traditions. He is a nihilist. But to become a nihilist to get an order—that is something new.

So the Bolshoi ballet came to New York. Apparently the manager, S. Hurok had so little confidence that he sold the house out to pro-Russian societies who acted as scalpers until the commissioner of licenses, Bernard J. O'Connell, got after them and after Hurok.

Not surprisingly, it was not necessary to get the help of the pro-Russian scalpers to fill the Metropolitan Opera house on the ballet's opening night. The rich beatniks were there in gala array, sparkling their diamond necklaces and tiaras, just like in the days of czarist Russia. Of course, some of the jewelry could have been borrowed or hired for the occasion.

Nothing Left

But truthfully, the rich beatniks, who have nothing left to lose but their money, turned out in all their fineries and made a real first night affair of it. That is why it is impossible to know whether Ulanova did well or badly in "Romeo and Juliet" on that first night —there were too many diverting spectacles.

The rich beatniks are an amusing lot in the big city. The end has already come for them and they are going in for gluttonous and licentious living, much after the fashion of Petronius. They feel that after the bomb is hurled, there will be nothing left to live for —all the night clubs and restaurants will have cosed down and so many of their friends will have been killed that even the money hidden in caches in Switzerland will be useless. Live it up, while there is still a chance, is the motto of the rich beatnik who is, after all, not spending what he earned because he never earned anything.

They set out to demoralize everything they reach, to bring everything down to their level. It used to be that moral turpitude was frowned upon in decent society no matter how hypocritically. Today moral turpitude is advertised as a just cause for fame and the wayward are accepted on a social equality with the correct. The rich beatniks have now gone into a Russian phase and the women will soon be wearing roubashkas, all embroidered with scenes from the Kremlin.

The capitalistic beatniks, of course, would be the second group to be liquidated if a revolution ever did come; the first to be liquidated would be the so-called liberals, as they have been in every communist country. They would be liquidated because they are a nuisance, they talk too much and frighten too easily. After all, their only true value is to provide a diversion by their scandalous conduct and keep the multitude's mind off more serious matters.

Lawrence's John Baer Contributes Phrases to American Language

By Marguerite Schumann

A while ago, some dictionary people who were interested in how American language differs from its mother English tongue, published a list of the 10 most fecund manufacturers of American slang.

First on the list was a cartoonist.

With this choice, John Baer of Washington, D. C., Lawrence college class '09, is in hearty agreement.

"With the exception of the phrase 'he kept us out of war', cartoonists have created almost every political slogan of this century," Baer says. Catchwords like 'a full dinner pail,' 'a square deal,' and 'a big stick' all came from a cartoonist's drawing board."

Contributes Also

John Baer should know. He, too, has made his contribution to the American language. It was he who invented the phrase "The New Deal" and used it in a cartoon Jan. 1, 1931. He had a powerful press agent to help it along, however. Franklin D. Roosevelt used the phrase in a speech in 1932, and from then on it was a part of the language of the nation.

As a matter of strict fact Baer dug that phrase out of a barrel of his old work. In 1923, while cartooning for North Dakota newspapers, he used both New Deal and New Day to urge reforms needed in that era.

As a matter of stricter fact, the New Deal cartoon was first refused by his editor. So John, in a huff, took it off to New York, and publisher Arthur Brisbane printed it for 15 million eyes to see.

John Baer, a Lawrence college graduate of 1909, sits at his drawing board in Washington, D. C., where he has become nationally-known as a cartoonist. He was born in Black Creek.

He once wrote: "I watch your cartoons in the farm papers, in 'Labor' and elsewhere and I congratulate you on the earnestness with which you strive to arouse the thought that alone can solve our national problems."

Black Creek Native

John Baer has been used to political thinking and the public eye since childhood. Born at Black Creek, he is the son of late Appleton Postmaster J. M. Baer (appointed during President Cleveland's administration) and the late Libbie C. Baer, first cousin of James Whitcomb Riley and celebrity in her own right as national vice president of the Women's Relief corps.

John's older brother, Charles O., was the first Wisconsin casualty in the Spanish-American war, and the Appleton chapter of the VFW was named for him.

John Baer first broke into public print in the 1890s when an Appleton newspaper wrote: "Johnny Baer, son of the pastmaster, is probably the best juvenile trick bicycle rider in the state. He is nine years old, weighs 67 pounds and the way he can crawl all over a wheel while in motion is a caution. He does many of the standard tricks of the professionals as well as a number of his own invention."

Performed at Fair

An early moment of glory came when he rode past the bandstand at the county fair, standing on the bicycle seat, holding both hands in the air.

His first experience with Washington, D. C., came when he was 11 and traveled to the Capitol with his parents to shake the hand of President William McKinley at his inauguration.

John Baer has shaken the hand of every president since McKinley. President Warren G. Harding said to Mrs. Baer as they came through a reception line, "How on earth do you get along with such a culprit as this?"

And Franklin D. Roosevelt was heard to inquire "What is the latest caricature you've done of me, John?"

Played Football

But that is getting ahead of the story by several decades. At Lawrence, John Baer did all of the things for which a well-rounded young man was eligible.

He qualified for the football team while still of prep-school age, and played against the Universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota. (The former was held to five points.)

Became Cartoonist

After graduation, Baer wound up in Fargo, N. D., as cartoonist for the Courier-News, a non-partisan farmer's weekly. "My cartoons have tried to dignify the farmer. I don't picture him as a rube. When North Dakota needed a congressional candidate, I was drafted. No one had ever seen me, but they had seen my cartoons.

As a result, Baer was elected a member of the 65th and 66th congresses, held a number of other government posts, and since 1921 has been considered the dean of labor cartoonists.

Perhaps his most widely circulated cartoon was one titled "The Appropriation Pie" in which figures labelled Present and Future Wars were gorging themselves at a table, while Education crawled on the floor, picking up the crumbs. The cartoon was printed in 18 languages and circulated throughout the world.

Pure Food Laws

One of his drawings, exposing the fact that a certain brand of strawberry jam was loaded with timothy seeds (a hay seed) played a part in promoting pure food and drug legislation. Another, said Sen. Borah, was instrumental in bringing about a naval conference. Thousands have been dedicated to the welfare of laboring men and farmers.

'Labor' Cartoonist

Since 1921, Baer's official roosting place has been the editorial offices of 'Labor,' a weekly newspaper published in Washington and owned by 15 Standard Railroad Labor organizations. In their office not too far from the White House, an immense symbol of clasped hands is worked in the terazzo floor of the lobby, designed by John Baer. He is also a publicist for the Union Label and Service Trades department of the AFL, and has a big batch of letterhead imprinted "World's Fair, USA—1962—World of Nations United in Peace." (This is a pet new project of his.)

Step into the lobby of a large Washington hotel at lunchtime and ask the bellboy to page John Baer. The boy doesn't go near the public address system; he picks him out by eye. For nearly 40 years behind a drawing board in Washington, D.C., has indeed made John Baer one of the local landmarks.

Police Stage First Raid in 25 Years

Barrington, R. I. —(AP)— Police staged their first liquor raid Monday since the town went dry 25 years ago.

They seized 410 gallons of wine and arrested 75-year-old Albert Piccerilli on a charge he was selling it from his cellar at $1.50 a gallon.

Police Chief George W. Robbins said several high school teenagers told him they gained admittance to the cellar by using one of two passwords: "Elsie sent me," or just "booze."

Barrington is the only dry community in Rhode Island.

Fox Valley Legion League Grows to Record 16 Teams

Clintonville, Winneconne Among 6 Clubs Added to Baseball Loop

The Fox River Valley American Junior Baseball league has been expanded to its greatest complement in history—16 teams

The 10 hold-over clubs Wednesday night approved the addition of Clintonville, Winneconne De Pere, Sturgeon Bay Kewaunee and Algoma These teams had previously campaigned independently.

After the addition of the new teams, the league voted to split into two divisions

Playing in the Northern division will be holdovers Appleton, New London and Green Bay; and newcomers Clintonville, De Pere, Algoma, Kewaunee and Sturgeon Bay

Making up the Southern division will be Menasha, Little Chute, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Winneconne Fond du Lac, Mayville and Oshkosh

Each team will play every other one in its division twice —making a total of 14 contests At the end of the "straight" season (as opposed to a split schedule) the champions of each division will meet in a best-of-3 playoff for the overall title

In case a division champ leader is involved in tournament play late in the season, it will be declared the division champ if it has played at least 12 of its 14 league games

Inter-Division Game

The all star game will be played at mid season as an interdivision affair. Two players will be picked by the managers from each team to form the division 'stars The star manager will be the pilot of the division-leading club at the time of the game

This year s 'star game will be played at Kimberly. The choice was determined by lot It will move to each city on an annual rotating basis

The league franchise fee was raised from $25 to $35 in the meeting held at the Appleton Legion clubhouse

Appleton s Frank Warner was elected league president for the thirteenth straight year Appleton's Bob Beltrone was named publicity director and statistician—a new league position

Pascual Is Happy to be Back; Versalles Has Own Fan Club

First 11 Foxes Arrive; 'Potato' Says 1959 Team Is Stronger

Post Crescent Sports Editor

Carlos "Potato" Pascual the scourge of 3-I league pitchers in 1958, won t predict whether he can beat out an encore 372 tatoo this season But, he certainly looks ready to give the defense of his league batting crown a good try

"I il be up there swinging." was the only commitment a smiling Pascual would make Wednesday as he checked in after a long bus ride from the Fernandina Beach, Fla. training base

2 Arrive By Car

Pascual one of 11 baseball playing Foxes who arrived in the Fox Cities [illegible] Wednesday, looks a little lighter than he was last year but in first-class shape after a spell of winter league ball

'Potato" the team s top drawing card last year, declared he s happy to be back for a second season.

Other early-reporting Foxes who made the trip by bus were pitchers Dick Griffith Al Castellanos and Dwight Fiemster shortstop Zoilo Versalles, first baseman Bob Mason, outfielder Don Williams, and infielders "Mike" Hiney and Billy Hubbard (Griffith is the only one, besides Pascual, who played here in 58).

Own Fan Club

Players who arrived by car were outfielder Bennie Sinquefield and pitcher Jim Shrode The other eight men on the roster including playing manager Jack McKeon, are due in by Friday noon

Sinquefield was the most serious first-day apartment hunter but had no initial luck Most of the players stayed in a hotel the first night.

Versalles the much-heralded shortstop was being shepherded around by Pascual, a Cuban compatriot. "Zorro," as Versalles likes to be called, had his own traveling fan club—Pascual and Castellanos

"He'll be the best shortstop in the league,' said Pascual "He can do everything '

Castellanos enthused that Versalles will be in the majors before too long

Pascual left no doubt that he feels the 1959 edition of the Foxes is stronger than last year s team He also says he is impressed with the Foxes new manager, McKeon

'Potato" has brought his wife and two sons with him Carlos Jr , 5, was here last summer But, this is the first Fox Cities visit for energetic Juan, 2

Burdette Tips Phils, 2 to 0, For 3rd Win

Yields Eight Hits; Roberts Allows 4 in Losing Cause; Pizarro Will Pitch Tonight

By The Associated Press

Lew Burdette has found his "at 'em" ball again. He misplaced it when he was unfrocked as a Yankee killer last October

It was the "at 'em" pitch—the pitch that made it easy on the fielders because batters hit it right at 'em—that the big right hander credited when he won three from the New York Yankees as Milwaukee won the 1957 World series He still had it last season when he became a 20-game winner for the first time

Then he lost in last fall s World series, twice taking his lumps while the Yankees staged a startling comeback by winning the last three games

Game In Front

This season Burdette has picked up where he left off last year and so have the Braves once more leading the National league Burdette put them a game in front Wednesday night giving up eight hits but outdueling Robin Roberts, who allowed only four for a 2-0 victory over the Phils

Burdette gained his third victory of the year against no defeats It was his first shutout and his second victory over the Phillies Only one Phillie got as far as third base and two to second Three double plays helped him out of occasional trouble

Roberts had a no hitter going through six innings He had allowed only two walks up to that time The seventh found him weakening however.

Breaks Ice

Wes Covington broke the ice with a leadoff single to right It was his first hit in 12 trips to the plate Frank Torre followed with another hit to the same spot Covington going to third Crandall lined a hard drive off Roberts leg to score Covington

Billy Bruton then led off in the eighth with a home run blast over the right field wall for an insurance run It was his first of the year

Roberts handcuffed Hank Aaron the leading hitter in the major leagues Aaron went hitless in four trips to the plate and his average dropped from 567 to 500

Leadoff Single

The Phils did not get a man to second base until the seventh inning Ed Bouchee led off with a single but Harry Andersen hit into a double play to erase him Wally Post then came up with his second hit and Willie Jones walked Dave Philley fouled out, however, to end the inning.

Roberts drilled a double to left center after one man was out in the eighth and got to third while Richie Ashburn was grounding out He died there, however, when Granny Hamner, bating for George Anderson, was retired

Cardinals Easy Winners in Only Outdoor Meet

Post Crescent Staff Writer

An unfamiliar dual meet foe Fond du Lac, opens the 1959 Appleton High school outdoor track schedule Friday. The meet is slated for 4 15 p m on Fondy's Fruth Memorial field

Though they both annually compete in the Fox River Conference meet and FRVC relays the Terrors and Cardinals have seldom, if ever, met in 2-team competition.

Friday s meet opens a rugged AHS slate of four duals and the FRVC meet within a 22-day period

The Terrors' only previous competitive inter-school action this spring has been in the indoor Madison West relays April 11 and in a practice meet with Kimberly Wednesday afternoon

Triangular Meet

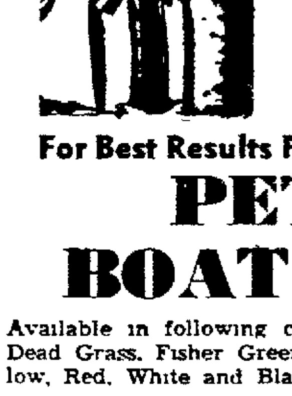

Fondy easily won a triangular with Berlin and Ripon Wednesday scoring 90 points to 37 for Berlin and 21 for Ripon That was their only outdoor competition this spring

Despite the strenuous efforts of Terror Head Coach Ray Kinziger and assistants Ade Dillon and Herb Simon to develop field-event strength, the Terrors seem to lack power in that department This is true especially, in the weight events

Appleton's best bet for points Friday rests with the same fellows who paced the Terrors to a sixth place finish

Ford Strikes Out 15 Senators in 1-0, 14-Inning Victory

Skowron's Homer Wins Thriller; Indians Romp, Maintain Lead

By the Associated Press

Stout-armed Whitey Ford went 14 innings for the first time in his major league career Wednesday night and beat the Senators, 1-0.

He proved there was nothing much wrong with the arm that rendered him virtually ineffective during the last month and a half of the 1958 season.

He struck out 15 and gave up only seven hits in a shutout duel with Bill Fischer and Chuck Stobbs. It wasn't broken up until Bill Skowron won it with 7 1-3 innings of 3-hit, shutout relief. Luis Aparacio homered in the fourth.

The Red Sox wrapped it up with five runs in the fourth on four singles, a walk and an error against loser Arnie Portocarrero (0-2). Murray Wall (1-0) won it in relief.

That left the Yanks two games behind the clubbing Cleveland Indians, who again battered Detroit, 10-1. The Chicago White Sox stayed third, smothering Kansas City, 20-6. Boston beat Baltimore, 8-4.

Ford, 30, walked seven, but gave up just one single from the fifth until the fourteenth. Then, after Skowron had ended Stobbs' hitless relief job, Ford was touched for two hits before putting away his thirteenth victory over the Senators in 14 decisions going back to 1954.

Young Gary Bell (2-0) breezed in with a 7-hitter for the Indians, who have rapped Detroit pitching for 24 runs and 31 hits in two days. Jimmy Piersall drove in the first four runs off loser Frank Lary (0-2) with a bases-loaded single in the third and a 2-run homer in the fifth. "Rocky" Colavito added a 3-run blast and rookie Gene Leek, playing his first major league game, socked a 2-run homer.

The White Sox hustled from behind after the A's had chased Early Wynn with five runs in the second inning. They made it a rout with 11 runs in the seventh off three pitchers—needing but one hit while benefiting from 10 walks (one shy of the record), a hit batter and three errors. "Bud" Daley (0-2) lost it in relief. Bob Shaw (1-0) consider a plea from Honolulu that the league sanction the island's Hula bowl game.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Pleasantly Surprised

Any Talk of a Braves' Runaway Is 'Silly', Declares Manager Haney

Philadelphia —(AP)— Manager Fred Haney labels as "silly" any talk of his Milwaukee Braves making a runaway of the National league baseball race.

"Of course, I am pleasantly surprised the way the club has been going," he said Wednesday night after the Braves beat the Phils 2-0 to run their record for the season to 6-1.

"I would have settled at the start for a 500 pace, considering the way we looked in the spring, but I think we're going to be even better. Our pitching will get better. So will our hitting.

"But the other clubs who were in the same kind of boat from the standpoint of weather this spring also will get better and I look for a rough race.

"In a way, we're lucky we didn't play the Western teams at first because they are in better condition."

The Cubs and Giants, two of the so-called Western division teams, trained in Arizona where they had much better weather than the teams that trained in Florida.

The Milwaukee manager also said that Eddie Mathews' runs-batted-in potential may be sacrificed this year for the good of the team because he is batting second.

RBI Capacity Cut

"Eddie looks the ball over better than most guys," Haney said. "He's fast and can get on base a lot of times. Thus someone else like Henry Aaron or Wes Covington can drive him in. But by the same token, he's cutting down his own RBI capacity.

"I'm sure the front office will realize that when contract time comes around."

Despite hitting in second position, Mathews had driven in five runs and had a batting average of .258 before Wednesday night's game. He was second only to Aaron in RBIs. Aaron had six.

After Wednesday night's victory, Haney said, "The ones you win now you don't have to worry about next fall."

"Honestly," he admitted, "I didn't think we were ready. We had a poor spring training because of the rain and generally bad weather.

Extra Batting Dreills

"So we're making up for what we missed by extra daily workouts at home and whenever we can get the field on road trips."

Haney, however, is somewhat concerned over Wes Covington and Frank Torre. He conceded they were getting started rather slowly.

"But I'm hoping the extra batting drills will help," he said optimistically.

As for the pitching staff, Haney took a gamble during spring training.

He figured that during the early part of the season he could get by with two or three pitchers because of the usual bad weather postponements. So he gave Warren Spann and Lew Burdette extra work in Florida.

How about the rest of the staff?

"Well," explained Haney, "they're pitching batting practice during the extra drills and that should help. Otherwise, when the time comes, we'll just have to gamble with them."

Ray Bluth Wins ABC Masters Tourney Title

Rallies to Beat Golembiewski in Deciding Match

St. Louis —(AP)— After living in the shadow of two teammates for years, Ray Bluth of the St. Louis Budweiser team, came into his own Wednesday night when he won the American Bowling Congress Masters tournament.

Bluth's previous accomplishments have been obscured by two of bowling's premier stars, Don Carter and Tom Hennessey. Major titles always seemed to elude the 31-year-old Bluth.

Takes Crucial Duel

Bluth whipped six straight opponents in the double elimination finals which began last Sunday. His opponent in the last round, Billy Golembiewski, also was undefeated until he met Bluth in a match Wednesday afternoon. Bluth took the crucial 4-game duel, 864 to 782, dumping the Detroit bowler into the losers bracket.

Golembiewski then trounced Hennessey, the defending Masters champion, 900-849, winning the right to meet Bluth again in the championship match. Hennessey took third place.

Golembiewski took the first game in the ultimate block, 201-191; the second, 207 to 196; and the third, 234 to 227. Bluth was behind 28 pins but he rallied and won the last game, 213 to 175, and the match, 827 to 817.

Bluth picked up $1,210 and the huge Masters traveling trophy.

Pension Plan for Pro Gridders May Be Created

Philadelphia —(AP)— Some sort of pension plan appeared possible for National Football league players as they opened two days of meetings today with pro owners.

A reliable source told The Associated Press that the talks among owners and the Players' association should evolve some type of plan. It won't, however, be anything like the proposal presented at the NFL annual meeting under which players would receive $100 a month at age 65, the source asserted.

In addition to pension problems, the owners were scheduled to take up airplane insurance plans, check over television contract language, arrange for a quick shift of any league game conflicting with baseball's World Series, and

Tigers Offer $100,000, Pitcher for Sievers

White Sox Also Are Seeking Nats' Slugger

Detroit, Mich. —(AP)— The Detroit Tigers, hungry to apply $100,000 in first aid to a battered team that lost eight of nine games are shooting in all directions for a much-needed slugger.

So far the Tigers have been rebuffed everywhere. General Manager Rick Ferrell said Wednesday night he has had unsuccessful trade confabs with the Washington Senators, Baltimore Orioles and New York Yankees. He plans to try the Kansas City Athletics soon.

He said Washington had spurned his bid of $100,000 and a front-line pitcher for Roy Sievers. Sievers, an outfielder-first baseman, belted 39 home runs and drove across 106 runs for Washington last year.

The Tigers, in losing all but one of their first nine games, have left 74 base runners stranded. They have hit only eight homers while their pitchers yielded 19.

Won't Name Pitchers

Ferrell said he has spoken three times this week to Calvin Griffith, the Senators' president, about Sievers.

"I got a flat no each time," he said.

Ferrell declined to name the pitchers he offered. But it was believed to be Jim Bunning, Paul Foytack or Billy Hoeft.

Griffith said in Washington the Chicago White Sox had offered him $250,000 in players and cash for Sievers, pitcher Pedro Ramos and an unidentified third player. This deal also was turned down. The third player reportedly was catcher Cuni Courtney.

Baltimore twice has refused Tiger attempts to pry loose catcher Gus Triandos. Ferrell ruled out further efforts to get Triandos.

The Yankees wanted pitcher Frank Lary or outfielder Al Kaline from Detroit, but Lary and Kaline are regarded as Tiger untouchables.

New York would have been willing to give up Marv Throneberry, Bobby Richardson, Hank Bauer, Norm Siebern or players of equal ability, Ferrell said.

Chicago — "Spider" Webb, 158, Chicago, stopped Neal Rivers, 159, Las Vegas, 4.

Ashley Cooper Proves to be A Tough Rookie

Will Try to Hike Earnings in Appearance Here

Ashley Cooper

Though he's finding the professional tennis circuit as tough as most pro rookies before him, Australia's Ashley Cooper has stamped himself an extremely dangerous opponent.

Cooper, the amateur world's top netter in 1958, had a tour record of 11-24 at last report. Pancho Gonzales and Lew Hoad are a close 1-2 on the tour, with Mal Anderson fourth.

All four of these star players will appear in two singles tests and a doubles match in the Alexander gym at 8 p.m. Friday, May 1, under the auspices of the Neenah Racquet club. Tickets are still available at various Fox Valley outlets and can also be ordered by mail (Pro Tennis, Box 590, Neenah.)

In 1958, Cooper won three of the big four tournaments — Wimbledon, Australian championships and the United States singles. He almost equalled Don Budge's grand slam of 1938 but was beaten in the semis of the French championships. He was a member of four Australian Davis cup teams from 1955 through 1958 —and the Aussies won the cup three times.

When he turned pro early this year for a $100,000 guarantee over a 3-year period, he surprised everyone by his early record as he posted wins over Gonzales, Frank Sedgman, Ken Rosewall and Francisco Segura. He was runner-up to Hoad in the $15,000 Perth tourney.

While Cooper has a 3-year guarantee of $100,000, under the Jack Kramer tour plan, he can hike those earnings even higher because of an added-incentive percentage arrangement at each stop of the 60-match tour.

Spider Weaves 33rd Victory

TKOs Rivers, Makes Little Progress Toward Title Bout

Chicago —AP— Slashing "Spider" Webb has spun himself into a corner as far as the middleweight title is concerned.

Webb wove his 33rd victory against only four defeats Wednesday night with a fourth round technical knockout off Neal Rivers, but it got him nowhere in his pursuit of "Sugar" Ray Robinson's 160-pound championship.

Webb carved Rivers into bloody submission in 1:49 of the fourth round in their scheduled TV 10-rounder.

Must Wait

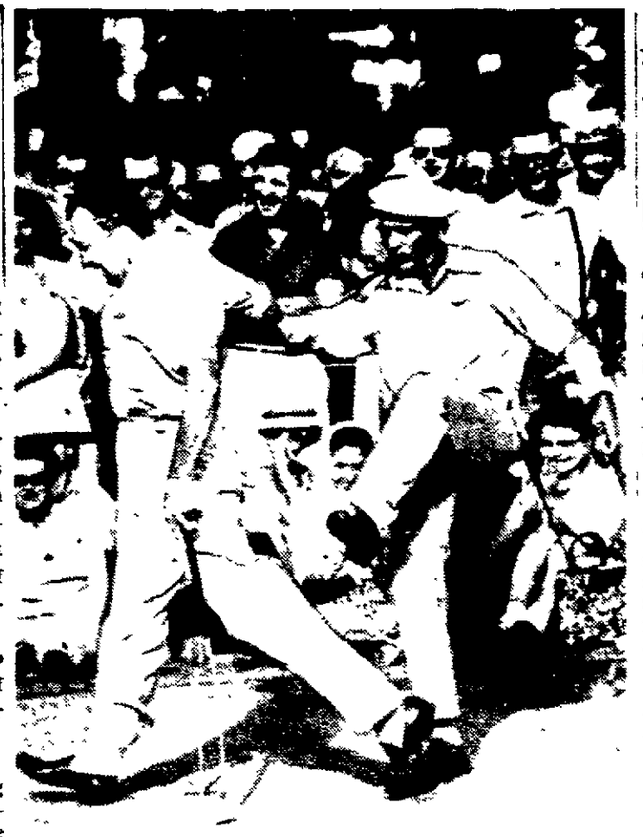

With mystery surrounding Robinson's future plans concerning a middleweight title defense, Webb apparently must sit out in the bleachers and wait for something to happen.

If Robinson, under court pressure, decides to defend his title, his opponent obviously will be Carmen Basilio, the man he dethroned March 25, 1958.

If Robinson is stripped of his title, the National Boxing association will call for an heir-apparent match between Basilio and Gene Fullmer, the winner to meet third-ranked Webb.

In the third round of Wednesday night's one-sided match, Webb floored his Las Vegas, Nev., foe for an 8-count with a sizzling right to the head. Rivers, however climbed back on his feet and exploded a right flush to the chin which sent Webb reeling from the middle of the ring into the ropes.

Webb shook off the desperation punch, grinned and continued to carve Rivers' gory visage.

at Madison. School record-holding miler Don Loker has been running well in practice and seems likely to push his AHS standard of 4:35.9 even lower.

Tank Hits 11-6

Pole vaulter Dennis Tank, who placed second at Madison at 11 feet, has hit 11-6 in practice. The Terror medley relay team, ran a good 3:47.6 mile in Tuesday night's workout, without starting blocks.

That clocking is just two-tenths of a second off its section-winning time at Madison.

Kinziger may move Tank into the medley relay alignment Friday, taking over the 220 leg of Mike Franzke in an experiment. Or Tank, one of the only five Terror lettermen, might run with the half mile relay team.

A group of sophomores has been showing up well in workouts thus far, and big contributions from this group will be necessary for the Terrors to have a successful season.

List Sophomores

The sops include: Wayne Polzin and Don Brock, 220 men; Dave Prosse, 220 and 100; Bill Caesar, broad jump; Pete Kafura (who has been bothered by a cold) in the dashes; Pete Glasheen and Dennis Gillespie, 440 and 880, Bill Ryle and Jack Swanson, mile; Gene Bloedorn, high jump and Dick Emerick, hurdles.

The Terror squad has been working out nightly but cool weather has, to some extent, hampered drills. A dual meet was scheduled at the last minute against Sheboygan North last Friday, but was rained out.

There are 16 lettermen on the Fond du Lac roster. The team's star is Darrell McArthur, one of the state's top high jumpers, who hit 6-2 last season. McArthur may also run the high hurdles, the 100-yard dash and on a relay team.

Other Stars

Other leading Cardinal performers include "Tally" Bosin, a quarter miler, and dashman Dick Zoelle. Zoelle pulled a muscle in the Madison West relays and it has hampered him.

All-around athletes Darwin Rose and Mike Murphy are Fondy weightmen.

The Cardinals, who had a 2-3 dual record last season and finished sixth in the FRVC meet, were one of four Class A teams which failed to score a point at Madison.

Patterson Goes Through Hard, 4-Round Workout

Indianapolis —AP— The principals were set to sign the contract today for the Floyd Patterson - Brian London heavyweight championship fight May 1.

Champion Patterson and challenger London were ready to trade signatures at the Indiana Statehouse. They'll trade punches at the State Fairgrounds coliseum.

Patterson ripped through a hard workout Wednesday, going four rounds.

London's trainer, Nick Baffi, found lighter and faster sparmates he was seeking to sharpen up the former British titlist.

Committee Unworried About Rose Bowl Game's Future

Pasadena, Calif. —AP— The Tournament of Roses football committee isn't worrying about the possibility of the Big Ten dropping the Rose bowl pact after 1960.

Lathrop Leishman, committee chairman, says he has every reason to believe that the Athletic Association of Western Universities could come up with a suitable opponent for the annual New Year's day game.

He declined to speculate on who the opponent might be. Teams mentioned unofficially, however, include Army, Navy, the Air Force, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Syracuse and a host of potentials in the south.

Leishman said the friendliest of relations have existed with Big Ten teams that have played in the Rose bowl, but he added: "If the faculty doesn't like us and votes against the game we'll certainly have no hard feelings."

Nothing will be decided until the Big Ten's spring meeting, May 23, said Leishman.

Wilbur Johns, athletic director at UCLA, said that if the Big Ten drops the football pact there will be no difficulty finding opponents.

Little Leaguers Will Sign Up Saturday

Sponsors' Roster Completed; Players' Try-Outs Slated to Start May 2

Registration for Appleton's Little league baseball candidates will be held at two sites at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Eastern division players will sign up at the South Side Athletic club while Western division candidates are to register at the VFW hall, Oneida street is the dividing line between east and west for Appleton's first Little league season.

Any boy who will not reach his thirteenth birthday before Aug. 1 will be eligible to compete.

Bring Information

For Saturday's registration, parents are asked to see that their sons bring this information on a slip of paper: name, age, birth date, address, and telephone number. When each boy registers, he will be assigned a number. This number should then be written on a piece of white cloth with a black crayon and pinned onto his jacket, for identification purposes at try-outs.

Try-outs will begin at 10 a. m. Saturday, May 2. Western division try-out site is Linwood park. For the Eastern division, it is the South Side Athletic club field.

The first 50 boys in the 12-year-old group will participate in the initial try-outs. A second group of 50 boys (Nos. 51 through 100) in the 12-year-old bracket will report at 2 p. m. Saturday, May 2.

Play Starts in June

Try-outs will continue for the first two weeks of May, with everyone being given a chance. The date for the start of try-outs for the 11-year-olds has not been set. It will depend on how many there are in the "12" bracket and on whether the weather forces any postponements.

League play is scheduled to begin June 6.

Direct 'Sugar' To Sign for Basilio Bout

New York —AP— Supreme Court Justice Saul Streit Wednesday directed middleweight champion "Sugar" Ray Robinson to agree to defend his title against Carmen Basilio within 15 days or face loss of his crown.

The court, in a 12-page decision, upheld the power of the State Athletic commission to choose the challenger for a championship bout and to fix the date.

Justice Streit said, however, that the commission could not, according to its own rules, have the authority to pick the place for the fight.

Robinson went to the courts after the commission, on April 3, ordered him to sign for a defense against Basilio by noon, April 15, or face loss of his championship.

The commission took the action under its rules requiring champions to defend every six months.

Robinson hasn't fought since he regained the title by outpointing Basilio, of Chittenango, N.Y., at Chicago, March 25, 1958.

Viking Golfers Open Against Beloit and Knox

Collins, Rasmussen Will Head 10-Man Squad

After being slowed by the weather, a 10-man Lawrence college golf squad is working extra hard this week preparing for its season - opening match Saturday.

The Vikes will play a triangular against Beloit and Knox at Beloit. Knox has already had three matches and Beloit two.

Because of unfavorable weather, the Vikes weren't able to get in their first full round of play until Tuesday. They received permission to use the Menasha North Shore course for their qualifying test. Another qualifying round in the next day or so will determine Saturday's lineup, according to Coach Bernie Heselton.

Collins at No. 1

On the basis of play so far, it looks as if letterman Neil Collins will play at No. 1 and sophomore Jim Rasmussen at No. 2, with the rest of the spots wide open. In most matches, five players will see action.

Collins also played at No. 1 last year and placed among the top five in the Midwest conference meet.

Rasmussen was a member of Madison West High's state championship team two years ago.

The other returning lettermen are Dick Lintvedt, who played both 3 and 4 last year, and Bob Sharp, who was No. 5.

Rounding out the squad are senior Jim Adley; junior Ray Sherman; and sophomores Bill Levis, Bob Blust, John Luenberger and John Krueger.

Harvey Bowers Blasts 593 Set

Harvey Bowers cleaned up game and series honors in the latest edition of American league kegling at Freedom. He bounced a 241 game and a 593 threesome.

Other high counts: Bill Danforth, 587; Don Vandenberg, 586; Bill Greiner, 581; Bob McGinnis, 579; Carl Greiner, Jr. 573; Ken Uhlenbrauck, 570.

Vacation Benefits Rise, Report Shows

BY SYLVIA PORTER

At the Hospital Saving association in Chapel Hill, N.C., employes this year will begin to get increased vacation allowances ranging from two weeks and a day in the sixth year of employment to a holiday of three weeks after nine years on the job.

Porter

At Molson's brewery in Toronto, Canada, plant employes with three or more years' seniority get one extra week of vacation during the fall or winter period, in addition to the regular vacation of two weeks during the summer.

Soon, the peak vacation season of the year will be on. You're only a normal employe if during these exquisite weeks you're spending a lot of minutes (at your desk as well as away from it) day-dreaming about your coming holiday. And you're also only normal if you're spending more minutes wondering how your vacation setup compares with that of millions of other employes in offices and factories.

Vacation Policies

Here is the pattern of 1959 vacation policies, drawn from a study of practices among large and small organizations in all types of business and industry.

Throughout the United States and Canada, vacation policies are being perceptibly liberalized this year. "Not one company reports a retrenchment in vacation allowances," one corporation says in an analysis privately circulated among its own corporation clients. "All changes made are leaning toward a liberalizing policy . . . ."

Three significant vacation policy trends are apparent:

Seniority Counts

More and more corporations are giving employes with seniority additional vacation allowances. The "most common" change is the addition of a third week of vacation for employes with 15 or more years of service. A few companies are adding a fourth week for 25 years of service. Others are giving a third week after five, 10 or 20 years on the job.

More and more managements are extending the vacation period throughout the year. A 1958 survey found 65 per cent of the companies permitted vacations at any time in the year. Its 1959 survey shows 72 per cent favoring a year - round holiday scheduling time.

And more and more companies are adopting lenient attitudes toward split vacations. Last year 50 per cent of the companies in the survey reported policies permitting employes to split their vacations. This year nearly 70 per cent say they allow splitting.

Explains Travel

It is this vacation background which explains the ever-rising volume of holiday travel to new peaks year after year. In 1959 it's already certain that Americans who travel overseas will top the record 1,410,000 who went abroad last year and spent an all-time high $2.1 billion. It's already sure that 1958's peak of 90,000,000 American travelers within our borders spending over $15 billion will be beaten in 1959.

And it is this vacation background which is spurring industries catering to holiday-goers to new heights, sending all types of leisure - time activities into an explosive boom.

A final point for your day-dream comparisons: This year both Memorial day and Independence day fall on Saturday, an accident of the calendar which gives me zero pleasure.

More than one-third of a cross - section of another 270 companies in 38 states surveyed say they're allowing clerical employes a day off either the Friday before or Monday after each holiday. More than one-quarter are doing the same for plant workers. And well over half will give workers whose vacations include these holiday weekends an extra pay or a choice of either a day or pay.

'Babies' Make North-South Quarter-Finals

The two "babies" among the survivors of Wednesday's double round shelling will appear in an upper bracket match. Jack Nicklaus, a long-hitting, 19-year-old from Columbus, Ohio, faced 20-year-old Don Essig of Indianapolis and Baton Rouge, La.

The winner of their match goes into Friday's 18 - hole semifinals against the victor of a duel between two veterans—Mal Galletta, 38-year-old limousine rental service operator from Old Westbury, N.Y., and 46-year-old Bob Cochran of St. Louis.

Gene Andrews, 45-year-old insurance salesman from Pacific Palisades, Calif., and John Guenther, 26, of Reading, Pa. met in the first half of the lower half.

Completing the schedule, tall, balding 44-year-old Jack Penrose of Miami, Fla., met former champion Bill Campbell, 35-year - old insurance man and former legislator from Huntington, W.Va.

Shop Officials, AVS Students At Tool Clinic

A tool clinic for 68 engineers, supervisors and shop workers and about 20 Appleton Vocational school students was held Wednesday at Machinery and Supplies, Inc., 110 N. Outagamie street.

Surface treatments, drill point modifications, grinding techniques, and demonstrations of high speed cutting tools were on the program.

A small portable drill press synchronized with a stop clock demonstrated the difference in end thrust or speed of penetration using different drill point designs.

The program was directed by A. A. O'Sickey, engineering representative, and Ralph Gundlack, sales representative, of Standard Tool company, Cleveland.

Big Three of Comedy Meet in Hollywood

Regret Passing of Pantomime, Universal in Its Humor Appeal

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood —AP— The big international news this week is the summit conference of the big three of comedy—France's Jacques Tati, England's Stan Laurel and America's Mack Sennett.

Their decision: The world needs more pantomime comedy.

The meeting came about because of a remark by Tati in an interview months ago. He said that if he ever went to Hollywood, he would like to meet and pay homage to Laurel and Sennett. When the French comedy maker came here to get an Oscar for "My Uncle" as the best foreign language film, the meeting was arranged.

It took place on the porch of the Garden Court apartments, a block from Grauman's Chinese on Hollywood boulevard. Sennett, who is recovering from a gallstone operation, has lived there for years. Stan, the thin, surviving member of the great Laurel and Hardy team, came in from his seaside home.

Laurel Quip

It was Laurel who got the biggest laugh. Mentally alert despite a stroke that paralyzed his left side, he commented about his future work: "I'm available, but only for statue roles."

There was much laughter at the meeting: Hollywood boulevard rang with Laurel's great cackle, Sennett's booming guffaw and Tati's gallic giggling.

The Frenchman told and demonstrated the funniest scene he had ever witnessed: a real-life newsreel in which the president of France tried vainly to dispose of his top hat in order to present a huge floral wreath at a monument.

Admired Fields

Tati expressed his admiration for W C Fields, and Sennett told how the comic always demanded his salary in advance. "Supposing the studio burns down," Fields reasoned

The trio talked, of course, about comedy and they lamented the decline of the pantomime art.

"Everything is talk, talk, talk now in comedy," Sennett complained. "You have to listen closely, and if you don't hear well enough, you might miss the punch line."

"It's true " Laurel nodded

Universal Art

"Pantomime is universal," Tati added. "Everyone can understand it It wears well The films you fellows did are just as funny today, but the talking comedies become dated in 10 years "

They discussed their volume of work. Perfectionist Tati had made but four films Laurel "a couple of hundred " Sennett 1,000— But I started early " They talked and laughed for almost an hour, then parted, the two older men returning to retirement and Tati going back to France to continue his work for the pantomime art.

2 Former State Men in Concert Set at Green Bay

Two Wisconsin natives are members of the Chicago Symphony Woodwind quintet, guest artists for the final concert of the season of the Green Bay Symphonette May 3 at West High school in Green Bay.

They are Jerome Stowell, clarinetist, formerly of Green Bay, and Ralph Johnson, flutist, formerly of Beloit.

The concert, scheduled to begin at 8 15 p m., will include popular concert favorites with the featured work by the quintet on Mozart's "Sinfonie Concertante for Clarinet, Oboe, Horn and Bassoon in E Flat."

Despite Fame Of 'Gigi,' Film Musicals Few

Dancer Gene Kelly Turns to Television For Newest Show

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood —AP— Here's an oddity: Hollywood has acclaimed "Gigi" the No 1 movie of 1958, yet production of other musicals is almost at a standstill

Nary a tune-film is shooting in Hollywood today Only one appears on the production schedule for future months Fred Astaire is doing his first straight-acting role and recent acclaim for his dancing stems from his TV spectacular

Gene Kelly

Now another great from the movie musicals — Gene Kelly — has taken his art to the home screen. He readily admitted that the reason is the collapse of theater musicals.

"I decided to take on TV because a picture deal fell through," he explained. "I was going to make a musical with J. Arthur Rank, appearing with Mona Shearer and Robert Morely. But it was called off—I guess the Rank organization is going in more for television "

Theater Best

So Gene took one of his long standing offers to write his own ticket on TV He has been rehearsing for weeks for his extravaganza, which will show on CBS Friday night Always the perfectionist he has been taping many of the numbers to get big screen quality

"It isn't easy, even with the use of tape," he sighed Television isn't really a dancer's medium The limitation in the size of the screen is obvious The viewer doesn't want to see a closeup of the ballerina's face, he wants to see the movement of her whole body and her relationship to the other dancers

Nor are movies the final answer The best way to see dancing is in the theater, where you get the kinetic sense of three dimensions."

Dance Films No Risk

"I've got a few more years of dancing in me," he said. "I can go into the straight dramatic parts; I've done them all along But I'd still like to make some more musicals.

"I can understand the reluctance of the producers Musicals generally cost a lot more money, and they don't want to get tied up with a big investment that might not pay off "

"I think song pictures are risky " he said "Foreign audiences don't understand the songs, you can't use sub-titles because the translations won't rhyme The classic example is 'The King and I,' in which so much of the story was told with songs. They don't translate

"But I don't feel that dance pictures are a risk. Dance is something that every audience can understand, regardless of language "

600 Catholics To Attend Pulaski Rally

Green Bay Diocese Priests, Laymen Will Meet Sunday

About 600 Catholic priests and lay delegates from Holy Name Societies in the Green Bay diocese will attend the biennial Holy Name convention Sunday afternoon at St. Mary Catholic school, Pulaski.

The priests and delegates will hear talks by Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona, honorary president of the Diocesan Holy Name Union, and by the Rev. Denis McCarthy, O.P., New York, national director of the society.

Two Fox Cities area delegates, Eugene Schwaller, Clintonville, and Frank Drexler, Oshkosh, are candidates for the office of treasurer.

Featurama Exhibits

A series of seven exhibits, designed and erected for the convention, will be viewed by delegates. The general business session will adopt resolutions, plan future activities, and elect officers for a 2-year period.

Bishop Bona's talk will be titled "The Holy Name Society is the Pulse of the Parish," a slogan which has gained national acceptance.

Father McCarthy, a featured speaker, has been national director of the Holy Name Society since April, 1956. Before that he was vice president of Providence college, Providence, R.I. He holds a degree in sacred theology and a master of arts degree from the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C. He received his doctor of philosophy degree from Yale and has served as a chaplain in England and France in World war II.
